

Suspect held in alien deaths

United Press International
HOUSTON — A Mexican national believed to be a smuggler of illegal aliens was held in lieu of $50,000 bond on two murder charges, and police said he was a suspect in at least four other slayings in Texas and Mexico.

Authorities in Dallas and Conroe, as well as Mexico, want to question Apolinar Ramirez, 21, of Michoacan, Mexico, about the slayings of illegal aliens in their areas.

Ramirez was arrested Tuesday at a southwest Houston apartment complex after police received a tip from an informant.

Homicide investigator Carlos Gonzalez said authorities believe Ramirez killed at least six aliens who could not pay smuggling fees.

"He is a coyote (alien smuggler). All he needed was something to provoke a fight," Gonzalez said.

Ramirez was charged with murder in the Oct. 17 shooting death of Francisco T. Perez, 26, of Mexico at a lounge. Witnesses told police Ramirez shot the suspect for speaking to his girlfriend.

Gonzalez said Ramirez was charged with two counts of attempted capital murder in the same incident after he fired shots at two off-duty police officers who tried to arrest him, as well as the attempted murder of a woman who witnessed the shooting.

Encephalitis cleared in death

United Press International
CARTHAGE — Pneumonia killed one of three children whose deaths in a two-month period triggered an encephalitis scare in northeast Texas, a state health official said.

An autopsy found no signs of encephalitis in Tyrone Daniels, 2 months, of DeBerry, said Dr. Tracy Gustafson of the Texas Department of Health, Tuesday.

Fear of a possible encephalitis outbreak prompted several Panola County families to rush at least 30 ill children to a pediatric clinic in nearby Shreveport, La., last month.

It also led city officials in Marshall and Carthage to double efforts to control mosquitoes, which carry the often fatal disease. Encephalitis is an inflammation of the brain.

An earlier autopsy found encephalitis, but no specific viral infection, in the death of Clinton Poole, 2, of Carthage. Traci Downing, 1, also died after suffering similar cold-like symptoms, but no autopsy was performed.

"The major cause of (Daniels') death was pneumonia, which puts that in a slightly different category than the other two deaths," Gustafson said.
