Legal gambling opponent defends talks with 'snitch'

United Press International
AUSTIN — An anti-gambling lobbyist says he sees nothing wrong with talking to a "snitch" who works for a Louisiana racetrack owner to get information to use against a bill legalizing parimutuel betting in Texas.

But Allan Maley Jr., director of Texans Against Gambling, says there's plenty wrong with a House committee chairman's tactics in revealing Maley's telephone conversations with the out-of-state track employee.

The ongoing sparring match between Maley and Rep. George Pierce, chairman of the House committee debating the betting bill and a co-sponsor of the measure, escalated to knockout levels Wednesday with Pierce's release of Maley's telephone records.

The records showed 18 calls to the Edward J. DeBartolo Corp. of Youngstown, Ohio. DeBartolo and his family own 92 percent of Louisiana Downs in Bossier City, La.

Supporters of the betting bill have alleged that out-of-state racetrack owners were behind efforts to kill the measure, fearing legalized gambling in Texas would take bettors away from their tracks.

Maley said Wednesday he made the calls to a "source" in the DeBartolo organization who pointed him to several reports that were unfavorable about the potential financial benefits of legalized horserace gambling.

"I'll take information from any snitch I can get it from," Maley said at a news conference.

Pierce, whose committee subpoenaed Maley's financial records, said the phone calls "raise the question of just who Mr. Maley and his organization represent."

"I really thought the Maley era was dead and gone where people could smear by association," he said at a news conference Wednesday.

Maley, whose group is a political arm of the Anti-Gambling Council of Texas, denied receiving money from race owners and said Pierce's charges were "diversion tactics" aimed at muddling the true issue of gambling.

Bill bolsters jobless aid

United Press International
AUSTIN — Texas will continue borrowing money from the federal government to maintain unemployment benefits for jobless workers under an emergency employer tax bill tentatively approved by the House.

The measure, given initial House approval Wednesday and sent to the Senate, would levy a 5 percent tax on unemployment taxes paid by businesses in 1982. It was estimated the tax would cost employers about $1.80 per employee.

Funds from the one-time tax would finance interest payments on federal loans that are bolstering the state's failing unemployment compensation fund.

Rep. Lloyd Criss, D-Texas City, said unless the bill was signed into law by next Monday by Gov. Mark White, unemployment benefits to jobless Texans could be interrupted.

Since Texas' jobless fund went broke last November, the state has borrowed nearly $400 million from the federal government.

Criss said Texas must borrow another $195 million over the next three months but cannot obtain more loans unless enough money to cover 100 percent interest payments.

Texas will be required to pay an interest bill of more than $1 million by Oct. 1.

Criss said unless the state is able to make its interest payments on time, Texas' unemployment program could be taken over by the federal government and employer taxes would be hiked drastically.

Jurors view 'obscene' film

United Press International
HOUSTON — A six-member jury went to a posh Houston theater to watch a racy foreign movie, and defense lawyers hoped the setting would enhance the artistic qualities of a movie entitled "Salo — The 120 Days of Sodom."

The panel watched the 1975 movie at the River Oaks Theater before returning to court to decide if manager Dan Bonetati was promoting obscenity by showing the film, court records indicated Wednesday.

"Salo" was made in 1975 by Italian director Pier Paolo Pasolini and completed a few weeks before Pasolini was bludgeoned to death by a youth who claimed the director had had homosexual advances towards him.

Prosecutors claim the movie is obscene with scenes of sadism, sadomasochism, sodomy and sexual behavior in which the eating of human excrement is depicted.

The defense maintains the movie, set in northern Italy during the German occupation in 1944-45, is a political statement about fascism in general and the depths of human depravity in particular.

The movie is an adaptation of the Marquis de Sade's controversial "The 120 Days of Sodom," written while he was imprisoned in the Bastille in Paris in 1785.

Two hundred years later, Sade's work was adapted and made the movie.

Authorities said his film included generous doses of violence and anti-establishmentarian "blasphemy."

Vice officers raided the theater last fall when the movie was being shown and arrested Bonetati.

The trial is expected to continue for several more days.

Narcotic round-up begins

United Press International
HOUSTON — Law enforcement authorities in three counties and from nine agencies are rounding up about 70 suspects in a sealed indictment for drug trafficking in the largest drug bust in the Houston area in two years.

The sweep began Wednesday with arrest warrants served in east Harris, Chambers and Liberty counties.

"These arrests should bring down the drug dealing here quite some time," said Capt. Curtis, spokesman for the Department of Public Safety narcotics division.

In two raids in Baytown Monday and Tuesday, DPS officers seized 1,700 methamphetamine tablets, 2 ounces of methamphetamine and $4,100 in cash.

IS IT REALLY TRUE THAT ...

ALCOHOL IS A SEXUAL STIMULANT

CONTRARY TO POPULAR BELIEF, THE MORE YOU DRINK THE LESS YOUR SEXUAL CAPACITY. ALCOHOL MAY STIMULATE INTEREST IN SEX, BUT IT INTERFERES WITH THE ABILITY TO PERFORM.

ALCOHOL ISN'T REALLY A DRUG

WRONG. ALCOHOL IS A CENTRAL NERVOUS SYSTEM DEPRESSANT. NOT ONLY IS ALCOHOL A DRUG, IT IS THE #1 ABUSED DRUG IN OUR SOCIETY.

PEOPLE CAN DRIVE SAFELY AFTER 3 OR 4 BEERS

No. You may think you can because the first few drinks create a false sense of well-being and lessen your ability of self-criticism. DRIVERS WITH A BLOOD ALCOHOL LEVEL OF THIS DEGREE (.06% TO .08%) ARE SIGNIFICANTLY MORE LIKELY TO BE INVOLVED IN AN ACCIDENT.

BLACK COFFEE AND A COLD SHOWER WILL SOBER YOU UP

THERE ARE MANY MYTHS ABOUT WAYS TO SOBER UP. BLACK COFFEE AND A COLD SHOWER, FOR EXAMPLE, WILL GIVE YOU A COLD, WET, WIDE-AWAKE DRUNK. THE ONLY REAL CURE FOR INTOXICATION IS TIME. FOR THE AVERAGE PERSON, IT TAKES ONE HOUR TO METABOLIZE EACH DRINK THEY'VE HAD.
