Mourning our grades

Dead week is next week, which means finals inevitably follow. Sandy Gavlick, a freshman from San Antonio studying secondary education prepares for the upcoming event in the proper manner, as she mocks the scholastic death of many fellow Aggies. She appropriates herself with all the proper paraphernalia to survive the week — calculator, books, aspirin, course, spirits to revive the dead.

Kansas hotel owner killed

United Press International
HUGOTON, Kan. — Stevens County authorities have charged two young men, including one who claimed to be the victim's foster son, with first-degree murder in the shooting death of a 60-year-old hotel owner found in a shallow grave. John Thomas Jones Jr., 22, and James Michael Gann, 18, also were charged late Wednesday with conspiracy to commit murder and the theft of a television set, pickup truck and cash, County Attorney Jim Kuharic said.

The two were being held in the county jail in lieu of $500,000 bail each, he said. Although both men were from Dallas, they had been living for a time in the Argus Hotel owned by Lewis Oliver Price, Kuharic said.

Jones was arrested early Tuesday in Dallas and told Stevens County Sheriff Russ DeWitt by phone where to look for Price's body, DeWitt said. Gann was arrested in Elkhart later Tuesday.

Authorities discovered Price's body about 4 a.m. Tuesday buried on the edge of a sand dune area outside the small southwest Kansas town.

DeWitt said he believed Price was shot twice in the back of the head while he was in bed in his hotel apartment between 12:30 a.m. and 3 a.m. Sunday.

Authorities had not known of the slaying until late Monday. Ironically, officials were on their way to the Argus Hotel to arrest Jones on a charge of selling marijuana when they received a theft report from his brother, Bruce, late Monday. Upon arrival, they found blood in Price's apartment.

DeWitt said Bruce Jones reported Price's color television had been stolen. Price's pickup also was taken, along with jewelry, money and other items worth $6,000 to $8,000.

Jones was captured by police in Dallas after his brother told Kansas officials the suspect was seen by a friend at a truck stop there.

The sheriff said that although the brothers claimed to be Price's foster sons, they were not. They had lived in the Argus Hotel for four or five months after moving to Hugoton, Dallas, he said.

Price bought the downtown hotel about a year ago after he retired as a chemist of Mobil Research Development in Dallas, who held a Ph.D. in chemistry and had worked for Mobil for 20 years.

Services were scheduled for Thursday in Phillips County Home in Hugoton. Burial will be later in the week in the cemetery, Mansfield.

Price's survivors included adopted son, James Price of Dallas, and three sons, Kenneth Wright, Robert Smith, both of Dallas.

Price's wife and daughter died in 1971 and he adopted James Sullivan, a funeral home spokesman.

Two men indicted in bank loan fraud

United Press International
CANYON — Two men involved in an alleged video game scam that led to the collapse of an Amarillo bank were indicted by a Randall County grand jury on felony theft charges, officials said.

Williams S. Solsbee, a former Fort Worth publisher who now lives in Oklahoma City, and Charles Chris Allen, a former Amarillo police officer, were indicted Wednesday on felony charges of theft of property, fraud, said a spokesman for the district attorney's office.

Solsbee, who operated video games in Dallas, received $455,000 in loans from the Texas Bank of Amarillo, defaulted on the loans and filed for bankruptcy in October.

Allen allegedly acted as Solsbee's partner by finding investors in the video game
