During the spring, basketball performances and parades fill the band's schedule.

Another major group, Parsons' Mounted Cavalry, was formed in 1972 to preserve the traditions of the University prior to World War II. It is composed of junior and senior cadets who wish to work with horses. Juniors are responsible for preparation of the horses and maintenance of the facilities and seniors handle administrative work. John Motley, executive officer of the Cavalry, said the unit is closer knit than the other units because members work closely together. He said they haul their own hay, have built their own 36-stall barn for the stock and have been preparing pastures for planting. The Cavalry drills three to four times a week in preparation for march-ins, Corps cere-monies before home football games and Corps trips. The group also rides in various livestock show parades, such as the Fort Worth and Houston livestock show parades, Motley said. He said the Cavalry will travel to San Antonio to ride in the "Battle of Flowers Parade" later in

Other groups include:
• Fish Drill Team — The group was created in 1947 after a sudden increase in enrollment caused a housing problem. The freshman class was forced to be separated from the rest of the school so members decided to form the drill team to occupy their time. The team is made up of select freshman members with a satisfactory academic record. They participate in drill meets at the state and national level, Mardi Gras parade and Military Day and Parents' Day ceremonies.

• Women's Drill Team — In the spring of 1975, John Miller and Theresa Holzeman created the group so female cadets would have an activity in which to become involved.

Women in all classes are eligible to be in the drill team. Marching positions are held by women only, but the staff positions may be held by men or women. The team participates in drill meets both in and out of state, parades and Parents' Day ceremonies.
