Gunman holding hostages

United Press International GRAND BLANC, Mich. — A man armed with a rifle wearing plastic explosives around his waist and neck and two police officers and his two hostages Wednesday on a street in front of his home, police said.

Police barricaded the residential neighborhood of Grand Blanc Township south of Flint and sent a special negotiating team to the scene in an effort to talk the gunman into surrendering.

Witnesses said the man threatened to blow up himself and his four hostages, but were no immediate reports of injuries. The man's name is not released.

"Apparently there's a man who has wrapped himself in plastic explosives and is armed. He also has 50 pounds of dynamite and 50 pounds of TNT in the house," a police spokesman said. "We are negotiating with the man at this time."

Dozens of state and local police officers were sent to the scene along with area firefighters and paramedics.

Police said two officers went to the man's house at about 10 a.m. to arrest him on a warrant from Texas.

The man, apparently expecting the arrest, had attached explosives to his body and pulled a gun on the officers on a street in front of the home, police said.

Many neighbors, ignoring police requests to stay inside their homes, gathered on their lawns to watch the drama unfold.

A woman who lives across the street said the gunman was sitting there.

She added: "He's not cooperating. He's not saying anything. Police said the man, who was unemployed, had been depressed for some time and tried to commit suicide within the last couple of months by taking an overdose of pills."

"I understand there is a possible warrant he was concerned about. I'm not sure what it's about," a state police spokesman said.

Winnings returned to gambler

United Press International LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — You're in Texas and agree to place a bet for an Arkansas student, you can't take the money and run if the "Arkie" wins.

That ruling was handed down today by the Arkansas Court of Appeals in a lawsuit over a horse race bet.

Evelyn Sellers of Texarkana, Ark., gave Lucy Lee of Texarkana, Texas, $110 dollars in November of 1981 with instructions to bet it on a horse race in Louisiana.

The horse won and paid $1,198 dollars on Sellers' bet, but Sellers filed a lawsuit, contending she never collected her winnings.

Lee contended that she had given the winnings to Sellers. But even so, she said their agreement amounted to a "wager contract" made in Texas, which was unenforceable under Louisiana law.

A Miller County jury found Sellers' favor, but Circuit Judge John Goodson set aside the verdict and ruled in favor of Lee.
