documents that must be sent to the airline's 80,000 creditors, who will either approve or kill the proposal during the next The plan calls for 30 Braniff planes to return to the air, probably by the end of the year, and provides for the reemployment

Braniff declared bankruptcy in May 1982 and began an effort to reorganize. The revitalization plan, backed by $20 million cash and $50 million in loan guarantees from Hyatt Corp. of Chicago, passed a crucial hurdle Friday when U.S. Bankruptcy Judge John Flowers approved a financial disclosure report detailing Braniff's assets and liabilities. One attorney at Friday's hearing described the report which is part of the information to be sent to voting creditors — as the size of the "New York phone book."

But former Braniff Vice President Bob Ferguson said despite their bulk and complexity, the of about 2,000 former Braniff
