Williams buried Saturday Warped

United Press International
ST. LOUIS — Celebrated playwright Tennessee Williams, who spent an unhappy childhood in St. Louis, was buried there Saturday by his brother who said he had no other choice. Dakin Williams arranged for the 90-minute funeral mass at St. Louis Cathedral and a burial at Calvary Cemetery in spite of his brother's well-known dislike for St. Louis and his desire to be cremated. "I feel very strongly against disposing of the body of a person who had the giant literary stature of my brother," Dakin said. "His remains should be placed in a readily accessible place."

Williams, 71, died Feb. 24 in New York. Authorities said he suffocated after inhaling a plastic cap from a medicinal spray bottle. During his homily, the Rev. Jerome F. Wilkerson read excerpts from several of Williams' works, including The Glass Menagerie and Williams' Memoirs. "The tragedy of Tennessee seems to be realizing that the sounds of suffering that pierced his heart seemed to be so much more therapeutic to others than to himself," Wilkerson said. Dakin, a Collinsville, Ill., lawyer, was left "without a nickel" in his brother's estate, estimated to be worth $10 million. The two brothers had been estranged since 1969, when Dakin had Tennessee committed to a hospital for alcohol and drug treatment.

Summer jobs may pay less

Reagan proposes wage cut

United Press International
SAN FRANCISCO — President Reagan said Saturday he will ask Congress this week to lower the minimum wage for youth in the summer and give employers tax breaks in a bid to fight unemployment. "We want to provide incentives for business to hire the long-term unemployed," Reagan said in his weekly radio address. Reagan said he will propose a "youth opportunity wage" of $2.50 per hour, 25 percent below the regular minimum wage of $3.35, during the summer months to allow inexperienced teenagers to make a start in the workplace. He said he will also recommend that long-term unemployed be permitted to convert their unemployment benefits into job vouchers that would entitle their new employers to tax credits.

The youth wage proposal, first floated by the administration in December, was immediately attacked by the AFL-CIO, which also opposed the voucher program. "We are historically opposed to sub-minimum wages because it's discriminatory, plus all such wage schemes carry the ability to fire Daddy and hire junior," federation spokesman Rex Hardesty said in Washington. Reagan noted fears that a lower minimum wage would cause businesses to replace adults with young people, but said, "We've taken precautions so that won't happen." He said the youth wage will be available only during the summer months, when the kids are out of school, and there are provisions that absolutely prohibit businesses from displacing current workers by hiring people at a lesser wage. Reagan did not say what age limit would be for the program.

Reagan's address was corded Friday and aired on a week-long California visit and headed Washington with a stop in Oregon. The address was also reported by the Associated Press, the Washington Post, and the New York Times. The address was also reported by the Associated Press, the Washington Post, and the New York Times.

Belushi's death questioned

United Press International
LOS ANGELES — One year after the death of comedian John Belushi, a prosecutor was completing preparation of evidence for a grand jury investigation he expects to result in a criminal indictment later this month. Deputy District Attorney Michael Montagna, who was presenting evidence to the grand jury probing Belushi's death from a lethal dose of cocaine and heroine in a Hollywood hotel, said Friday he expected to wind up his case next week.

Belushi was found naked and dead on the bedroom floor of his bungalow in a Sunset Strip hotel on March 5, 1982. A woman who drove up to the bungalow the day of his death was taken into custody, questioned and released — despite the fact she had drug paraphernalia in her possession. She was later identified as Cathy Evelyn Smith, a Hollywood groupie. Months later, an interview with her in the National Enquirer led the district attorney to reopen the case, which police had closed two weeks after Belushi's death.

Smith, 35, of Toronto, was quoted in the tabloid as saying Belushi was injected with drugs 24 times in his last 30 hours. She said she did some of the injections for him. Montagna said earlier Smith could face second-degree murder charges if prosecuted, but he refused further comment.
