Baptists to debate school prayer

United Press International PITTSBURGH — Voluntary school prayer will be a key issue at the national meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention this week, church leaders say.

Some pastors say the convention may try to repeal a resolution supporting a constitutional amendment that would allow voluntary prayer in public

Opponents of the resolution, approved in the New Orleans convention last year, claim it takes away religious liberty.

But the Rev. Jimmy Draper, convention president, predicted Sunday a calm meeting this week in Pittsburgh, in contrast to the stormy sessions of recent emerged victorious from national elections in March that ousted Prime Minister Malcolm The approach he used was not unlike the one used by Reagan in 1980, promising policies that he said would provide the best basis for his people to work together to come out of the depths of a serious recession.

Hawke also is a strong supporter of Israel. The agenda of his meeting with Reagan included the situation in the Middle East and such other foreign policy issues as East-West rela-cerns about competing trade interests, relations with Vietnam and an unsettling controversy over U.S. intelligence activities in Australia. Most are likely to be ignored or papered over.

Australia has a trade deficit of several billion dollars in its economic relations with the United States and is said to object to some of the countermeasures taken by the U.S. government in response to protectionist policies by other countries.

In foreign policy, the Australian Labor Party platform proposes resumption of aid to Vietnam. The Reagan administration believes that such a step toward normalization should not be taken until Vietnam is willing to moderate its behavior in ipuchea, formerly Cam-
