Man with pockets of cash arrested for sleeping in park

United Press International
SANTA MONICA, Calif. — A disheveled old man sleeping in a park was arrested for vagrancy but the $19,000 in cash and checks he was carrying made police realize he was not a run-of-the-mill bum.

dispute with his landlord. "I used to have a car," he said, "but it was stolen from a parking lot." Jensen also said he had another $30,000 in the bank, said he receives government ability checks for a nervous disorder he suffered in military.

The man told police he refused to pay $35 for a hotel room.

Officer Kenneth Hillman arrested Raymond Edward Jensen, 67, as he slept Sunday night wrapped in a plastic poncho under a palm tree in Palisades Park overlooking the beach.

Hillman took Jensen to the station where he was booked for lodging in a public place. But the police realized they were not dealing with a run-of-the-mill bum when they looked in Jensen's beat-up Army fatigue jacket and found $11,178.95 in cash, $6,600 in traveler's checks, $1,130 in uncashed government disability checks and $110 in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Jensen said he had been sleeping in the park for about a month since leaving his residence in Glendale, Calif., after a

Blood fat norm seen "too high"

United Press International
NEW YORK — Two doctors say many heart attack victims have cholesterol levels that are considered normal, indicating the "normal" level may be set too high.

Drs. Joseph Goldstein and Michael S. Brown of the University of Texas Health Center in Dallas said the standards need to be reconsidered.

In a lecture prepared for delivery Tuesday at the Mount Sinai Medical Center, they said most patients who have heart attacks have cholesterol levels that are considered normal for the population.

"Yet, sufficient plasma LDL (low density lipoprotein) cholesterol was deposited in their coronary arteries to produce an occlusion," they said.

"The question we would now like to address is as follows: Are the plasma LDL-cholesterol levels we consider normal, really normal, or might the normal values actually be excessively high?"

The Merck Manual says an abnormal cholesterol level is "greater than 200 milligrams over 100 milliliters plus the person's age."

The text of the Goldstein-Brown lecture will be published in the December's Clinical Research.

Brown and Goldstein were to accept the 1982 Lita Annenberg Hazen Award for Excellence in Clinical Research, which carries a $100,000 prize.

The two Dallas researchers were chosen for their work in identifying the LDL receptor pathway, the mechanism by which body cells obtain cholesterol, and determining how an inherited defect in this pathway can lead to heart attacks. They first discovered the receptors that bind LDL in 1972. Low density lipoproteins are large, complex particles that carry cholesterol to cells throughout the body. Cholesterol is essential for building the outer membrane of cells.
