

Errant pitch sends tempers flying

Royals survive brawl, topple Jays

United Press International
Was it bad blood or just a bad pitch?

Whatever the reason, the result was explosive — a bench-clearing brawl. After Toronto reliever Jim Acker hit Hal McRae in the helmet with a fastball, the Kansas City designated hitter charged the mound and players from both teams followed.

McRae, whose home run in his previous at-bat in the sixth inning was the knockout punch in the Royals' 6-2 victory Tuesday night, was still throwing verbal jabs in the visitors' clubhouse.

"It doesn't matter whether it was intentional or not. What matters is what happened — I got hit in the head and I had a right to do it. I didn't think about it. I just reacted."

Acker said the beaming wasn't intentional.

"When you're three runs down and still have three at-bats to go you don't put anyone on intentionally," he said. "It was just a fastball that got away."

Kansas City starter Bud Black, 4-3, scattered seven hits over 7 1-3 innings. Luis Leal, who allowed McRae's homer, dropped to 6-2. Dan Quisenberry worked the final 1 2-3 innings to record his 22nd save.

Kansas City led 1-0 in the first when U.L. Washington scored from second base on shortstop Alfredo Griffin's error.

The Royals took a 3-2 lead in the third when Washington reached on an infield hit and eventually scored on George Brett's groundout.

In the National League, it was San Francisco 4, Chicago 3 in 10 innings; Pittsburgh and Los Angeles split a doubleheader, the Pirates won the opener 4-1 and the Dodgers the nightcap in 11 innings 3-2; Atlanta 11, New York 7; St. Louis 4, San Diego 0 and Cincinnati 5, Montreal 2.

INDIANS 5, WHITE SOX 4 — At Cleveland, Andre Thornton's 12th home run of the season snapped an eighth-inning tie and Manny Trillo had three RBI Tuesday night to back the complete-game effort of Rick Sutcliffe and lead the Indians to victory.

YANKEES 4, TWINS 0 — At New York, Shane Rawley tossed a six-hitter and Dave Winfield hit a two-run triple to spark New York to their fifth straight win.

ANGELS 6, RED SOX 1 — At Anaheim, Calif., Ken Forsch limited Boston to three hits and Brian Downing and Fred Lynn slammed homers, leading California.

ORIOLES 8, MARINERS 1 — At Seattle, Scott McGregor tossed a complete-game four-hitter and Cal Ripken drove in three runs with a home run and a double to lead Baltimore to their ninth win in 10 games.

TIGERS 4, A'S 3 — At Oakland, Calif., Glenn Wilson's RBI single and Enos Cabell's sacrifice fly keyed a two-run ninth inning that rallied Detroit to their third straight win.

Playing 'the game' in old San Antonio

IT HASN'T EXACTLY reached upper case status yet — The Game — but the first scheduled basketball meeting between the St. Mary's Rattlers and the UTSA Roadrunners turn into quite a rivalry. Or Rivalry, depending on how you things get.

For Texans in need of a quick lesson in geography, San Antonio is the home of the Alamo, the riverwalk and very rabid sports fans. It also happens to be the location of member St. Mary's and NCAA Division I University of Texas San Antonio. A shoot-em-up even Santa Anna could be proud of.

You betcha. UTSA Sports Information Director Fred tenfield says the game is an important one, not only for schools involved, but for the city of San Antonio, also.

The Game — sorry, game — is scheduled for Hensley Arena, home of the San Antonio Spurs, and no less than 10,000 is expected. Not bad for these two schools, one (UTSA) which has an tiny enrollment of 3,500 and the other (St. Mary's) which is entering only its third year of athletic competition.

But you'll have to excuse UTSA coach Don Eddy and Runners if they suffer from a bad case of underkill. Not the new kids on the block wouldn't mind beating the oldsters in itself, considering the recent successes of the Rattlers' ball program. It's just that the Runners have a lot of things to do before they meet their cross-city rivals in The Game.

UTSA HAS RICE, TCU, Baylor, USC, Cal State-Fullerton, Oklahoma, Lamar and North Texas State — as well as lesser-known schools — on the schedule, all before the meeting with St. Mary's.

Tough slate. But Eddy has some tough ballplayers on back, including one with some pretty impressive blood. Derrick Gervin, the younger brother of Spurs' superstar George Gervin, is a 6-8 sophomore forward who averages points and seven rebounds a game last season. He'll get from senior center Rick Doyle, who was second in both and rebounding for the Runners with 11 points and 10 rebounds.

What, or should we say who, has UTSA followers crossed? The Recruit. In this case, upper is correct. The Recruit forward Calvin Hayes, from Verbum Dei High School in Los Angeles, Hayes, who scored 13 points a game at Verbum, can "jump to the moon," according to Battenfield. Hayes has a vertical jump of "only" 42 inches, but it was enough to make him a pre-season honorable mention All-American pick last year by Street and Smith Magazine.

Battenfield says Hayes, who kept Eddy waiting until the minute before he signed on to play at UTSA, is talented enough to start as a freshman. If Hayes can keep his jumps close to earth, say, right around basket-height, the Runners could be out of this world.

SO IT'S THE season of The Recruit and The Game — game — at UTSA this year. For a team so young, however, Runners find themselves at the first of many forks in the road. This will be UTSA's proving year to the sports-crazed citizens of San Antonio. Two straight losing seasons — Runners' lifetime record is 19-35 — have yet to show any but the potential for success.

Battenfield agrees. "This next year is a big key for our program development. People can say 'We've given them two years, now let's see if they can win.'"

"But if we do start winning, and really promote well during the off-season, the following will be there."

With all that going for the Runners, can upper case status be far behind?

Mahaffey stresses accuracy at Kingsmill

United Press International
John Mahaffey seems to play his best golf on some of the toughest courses, a good reason why he's one of the favorites in the $350,000 PGA tournament this week at Kingsmill Golf Club.

Mahaffey pushed his career earnings over the $1 million mark by winning at Kingsmill two years ago. Last year, he sagged to a tie for 18th, eight shots behind winner Calvin Peete.

Kingsmill, a Pete Dye design, is 6,684 demanding yards that play to par-71 and wind through a luxury housing development and a multitude of bunkers, trees, back yards and ponds, with the James River bordering on the last two holes. But Mahaffey's putter was the key weapon in his victory.

"I don't hit the ball a mile and I don't make a lot of birdies, so I don't play the wide-open courses that well," said Mahaffey. "I've usually putted well at Kingsmill (25 putts in his final round in 1981), although the rain last year bothered me."

"I play better on courses where distance isn't so much a factor and accuracy is a premium. On courses like that, there's no advantage to being long. I can hit it a lot longer than I do, but I wouldn't be able to find half of them."

Rain shortened the Kingsmill tournament to 54 holes last year when the second round had to be played over two days. Mahaffey, who won in 1981 with an 8-under-par 276 total, had problems after an opening-round 68 last year and finished 71-72.

Americans returning from last week's British Open are among the favorites at Kingsmill. Although British Open winner Tom Watson is absent this week, Ray Floyd, Peter Jacobsen, Tom Kite, Bill Rogers, Tom Weiskopf and Hal Sutton are present.

Also among the favorites are three Virginians playing close to home. Curtis Strange, originally from nearby Virginia Beach, Va., owns a home along the Kingsmill golf course and has Rogers' family as his guests each year.

Strange had a course-record 64 to tie for the third-round lead two years ago, but faded to a final-round 73 to finish six shots off the pace.

Lanny and Bobby Wadkins, natives of the Richmond area, have played the course many times and are in the field, too.

Danny Edwards, the winner of last week's Quad Cities Open at Coal Valley, Ill., is looking for his second straight victory.

Missing from among the PGA money leaders are No. 3 Ben Crenshaw, No. 4 Gil Morgan, No. 5 Fuzzy Zoeller, No. 7 Severiano Ballesteros, No. 9 Watson, No. 11 Fred Couples, No. 12 Craig Stadler, No. 13 Hale Irwin and No. 14 David Graham.

The tournament was played in Napa, Calif., for 13 years before moving to Kingsmill in 1981. Kingsmill is located on the banks of the James River with the 17th hole located where the first English set foot on American soil.

The tournament is sponsored by Anheuser-Busch Inc.

Summer heat more stressful to older adults

United Press International
WASHINGTON — The elderly are more vulnerable to summer heat than younger people because they perspire less and are more likely to be on medication that works against the body's natural ability to adjust to heat, according to a government report.

The U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs says elderly people should seek medical attention if heat causes them to experience "dizziness, rapid heartbeat, diarrhea, nausea, cramps, throbbing headache, dry skin but no sweating, chest pain, great weakness, mental changes, breathing problems or vomiting."
