800 reportedly got wrong drugs

United Press International
WASHINGTON — Nearly 800 patients in U.S. hospitals were incorrectly given radioactive medicine during an 18-month period ending last June, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission reports in an internal study.

Because the NRC was able to obtain reports from only 30 states for its survey, the actual number of patients receiving the wrong type or dosage of radioactive drugs is likely to be much higher.

The medical study is reported in Monday's edition of Science Trends Newsletter.

The commission found the kinds of mistakes made by health care personnel administering radioactive medicine included giving patients the wrong drug, giving the medicine to the wrong patient, using incorrect methods to administer the drug and giving the wrong dosage.

About 12 million Americans receive radioactive medicine each year. While radiation therapy to treat cancer is best known to the public, mildly radioactive isotopes are commonly administered, orally or intravenously, to help physicians diagnose diseases.

The NRC reported 798 patients in the 30 states were "mis-administered" radioactive substances from January 1981 through June 1982. Of that number, 98 percent involved "the diagnostic use of isotopes," rather than treatment.

The remaining 14 incidents involved various forms of radiation therapy.

The report stressed that when the millions of annual doses of radioactive drugs are considered, the rate of error in administering the medicine is no higher than one-tenth of 1 percent.

The NRC did not state whether any of the 798 patients were harmed by the medical mistakes, but radiology experts told Science Trends there was no reason to believe anyone was injured. They argued the error rate for nuclear medicine is lower than for other types of medical care.

Nonetheless, the government study warned, "We believe the data highlight potential problem areas that licensees could review to assess the adequacy of their procedures and training programs."

It noted that giving radiopharmaceuticals or giving radioactive medicine to the wrong patient accounts for more than 90 percent of the mistakes.

"The primary causes of errors appear to be errors associated with and identifying radiopharmaceuticals stored in lead or untagged kits, the preparation of nuclear medicine prescriptions and patient identification," NRC concluded.

Pulitzer denies misconduct tag

United Press International
NEW YORK — Roxanne Pulitzer says she did nothing to warrant being called an unfit mother and blames lawyers in her divorce trial for making her and Peter Pulitzer enemies, a People magazine interview says.

Pulitzer's divorce trial left her without custody of her twin sons or and without claims to her ex-husband's estimated $12 million fortune. She recently hired palimony lawyer Marvin Mitchelson to try to get her children back.

During the 18-day divorce proceeding in Palm Beach, Fla., Pulitzer accused his wife of having several affairs.

Florida Circuit Court Judge Carl Harper ruled Mrs. Pulitzer guilty of "gross moral misconduct," and gave custody of her twins, 5, to their father.

"Why do people think I am an unfit mother?" Mrs. Pulitzer said. "I never did anything to warrant those kinds of accusations. The lawyers made it that kind of a divorce."

She hired Mitchelson to handle her appeal.

Once a marriage breaks down it doesn't matter who slept with whom," Mitchelson told the magazine.

"He's making the mother of his children look like a gypsy."

Detroit's one-chip city now

United Press International
DETROIT — Detroit is known as the Motor City and at one time it could have been called Potato Chip Town, too. Now the city has become a one-chip town.

The city, the nation's potato chip consumption capital, is down to one potato chip manufacturer with the newly announced closure of Superior Potato Chips. Teamster union members voted Saturday to accept the 53-year-old company's severance pay offer of $90 for each year of service.

Even without a large number of chip makers in the city, Detroit is easily the No. 1 potato chip-eating city in the country. The Potato Chip-Snack Food Association says Detroiters eat some 7 pounds of potato chips annually, compared with the national consumption average of 4.3 pounds.

The closing of Superior makes Better Made the city's only chip maker. In the late 1940s, there were 20 potato chip manufacturers in Detroit.
