

Sutton thankful to Bear for title

United Press International
PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif. — The ghost of two weeks past hovered over his shoulder and forced Hal Sutton to remember the most miserable experience of his golfing career.

It was in July in Williamsburg, Va. at the Kingsmill Golf Club. Sutton rode into the final round of the $350,000 tournament with what seemed to be an unbeatable six-stroke lead. He then folded quicker than a lawn chair, handing Calvin Peete the victory.

Sunday, in the final round of the 65th PGA Championship, Sutton surged to a five-stroke lead with seven holes left. And once again, he began coming apart at the seams. Three consecutive bogeys cut his advantage to a mere stroke over the charging Jack Nicklaus.

"Hard to swing a golf club with one hand wrapped around your throat," a press tent observer laughed.

This time, however, the 25-year-old Sutton had the last laugh.

He regained his composure and parred the final four holes and won the biggest tournament of his life by a stroke.

"I thought about Williamsburg all week," Sutton said. "And I really thought about it after the third straight bogey today. But I just told myself that it wasn't going to happen to me again."

Sutton's final-round 71, even-par over the tough Riviera Country Club layout, gave him a 10-under-par 274 for the tournament and made him only the fifth wire-to-wire winner in the tournament's history.

Nicklaus began the final round a whopping six strokes behind the leader but closed with a brilliant 66, forcing Sutton's blood pressure sky high.

As Nicklaus made his charge, pulling within a shot with a birdie on No. 16, the gallery responded with deafening cheers that rolled across the fairways and collided with Sutton's ears.

"The crowd wasn't the only one that knew the Bear was coming," Sutton said. "I didn't need them to tell me that. The fact that it was Jack making a move really had me concerned."

Sutton blamed his near-collapse to a sub-conscious change in tactics.

"I went from playing aggressively to playing conservatively and it got me three straight bogeys," he said. "I didn't intend to do that, but I had a five-shot lead at the time and I think I let up a little bit."

"I want to thank the PGA and all the volunteers and members of Riviera who let us play their course," Sutton said afterward. "And I also want to thank Jack for not making one more birdie."

Sutton's victory pushed his Tour-leading earnings this year to $397,684 and his two-year career earnings to $635,118. Nicklaus earned $60,000 for second place.

Peter Jacobsen, who started the final round eight strokes back, shot a final round 65 for 276, 8-under par, and won $40,000 for third place. Pat McGowan had a final-round 69 for a 277 total and won $30,000 for fourth place while John Fought bogeyed the final hole and settled for a 278 and $25,000.

Martin, Hill escape having to testify

United Press International
DALLAS — Dallas Cowboy football players Harvey Martin and Tony Hill will not be required to testify in the cocaine conspiracy trial of a former Brazilian soccer player, lawyers said.

The players, subpoenaed as defense witnesses, denied any knowledge in the case, and U.S. District Judge Robert W. Porter said he would rule on the need for their testimony heard from other witnesses.

The case was to go to a man, six-woman jury following final arguments.

Hill's name first came to the trial during the examination of cocaine distributor El back. A defense attorney, Murback if he told agents that Hill was a witness. The witness answered that he denied he knew Ignacio denied never sold cocaine to Hill, a government report.

Phillies continue streak with 14-5 rout of Pittsburgh

United Press International
PHILADELPHIA — With Mike Schmidt back on top of the homer charts and Gary Matthews back from the doghouse, the Philadelphia Phillies suddenly look like front-runners.

Matthews, who hit .301 and .281 in his first two years with the Phillies following a trade with Atlanta, entered Monday night's game at Veterans Stadium batting just .253. The 33-year-old left fielder had been in and out of the lineup since Paul Owens replaced Pat Corrales as manager three weeks ago. Batting second, Matthews lashed four hits as the Phillies extended their winning streak to five and increased their Eastern Division lead to two games with a 14-5 rout of Pittsburgh.

Schmidt slugged a pair of home runs following singles by Matthews to take over the major-league home run lead with 26.

"I've been thinking a bit too much," admitted Matthews of his slump. "I've decided to go out and let things happen. It helps just being out there playing. You can afford to make a few outs when you are in the lineup regularly."

Jason Thompson's two-run homer put the Pirates on top 3-0 in the fourth, but Matthews singled to ignite a five-run inning that chased John Candelaria, 11-7, and made things easy for Charlie Hudson, 7-3. Schmidt followed with his 25th home run and Tony Perez tripled to center. Garry Maddox walked and Kiko Garcia cracked a two-run triple before Hudson capped the inning with an RBI single.

The Phillies pounded reliever Cecilio Guante for five more runs in the fifth as Bo Diaz singled home a pair, Maddox stroked a two-run double and Ivan DeJesus doubled home another run.

Schmidt added a three-run homer in the seventh after a Dale Berra throwing error and Matthews' fourth hit. Pittsburgh scored in the sixth on Thompson's sacrifice fly and Marvell Wynne homered in the eighth for the Pirates' final run.

"A few hits, a few runs and a few wins get you going," Schmidt said. "But the Pirates will be right back tomorrow. You can count on that."

In the only other NL game, surging New York edged Montreal 6-5 in 10 innings.

At Montreal, rookie Darryl Strawberry tripled in the 10th inning and scored on reliever Jeff Reardon's errant pickoff throw, leading the Mets to their fourth straight victory. With one out, Strawberry tripled to deep center and Bob Bailor was walked intentionally. Reardon, 5-6, tried to pick Bailor off first, but his throw sailed by Al Oliver and into the Montreal dugout as Strawberry scored.

The Expos, in second place in the NL East, had their four-game winning streak broken as reliever Jesse Orosco, 10-5, picked up his fifth victory in the Mets' last nine games. Orosco has not permitted a run in his last 10 relief appearances over 20 1-3 innings. Tim Wallach homered for Montreal and Tim Raines stole three bases to run his total to 51 for the Expos.

Oilers' Munchak considered one of best guards in NFL

United Press International
SAN ANGELO — At 6-foot-3 and 275 pounds, professional football is probably the only place Houston Oilers offensive guard Mike Munchak might have trouble getting respect.

But in only his second season, the Penn State product is already being touted as an all-pro player by his teammates.

Sixteen-year veteran defensive end Elvin Bethea said only half jokingly: "The kid's got no respect for age. As a rookie last season, he wanted to show he could play. I wanted to show I could still play at my age."

"Right now, Munchak's an all-pro prospect," Bethea said. "Some people think Munchak is already one of the finest — if not the finest — offensive guards in the game."

Head Coach Ed Biles compares his prize lineman to New England Patriots all-pro John Hannah.

"I think he's (Munchak) is further along at this stage of his career than Hannah was. Munchak is the best offensive line prospect I've ever seen," Biles said.

"I'll be very disappointed if he doesn't make all-pro within two years," Oilers middle guard Mike Stensrud says. "He's got that kind of ability."

Oilers linebacker Gregg

Bingham has had plenty of chances to line up against Munchak in training camp.

"Most guards feel like if they pop you, that's enough," Bingham said. "But Munchak hits you, keeps his legs moving and drives through you. You have to use every available resource or he'll run right over you."

Munchak considered one of best guards in NFL

Munchak appreciates compliments, but said he must prove himself in a broken ankle last season limited him to four games. "I think I might have potential to be one of the best," he said. "The key is coaching. I got good coaching in Penn State, and I've got coaching at the Oilers."

Tampa Bay's Williams may sign with USFL's Outlaws

United Press International
TAMPA BAY — For years, Doug Williams was known as the fastest "gun" in the National Football League. So it seems only appropriate that the rifle-armed quarterback may soon be an Outlaw.

The Oklahoma Outlaws of the U.S. Football League will announce the signing of Williams, a free agent who has not reported to the Tampa Bay Buccaneers' training camp due to a contract dispute.

A news conference is planned for 11 a.m. EDT today. A source within the league confirmed that Williams had agreed to sign with the Outlaws. Terms of the contract were unknown.

The Outlaws are one of six USFL expansion teams that will join play when the league's second season opens next March.

Thompson is competing with Jerry Golsteyn for the Bucs' starting quarterback position.

Williams came to Tampa Bay from Grambling University, and prospered, becoming the only starting black quarterback in the NFL.

— Tackle Stan Walters of the Philadelphia Eagles announced his retirement. Walters, 35, played 115 consecutive games spanning eight seasons.

"Stan just felt his time had run out," Eagles Coach Marion Campbell said. "He was one of
