Bike regulations to be enforced

The University Police Department will begin strict enforcement of state laws dealing with bicyclists today, Robert E. Wiatt, director of security and traffic, says.

"Operators of bicycles when they are on the roads have to operate as a vehicle operator," he says. "They have to stop at a stop sign. They have to stop at a red light. When a pedestrian is in the pedestrian crosswalk, they have to stop and allow that pedestrian to pass."

Other bicycle violations include:

- Not having a permanent or regular seat attached to the bicycle frame.

- Carrying more persons on the bicycle than it was designed for.

- Riding on the wrong side of the road.

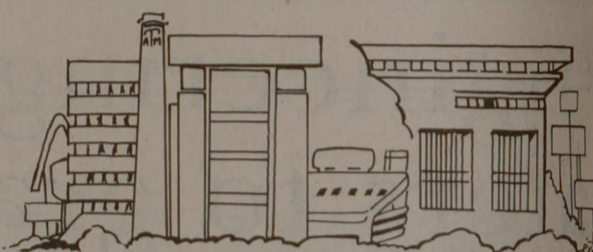

- Not riding single file except on paths set aside for exclusive bicycle use.

- Riding encumbered, unable to have one hand on the handlebars.

- Riding without a head light and a rear reflector at night.

- Riding without a brake.

Fines for moving violations on campus are $4.
