planning an overall treatment program," Thompson said. The 18 staff members include physical therapists, occupational therapists, speech pathologists, social workers, psychologists and some administrative personnel. The center also offers several supplementary services, including a summer swimming program for handicapped children, a summer day camp for hearing-impaired children, a program that loans wheelchairs, crutches, walkers and canes and an orthopedic clinic for crippled children. Thompson said that the services patients receive at the center are excellent compared to the type of service they would receive in Houston, Austin or Waco.

Tips to mail theft will bring reward

At 5:35 p.m. on Nov. 24, at a post office on 25th Street in Bryan, a female postal employee was returning to her mail van with two canvas mail bags. As she unlocked the driver's door, she heard someone walk up behind her. The suspect sprayed a liquid on the postal employee's face, which caused a burning sensation.

in her eyes. He grabbed the mail bags and last was seen heading west toward Parker. The suspect is described as a 35-year-old male, 6 feet 2 inches tall, 160 pounds and was wearing a dark blue ski mask, a black jacket, blue jeans and tennis shoes. Shortly before the theft, witnesses reported seeing a black Oldsmobile or a dark-colored Oldsmobile with a damaged passenger door.

Man sells dirty film, fined $1

HOUSTON — A jury agreed with police that the movie sold by Jesse Diablo, 65, was obscene, but fined him only $1 because he felt sorry for him, court records showed Tuesday. Diablo, who is from Chicago and employed as a clerk at Mr. Peper's Bookstore, was arrested June 18 after he sold an undercover Houston police officer the movie "The China Doll." He was convicted Friday promoting material offensive to the community and the jury assessed him the minimal fine.

"We felt he was a kind of scapegoat. We would like to have seen the owner of the store arrested instead of a clerk," Frank Diablo, who recently moved to Houston, said he could not work in the construction field, and the only job available was as a bookstore clerk. "We would have liked to have seen a collection to send him back home," Frank said. The prosecutor in the case argued the movie was obscene and Diablo deserved to be punished. But defense lawyer Mike Maness said the film contains sex scenes which can be tolerated by the community.

However, Frank said the jury decided that the movie was defamatory and obscene. Diablo told the jury he never returned to work after his arrest, but evidence in the case proved that was a lie. Diablo was arrested a second time for allegedly selling obscene material to an undercover agent several days later. He is likely to enter a plea bargain for the second case, the prosecutor said.

million. Now Mark isn't costing the federal government anything — he's supporting himself from his job. But the center needs more room — 4,000 square feet isn't enough, Thompson said. The new center, which will be built on the corner of Kemp Street and Memorial in Bryan, will have more than four times as much room — 16,700 square feet — in its first phase and will replace the present facilities on East 29th Street.

The second phase will house classrooms for physically handicapped children. Thompson said the expansion will tie the children's rehabilitation and education together, which will make it easier for them to attend regular schools.

The third phase of the new building will have a therapeutic pool and cardiac rehabilitation center, which now is available only through Texas A&M University, Thompson said. After the third phase is built, the center will continue to cooperate with the University on the cardiac rehabilitation program, he said.

No starting date has been set for the last two phases, Thompson said, each phase will be built as the money becomes available, he said.
