Aggie sports teams face busy weekend of events

The Texas A&M men's track team opens its outdoor season Saturday in Beaumont with a dual meet against the Lamar Cardinals. The Aggies will use this nonscored competition as a warmup for the Border Olympics, to be held the next weekend in Laredo.

Freshman Tony Grier and sophomore Tony Tolson will not make the trip to Beaumont, but will run in Fayetteville, Ark., at the seven-team Arkansas Indoor Open Invitational on Saturday. Since neither has qualified for the NCAA meet, this event will help their chances of achieving the standards needed to go that meet, which will take place March 10-12 in Pontiac, Mich. Invitations to participate in the NCAA meet are issued to the top 20 Division I athletes in each event.

Tolson was the 600-yard dash champ at the Southwest Conference Indoor championships last weekend with a school record time of 1:10.02. Grier finished second in the 440-yard dash with a 48.41.

In other Texas A&M action, the Aggie men's golf team also will be in Beaumont taking part in the Henry Homburg Intercollegiate tourney. Competing for the Aggies will be Danny Briggs, Kel Devlin, Gary Krueger, Sandy Pierce and Jacky Lee.

"This is an important tournament for us in that we need it for confidence," head coach Bob Ellis said. "The field will be one of the toughest we've faced this year. Texas, Oklahoma State and others who have been regulars at the NCAA golf tournament every year will be there. We just need to get a little more consistency."

The tournament will be played today through Sunday and will consist of 54 holes. A&M finished fourth two weeks ago in the Pan American Intercollegiate behind Texas, Oklahoma State and Brigham Young, and finished in a third-place tie with Oklahoma behind Texas and Houston at the Columbia Lakes Intercollegiate.

The Texas A&M men's tennis team, which hosted Sam Houston State this afternoon at 1:30, has a season record of 9-1. The Aggie women's team, which is 6-2, was to play Lamar today at 1:30.

The men's team will play Tulsa here on Monday at 1:30 on the varsity courts.

"This will be a rough match with Tulsa," Aggie coach David Kent said. "They have a very good team." Tulsa claimed first place in last year's National Invitational Tennis tournament.

The men's squad will play exhibition matches Saturday starting at 9 a.m. at the Briarcrest Country Club in Bryan. The team will compete against several former Texas A&M tennis players, including Reid Freeman, Tommy Connell, Max King, Charles Emily and Tom Courson.

The Aggie men will travel to Corpus Christi on Wednesday to compete in the Corpus Christi Team Invitational. Texas A&M will open the tourney against Wichita State at noon.

Other teams in the tourney include SMU, Trinity, Arkansas, Clemson, Auburn, Oklahoma State, Duke, Lamar, Arizona, Brigham Young, Alabama, Miami, Tulsa, Southwest Louisiana, LSU, Minnesota, Texas, San Diego, Oklahoma, TCU, Michigan and Houston.

Kimmo Alkio, the Aggies' No. 1 singles player, has a record of 9-1 on the season. Tom Judson, playing in the No. 2 spot, has a 9-1 record as well.

In doubles play, No. 1 pair Brian Joelson and Judson have a 5-2 record, No. 2 Alkio and Ron Kowal have a 7-2 mark and No. 3 Greg Hill and Van Barry have a 4-2 record.

The Aggie women's tennis squad will compete in a tourney at Brigham Young starting next Thursday and lasting through Saturday. The event will feature Arizona, BYU, Colorado, Pepperdine, Santa Barbara, Utah and Arizona State. BYU ranked No. 14 and Pepperdine 20th.

Freshman Vanne Akagi has an 8-0 singles record. Amy Gies is at 6-2, Lilia Fernandez 6-2, Laura Hanna is 7-2, Tracy Landry has a 7-1 record, Candice Nutt is 2-1 and Linda Scroggs a 5-1 record. The doubles records include Fernandez-Hanna 4-2, Closs-Landry 4-1 and Nutt-Akagi 7-1.

The Texas A&M gymnastics team, which is 2-0 on the season, will compete Saturday at L.D. Bell Invitational at L.D. Bell High School in Hurst. Several Texas teams will participate, along with Memphis State, Texas Tech, rated No. 1 in the state, will take part in the weekend's meet.

exactly right. For some teams, a win over us at our own place makes their season."

The play of Heard and his teammates on the field is one of the main reasons the Aggies are faring better than what most experts expected. But the most pleasant surprise so far has been on the pitching mound.

"All of our pitchers have been doing great," Heard said. "Our freshmen Scott Deskins and Barry Smith are really doing well, Sherman Corbett is pitching great and of course Rick (Luecken) is always there. He'll always give you a good game no matter what the circumstances are."

Luecken said that even though he and Corbett combined to pitch a no-hitter against St. Mary's, he's nowhere near the form he would like to have by the end of the season.

"Pitchers should always try to be ahead of the hitters they face," Luecken said, "and right now I'm behind the hitters I face. I think our fielders have had a lot to do with the way we've been playing lately. When they're out there making plays it really helps. Our infield is a lot better than it has been before. I just wish our pitchers were as far along as they are."

Luecken will start the game of Saturday's double-header and Corbett will be first in the second game of the double-header. Today, Paul Taylor will be on the hill for the Aggies.

Naturally Texas A&M would like to sweep the series with Hardin Simmons, but only two victories will be enough to mark a milestone in Chandler's career. Chandler is only two victories shy of chalking up his 100th career win.

"That's amazing," he said. "You've got to give credit. That just shows how good a coach he really is. Can you imagine winning 600 games? That's a lot of wins. I'd really like to get it for him in the first game against Hardin Simmons. The whole team is pumped about it."

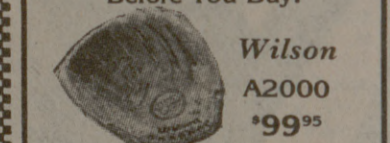

Chandler said reaching 600 mark is satisfying but added that, "It just feels good here yesterday."
