

4-H celebrates 75th year

by Angel Stokes
Battalion Staff
The Texas State 4-H Clubs will celebrate their 75th anniversary at the 38th annual Roundup on June 7-8 at Texas A&M. About 2,000 young people, 14 years and older, will bring their winning projects from the local and district levels to participate in various State level contests. The 4-H Project Show will be held during the Roundup. Approximately 1,500 projects that students have worked on throughout the year will be on display at G. Rollie White Coliseum. The projects will include crafts and collections.

The 4-H Food Show will begin Monday, June 6. Competition in the Food Show will begin on Tuesday.

In addition to the annual events, the College of Agriculture will hold a special 4-H career day. About 300 young people will have an opportunity to gain experience working with programs offered through the College of Agriculture.

Approximately 2,500 young people and adults from all over Texas are expected to participate in the activities.

More than 70 college scholarships, totaling more than $340,000, will be awarded during the opening assembly on Tuesday evening to students who have shown achievement in individual project work.

Following the opening assembly, those attending the Roundup will assemble on Kyle Field in the shape of a four-leaf clover—the symbol of 4-H—to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the 4-H program in Texas.

Because of the anniversary, segments of the program will be filmed for "Good Morning America" and "PM Magazine."

4-H is a youth education program of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, which is an agency under the Texas A&M University System.

The program began in Texas in 1908 with the formation of the Jack County Boys Corn Club. Then in 1912, the Girls Tomato Clubs were started in Milam County. Around 1924 the two organizations merged.

With approximately five million members in the United States—180 thousand in Texas—4-H is the largest organization of its kind in the world.

No, it's not another registration line. Texas A&M students get so used to waiting in lines, they sometimes form them automatically. These

Arsenic death trial starts

United Press International
ANNISTON — Audrey Marie Hilley's daughter was to take the stand Tuesday as testimony began in the murder trial of her mother, who is accused of fatally poisoning her husband and attempting to do the same to her daughter.

Assistant District Attorney Joe Harper told the 12-man, two-woman jury selected Monday that evidence presented in the trial would deal with homosexuality and illegal drugs, but he did not elaborate.

Mrs. Hilley, 49, is charged in the death of Frank Hilley and the attempted arsenic poisoning of her daughter, Carol.

Circuit Judge Sam Monk, who is presiding over the trial, granted a prosecution request earlier this month to have charges combined in one trial.

Mrs. Hilley, arrested in Brattleboro, Vt. in January after a three-year flight, is described as "cunning" by prosecutors, but they said they have the best-prepared case ever presented in Calhoun County.

Mrs. Hilley was indicted for attempted murder in 1979 after doctors diagnosed her daughter's mysterious symptoms as arsenic poisoning. But she vanished in November of year while free on bond. A murder charge in the trial of her husband was issued after she disappeared. Authorities exhumed the body of her husband, who had died expectedly four years later. An autopsy revealed lethal of arsenic. She was arrested and extradited to Alabama when activities became suspicious. Her new alias, Terri Martin,

El Paso 'bugged' by mystery insect

United Press International
JUAREZ, Mexico — Entomologists on both sides of the U.S.-Mexico border can't agree on the name of the "mystery bug" which has sprung up in residential areas, but they say the insect poses no danger.

The mosquito-like bug was first reported in Juarez residential areas over the weekend, but Mexican agricultural experts were unable to positively identify the bug.

El Paso officials said the same bug has sprouted on the U.S. side of the border.

Luis Escobar, a Chihuahua agricultural official, calls the bug a "chinche falsa," or false chinch bug.

Escobar's American counterpart, Phillip Glogoza, El Paso County entomologist, disagrees. He said the insect is a plant bug that eats weeds and gets into the skin of animals but causes harm. Juarez firefighters spent the weekend throughout the city combing fires set by homeowners who were burning fields in lots to get rid of the bugs.

Amalia Diaz of Juarez, typical of the homeowners, were trying to get rid of bugs.

"They're not doing anything," she said. "They're crawling around, and I've got to get rid of them."

Glogoza said the bug is a pest in Juarez and El Paso because of the unusual spring. He said the bugs eat plants and can probe the humans, causing irritation, but cause no threat.

One Juarez resident said he had lived in the city for 15 years and has never seen the bug before.

While the insects were "bugging" homeowners, at least one group benefited from the plague.

Professional exterminators in Juarez said they have swamped with orders to get rid of the bugs.
