Doctor tells of violent captors

United Press International ALTON, Ill. — Dr. Hector Zevallos, the abortion clinic operator who was abducted and held captive for eights days by three members of the Army of God, says the three told him they had "bombed and burned" other abortion clinics. "They said they had bombed and burned clinics in the past," said Zevallos, "and they would continue to do so as long as abortion is legal."

Zevallos was the first witness called Tuesday at the trial of Don Benny Anderson, 42, of Pearland, Texas. Anderson is one of three men who allegedly abducted Zevallos and his wife, Rosalie Jean, from their Edwardsville home on Aug. 12. The three identified themselves as belonging to the Army of

The couple was held captive in an abandoned concrete bunk- her to be strong. er near Illiopolis for eight days until Zevallos agreed he would stop performing abortions at the clinic. They were taken back home and released unharmed.

Zevallos, a native of Peru, said he and his wife were kept blindfolded and handcuffed together, and constantly feared they would be killed.

"At every second, we thought we were going to be executed," said Zevallos. "I never thought that we'd be freed."

Zevallos. 53 was composed

Zevallos, 53, was composed during most of his testimony, but faltered when speaking of his wife. U.S. District Judge Wil-liam L. Beatty suggested a re-cess, but Zevallos waved him off.

"There was not one second that she did not cry," Zevallos said of his wife. "I tried to console her and tell her everything was all right. I was trying to get against abortion. Zevallos said he realized then they were "fanatics who would kill us without her in the country out he sitation." "He kept saying he talks to God," Zevallos said of Ander-

Zevallos identified Anderson as one of three men who came to his house the night of the abduction, and inquired about land the doctor had for sale. When they went outside to inspect the property, Zevallos said the three jumped him.

Zevallos said the concrete bunker was extremely hot, and had only a large can containing a plastic trash bag as a lavatory. He said he and his wife were given mostly peanut butter sandwiches and soda for food.

Zevallos said the three initially wanted money, but later forced him to make a tape asking President Reagan to speak out against abortion. Zevallos said son. "He said he gets the vibrations in his body and puts them into words.

Under cross-examination, Zevallos said he and his wife were not physically harmed, but added, "Emotionally we were harmed, and we are still Defense attorney Wayne T. Schoeneberg asked Zevallos about his clinic, and the doctor said it performed about 70 abortions a week at a minimum charge of $200. The doctor said the clinic had a yearly income of about $750,000 from abortions.

"Do you believe life begins at conception," Schoeneberg asked Zevallos.

The doctor hesitated, then answered, "I don't."

"Don't people picket the place all the time," asked the attorney.

'No," replied the doctor. The two others charged in the incident are brothers from New Caney, Texas. Wayne A. Moore, 18, pleaded gulty to a conspiracy charge and is expected to testify against Anderson. Matthew Moore, 20, is awaiting trial.

Anderson sat impassively during Tuesday's proceedings. He blew kisses to his wife and mouthed "I love you" when entering and leaving the courtroom. Anderson is charged only with conspiring and attempting to obstruct interstate commerce by threats of force.

State authorities have said they will await the outcome of the trial and possible sentencing before deciding whether to pursue kidnapping charges. Feder-al officials said the three defendants were not charged with kidnapping because they did not take the Zevalloses across state

ORIGINAL

In the age of information technology, a compa -whose sales of $1.7 billion annually and who products and components extend from data and sition and information processing through day communication to voice, video and graphic or munication — is making original thinking a realist for their new graduates.

ON CAMPUS INTERVIEWS February 18th

Electrical, Civil and Mechanical Engineering Computer Science and Technical Sales (EE, ME, CS) Majors

Make arrangements at the Placement Office its

An Equal Opportunity Employer, M/F/H/V

Cyanide threats puzzling

NEW ORLEANS — Officials arrested six people in connecpoisoning threats against dozens of Louisiana water systems and said they were close to more arrests today. The scare was not believed to be part of an orga-

An angry Gov. Dave Treen promised Tuesday to "spare no expense" in tracking down the callers, who had threatened to poison at least 53 water systems, and assembled a state-federal task force to combat the bizarre outbreak.

By late Tuesday authorities had arrested a 20-year-old Gonzales man and five teenagers in various communities. State police said more arrests were expected today.

"I want the perpetrators of this crime to know they will be prosecuted to the absolute limit of the law," Treen said. "The head of the state police has been instructed he is to spare no expense. We're going to put an end to this foolishness."

The anonymous phone threats, which began last Thursday in St. Gabriel and spread to other communities of other communities during the weekend, puzzled authorities and deprived up to a quartermillion people of tap water Monday, the systems could then be tested for poison.
On Tuesday, traces of the poison were detected in tests on a sample from the Hammond water system, but subsequent samples revealed none.

"We do not feel there is any organized effort," State Police Commander Grover "Bo" Garrison said. "There have been different voices - male and female

Hammond officials shut down their water system Monday night after receiving an anonymous phone threat.

"There could have been cyanide introduced to the Hammond water," Dan Strecker, a chemist and lab supervisor for West Paine Laboratories in Baton Rouge, said. "But, based on the huge quantities of water you're dealing with in a municipal system, you could put cyanide in it that's not detected."

State health officials said minute amounts of cyanide naturally can occur in water. Lafavette Mayor Dud Lastrapes said it would take some 14 tons of cyanide to affect his city's system, and even that amount would be insufficient to pose health hazards.

The BUSINESS

Monthly Newsletter of the students of the College of Business Administration, Texas A&M University

Volume 5, Number 4 Supplement to The Battalion

Paid advertising, prepared by the College of Business Administration

Expanded Program for 1983 Career Fair!

by Susan DuBois

What comes once a year, gives business students an edge in jobhunting, gives recruiters an edge in personnel recruiting, and gives Business Student Council members a lot of headaches and a big sense of accomplishment? If you answered, "The Annual Business Career Fair!," you're absolutely right.
This year's Career Fair, to be held January 31 through February 2, will feature some 55 companies on two days. Company booths will be set up in the first floor lobby of

Monday, January 31, 1983

Tuesday, February 1, 1983

7:00 pm Reception for Recruiters Aggieland Inn, rooms A & B

Schedule for Career Fair

Breakfast for Company Recruiters Memorial Student Center Cafeteria

12:00 pm Booths closed. Lunch for Company Recruiters. Kyle Field press box, ninth level

A&A Building, first and second floors

Students seated at chosen company tables Academic Achievement Awards presentations MSC second floor, main banquet room, 224

Company booths open for conversations with students A&A Building, first floor

1:30 pm Company booths reopen for student visits

Breakfast for Company Recruiters

Retailing Career Symposium Keynote Address, Panel Discussions

Lunch for Company Recruiters Kyle Field press box, ninth level

Retailing Career Symposium Luncheon Time and place to be announced

Retailing Career Symposium continues Rudder Tower, room 601

Company recruiters host selected students

Rudder Tower, room 601

Company booths reopen A&A Building, first floor

"Take a Student to Dinner"

4:30 pm Career Fair booths close

Career Fair Banquet

Wednesday, February 2, 1983

8:30 am

12:00 pm

1:30 pm

MSC Cafeteria

Company booths open for conversations with students Retailing Career company booths open A&A Building, first and second floor meet company representatives. Several new and growing com-panies will be represented this year at the Fair for the first time. Included among the new participants are Randall's Food Markets of Houston, Radio Shack, and Tymeshare. Many of the comoanies that have been coming for the past few years will be returning for Career Fair '83, among these are Gulf, Exxon, the "Big Ten" public accounting firms, Pennzoil, Tenneco, Luby's the Academic & Agency Building, and students may stop by anytime between 8:30a.m. and 4:30p.m. to Cafeterias, H.E.B Grocery Stores, Safeway Groceries, ARCO, Marathon Oil, AT&T, Harper & Pearson, West Texas Utilities, and many major banks. Students also have the chance to meet with company representa-tives at the Career Fair Banquet. Each student reserves a seat at the banquet table of a particular com-pany; you may choose the company that seems most interesting to you, on a first-come first-served basis until each company table is filled. Banquet tickets sell for $5 each and are on sale in the A&A lobby Monday through Friday January 24-28. The banquet will be held Tuesday, February 1 at 7p.m. in the MSC second floor banquet

The Business Student Council is also sponsoring a series of seminars on topics of interest to stu-dents of all classifications throughout Business Week. Topics to be covered in the Career Fair seminars include the future for women in business, changing values in the business world, how much computerese should a graduate know, salesmanship, a graduate's personal finances in the first year after graduation, and how to deal with stress. Guest speakers include managers, recruiters, and Texas A&M faculty and staff. Look for signs announcing time and place for each seminar in the first floor lobby of the A&A Building.

As a new part of Business Career Fair in 1983, the Center for Retailing Studies in the Department of Marketing is sponsoring the Retailing Career Fair. Retailers such as Dillard's, H. E. Butt, Joske's, Neiman-Marcus, and Kroger's will have booths set up on February 1 along with the other companies attending Career Fair. Seminars and panel discussions dealing with retailing topics will be presented on February 2 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. in room 601 of Rudder Tower. A listing of retail company booths and a complete schedule for the Retailing Career Symposium will be provided in this publication on Monday.

The Business Career Fair is entirely student-planned and conducted. Each year for the past three years, members of the Business Student Council have plan-ned, organized, and hosted the Career Fair in conjunction with Business Week activities. The Business Student Council, made up of elected and appointed stu-dent members from each of the departmental organizations, works the entire year preparing for the

Each phase of the Fair is handled by many volunteers organized into a network of committees: hospitality, meals, seminars, booths, publicity, banquet, "The Business", and reception.

Without the work of these volunteers to set up booths, answer the phones, handle correspondence, greet the company representatives, make banquet and meal arrangements, and run many errands, Business Career Fair would never be successful. Each year more than 100 students give of themselves and of their time to make the Fair a reality.

What do the companies think of the Business Career Fair?

'The Business Career Fair is an excellent medium for identifying potential recruits and helping students with their course selection decisions," wrote David Rainwater, Director of Employment and

Business Week '83 Schedule

Classrooms filled with students and college professors this week will have the special benefit of the expertise and experience of practicing business professionals from the "real world." This will afford an opportunity for learning and growth through questioning and interchange of ideas between visiting executives and students.

The classes to be visited include the following:

Monday January 31 BANA 427, 12 noon; BANA 337, 2 pm; BANA 489B, 4 pm Jesse Tutor, Partner with Arthur Andersen and Company, Houston

MGMT 466, 5 pm Carol C. McGuire, President, Loop Cold Storage, San Antonio

Tuesday February 1 ACCT Conference, 10 am; ACCT 327, 2 pm Carroll Phillips, Managing Partner with Coopers & Lybrand, Houston

Wednesday February 2 The Retailing Symposium, Rudder

MGMT 470, 11 am; MGMT 470, 12 noon Roy Serpa, Manager of Headquarters Commercial Development, Gulf Oil Chemicals Company

Thursday February 3 MGMT 435, 11 am; MGMT 436, 12:30 pm Jim Garrison, Attorney, Texaco,

Training for Gulf Oil Corporation "We enjoyed our participation in the Business Career Fair last year," wrote Raul Cantu, Senior Systems Analyst for Shell Oil Company. "We hope that we were able to give the students a good perspective as to career opportunities available with Shell Oil."

"I recruit in a region of 30 states and attend similar functions in many schools," said John Hamett with Bank of America, Los Angeles, a veteran of three career fairs. "And Texas A&M's Business Career Fair is by far the most pro-fessional and effective and impressive I've ever seen.

The activities, seminars, booths, and other events of the Fair are open to the public and will be of interest to students majoring in

Speakers and Seminars Scheduled as Special Events in Career Fair

Monday, January 31

"How Much Computerese Should A Graduate Know"
Millie Bradley, Manager of Applications of Exxon Chemicals Time and place to be announced

Tuesday, February 1

''Salesmanship'' John Shafer, District Sales Mana ger, Southwestern Company Time and place to be announced

"Changing Values in the Business World" Stan Madden, Assistant Professor of Marketing, Texas A&M University

Time and place to be announced

Wednesday, February 2

"How to Cope with Stress" Virgie Nolte, Counseling Psychologist, Health Center Time and place to be announced

"A Graduate's Personal Finances" Willie Langston, Recruiter and Accountant, Coopers & Lybrand Past President of the CBA Business Student Council
Time and place to be announced

Thursday, February 3

"The Future For Women in Busi-

Darlene Mason, Manager of Corporate Planning, United Gas Pipe

Time and place to be announced