'Josh is coming' to talk about love

by Susan Poole

Battalion Reporter
Josh McDowell, a traveling lecturer with the Campus Crusade for Christ, will speak tonight at 8 in Rudder Auditorium for an audience that has been alerted for weeks that "Josh is coming."

McDowell said Wednesday he will speak on being a good lover.

"How to be a good lover could well be one of the most important talks any college student could hear," McDowell said.

One of the greatest fears of college students today is not being loved and not being able to love, he said.

"People are bankrupt in the areas of sex, love and marriage, especially university students," McDowell said.

In the last 15 years McDowell has lectured to more than 7 million students on more than 600 campuses in 62 countries.

McDowell said in lectures at the University of Pittsburgh that almost all of the intellectual, moral and social problems people face today can be solved and that he is committed to providing the solutions to these problems.

McDowell said that as a student he was a religious skeptic and wanted to historically disprove Christ's resurrection. He says he never got past the first step. He not only failed to disprove the resurrection but actually found evidence to support it, he said. That's when he decided to become a Christian.

McDowell's experience was the basis for his best selling book, "Evidence That Demands a Verdict."

He said he began traveling with the crusade because he struggled as a student and wanted to make an impact on today's college students.

"I probably get more feedback from students than anyone else," he said.

McDowell, who lectured two years ago at Texas A&M, said he enjoyed his earlier visit here and is looking forward to coming back.

Student Senate accepts insurance policy bid

by Kelley Smith

Battalion Staff
At their meeting Wednesday night, the Student Senate approved a Student Insurance Resolution bid that they will recommend to the Texas A&M Office of Insurance and Risk Management.

Policy rates approved by the Senate are $192 for a single student, $481 for a student with one dependent and $675 for a student with two or more dependents. There is no deductible with the policy.

The original resolution called for a deductible of $100 with rates approximately $25 lower per person.

The policy approved during the 1981-82 school year was declared illegal by the federal government because of an optional maternity clause. Now, maternity coverage is considered an illness and is included in the policy.

About 11,000 students currently have the University student-only insurance plan.

In other business, a shuttle bus shelters was approved by the External Affairs committee. The bill mandates the construction of shelters and the installation of additional lighting at the bus stops.

Research will be done and a vote is taken on the bill, including a survey taken next week by the Government representatives. Tables will be set up at the Commons area bus stop near the Academic and Building and the Rudder Court to find out any problems students have with the buses.

The External Affairs committee also reported progress on the voter registration drive at the end of Tuesday, when students had registered in College Station.

The Senate also discussed the Student Government will sponsor Feb. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31.

The Conference on Government Associations will meet two years ago and include Texas colleges. This year five representatives from colleges all over the nation are attending.

But Clements' appointment as senator is not expected because of a fire at a "fraternity" house.

Now you know

United Press International
COLUMBIA, S.C.—The taste trends among food customers and operators in a recent survey.

The second annual Restaurants and Inns magazine found 22 percent of the respondents ate more often in 1982 than in 1981, according to an annual National Broiler Council letter.

More than 63 percent of foodservice operators said they had failed to sell in 1982.

About 20 percent of the er-fryer production in the United States goes to fast-food restaurants. That added up to 12 million pounds of air pollution on a ready-to-cook basis.

Sanctions on major proposals probably will be implemented, she said. Dallas is a punitive nation, not a clean air nation, she said.

Victor's Desktop Business Computer System.

Businesses today face a basic dilemma when it comes to selecting a computer.

So-called "personal" computers have limited power and capacity. They're just too small to be useful to most businesses.

And the larger mini computers are more expensive.

Victor has a solution to that dilemma.

The Victor 9000 Business Computer is priced under $4,000. Like a "personal."

Yet the Victor 9000 has a capacity that rivals the expensive minis.

A close look at the chart shows you just how the Victor 9000 compares.

The Victor gives you the kind of memory and storage capacity business applications demand. Much more than the IBM Personal Computer, the Apple III or their competitors.
