

Witness in Chagra trial testifies to sale of weapon

United Press International
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — A Dallas sporting goods salesman testified in the murder trial of Jamiel "Jimmy" Chagra that he sold the high-powered rifle the government contends was used to assassinate a San Antonio federal judge in May 1979.

Brad M. Spencer, 23, whose father owns Hunter-Bradley Co. of Dallas, said he sold a Wetherby Mark V .240-caliber rifle, Leupold scope and two boxes of .240 ammunition on May 17, 1979, to a woman who identified herself as Fay L. King.

Jo Ann Starr Harrelson, the wife of convicted hit man Charles V. Harrelson, has been convicted of using the alias Fay L. King to buy the rifle.

Wood, who was scheduled to preside at Chagra's narcotics trial, was shot in the back with a bullet from a high-powered rifle on May 29, 1979, as he left his San Antonio townhouse for work.

The trial of Chagra was moved to Jacksonville because of extensive pre-trial publicity in Texas.

Under cross-examination Tuesday by Chagra's attorney, Oscar Goodman of Las Vegas, Nev., Spencer acknowledged he lied to the FBI agent who interviewed him Aug. 6, 1981, when he said he had seen federally required identification from the woman calling herself Fay L. King.

"There was one time when I sold a gun to a lady without a driver's license. This could have been that time," Spencer conceded. "I was more worried about what my dad would do if he found out that I had not followed the customary procedures."

He said the woman came into the Dallas store and said she was looking for a rifle for her husband. When asked for a driver's license at the time of purchase, she said she didn't have it with her. Since she lived in Greenville, she asked if she could get the number by phone, Spencer said.

"I allowed her to make the phone call and get the driver's license number for the Form 4473 (U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms)," he said.

Spencer was one of a parade of government witnesses Tuesday that included three FBI agents, four motel employees, a telephone company record-keeper, a former assistant U.S. attorney, a cartographer and a parking lot attendant.

The witnesses identified such government documentary evidence as motel registration cards, folios and charges, telephone bills, the Form 4473 and sales receipt for the gun, a parking lot "audit" at the Midland airport and a 1979 map of Las Vegas, where Chagra lived.

This Desk Can Reach Mach 2.

Some desk jobs are more exciting than others.

As a Navy pilot or flight officer, your desk can be a sophisticated combination of supersonic jet aircraft and advanced electronic equipment. But you can handle it. Because Navy flight training gives you the navigation, aerodynamics and other technical know-how you need.

In return, Navy aviation demands something of you as an officer: Leadership.

Your path to leadership starts with officer training that's among the most demanding in the military. It's intensive leadership and professional schooling combined with rigorous Navy flight training. And it's all geared to prepare you and other college graduates for the unique challenge of Navy aviation. The program is tough but rewarding.

One important reward for Navy officers is decision-making authority. In the air, and on the ground, you have management responsibility from the beginning. And your responsibility grows as you gain experience.

No company can give you this kind of leadership responsibility this fast. And nothing beats the sheer excitement of Navy flying.

The salary is exciting, too. Right away, you'll earn about $18,300 a year. That's better than the average corporation will pay you just out of college. And with regular Navy promotions and other pay increases, your annual salary will soar to $31,100 after four years. That's on top of a full package of benefits and privileges.

Before you settle down to an earth-bound desk job, reach for the sky. Reach for the coupon. Find out what it takes to be part of the Naval Aviation Team. You could have a desk that flies at twice the speed of sound.
