Police go to Volvos, new look

United Press International
ADDISON — The police department of this Dallas suburb plans to shift to a distinctive "European look" after the first of the year when it trades in its Chevy Malibu patrol cars for Swedish-made Volvos.

City Manager Ron Whitehead said the move away from American-made autos to imports is a smart one.

"We researched it extensively and didn't just consider the up-front price," he said. "In the long run, it's a good deal because they get better gas mileage, and the safety construction is excellent."

Whitehead said the Addison police now use an average of 9 miles per gallon while the Volvos road tested at 15 miles per gallon.

Volvos are the police car of choice in only two other American cities, Rapid City, N.D., and Falls Church, Va., according to city officials.

"Overall, we've gotten good service from them," Rapid City patrolman Paul Zoller told city officials. "At first, we got a lot of flak from the public for getting a foreign car."

Whitehead said he did not expect any protests from Addison residents. He said the only response to the proposed switch was favorable.

"The council was pleased. The officers are quite pleased. Everyone is pleased," he said. "They'll have a European look which is kind of neat. When police cars are distinctive, it's more of a deterrent factor."

That "European look" came last summer by another Dallas suburb, University Park, didn't sit well with residents there. Police tested a used Mercedes Benz, but taxpayers raised a ruckus and the car disappeared.

Now you know

United Press International
MADISON, Wis. — Santa could use more than cookies and milk this year when he makes rounds — try leaving cash.

A consumer magazine figures his annual sojourn to the children of the world would cost a grand total of $5,534,169,367.33. And that doesn't count batteries.

"Everybody's Money," a publication of the Credit Union National Association, Inc., lists Santa's expenditures in its winter issue. The biggest cost, naturally, was $10 in toys for each of the world's 553 million children.

The next biggest expense: labor — $1.55 million for toy-making elves and $450,000 for temporary clerks to be process requests.

— A WATS telephone line take incoming requests $10,337.33.

— A personal computer with a battery pack, so Santa can make his list and check it twice $2,140.

— Reindeer maintenance: $6,949.60 for a keeper, $1,806.75 for food and $200 for a reserve reindeer should he strike any of the regulars on Christmas Eve.

— Sleigh tuneup: $30 for repairs and oiling the harness.

— Insurance: $6,250 liability to cover roof repairs, $1.5 million liability and $5.15 million one day's travel insurance.

— Clothing: red suit, $50; thermal underwear (size XXXL) $45, dry cleaning $3.80.

— Air traffic fees: waived by the Federal Aviation Administration.
