

OFFICIAL NOTICE

FAMILY EDUCATIONAL RIGHTS AND PRIVACY ACT OF 1974

DIRECTORY INFORMATION

To comply with the requirements of the "Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974," Texas A&M University must periodically announce publicly the policies and procedures implementing the act. Additional information is available from the Office of the Registrar.

The different types of student records are maintained in various university offices and the chief administrator in each of these offices is responsible for them.

Generally, with certain exceptions, the law provides that students and former students have the right to review their records, request explanations concerning them, obtain copies and challenge records which they feel are inaccurate, misleading or otherwise inappropriate.

The challenge procedure includes a full and fair opportunity for the student to present relevant evidence at a hearing. The law also provides that students may waive their right of access to confidential letters of recommendation and may also grant permission to release certain personally identifiable information.

The exception to this law, i.e., records not accessible to students, include educational personnel records in the sole possession of the author, records maintained for law enforcement purposes, employment records of non-students, records maintained by a physician, psychiatrist or psychologist and financial records of a student's parents.

The law also provides that in addition to University employees having a "legitimate educational interest," certain other governmental and quasi-governmental agencies and parents certifying that a student is carried as a dependent for income tax purposes may have access to student records.

The University can release "directory information" (such as name, address, telephone listing, major field of study, classification, date and place of birth, participation in activities and sports, height and weight of athletic team members and degrees and awards received, etc.); however, students may request that this information be withheld.

To request that such "directory information" be withheld by the University from public disclosure through such means as certification of enrollment, the campus directory, address and telephone lists for university organizations, etc., a student must complete and sign the proper form in the Office of the Registrar.

The student must realize that approximately one month is needed to remove this information from materials already in circulation. However, the campus directory is printed only once a year, and after printing, no information can be removed.

The student is responsible for renewing this request each September, and the validity of the requests extends from the date of the request to the following September 1st.

Individuals who have additional questions concerning the "Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974" or who wish to withhold "Directory Information" must contact the Office of the Registrar, Texas A&M University by Friday, September 23, 1983.

'Footstomper' strikes again

United Press International
NASHVILLE, Tenn. — George "Footstomper" Mitchell, whose brutal attraction to the female instep has earned him national notoriety and years in jail, has done it again.

Mitchell had been out of prison less than a month Sunday when his urge to stomp on women's insteps came over him. He put on his three-piece black pinstriped suit, inserted a rose in the lapel, pulled on his wooden-heeled black dress shoes, strolled down to the bus station and ran amok.

Before it was all over, said Metro Police Detective John Patton, "Footstomper" had stomped on the insteps of three women. The victims were "hobbling around when they left," Patton said, but none required medical treatment.

Mitchell was charged with four counts of aggravated assault, including assaulting the

Teen lawbreakers judged by juries compiled of peers

United Press International
GRAND PRAIRIE — A Texas justice of the peace says children who break the law deserve to be punished, and he has created a jury system of teenagers to sit in judgment of their law-breaking peers.

"Kids who break the law expect to be punished for it," said Cameron Gray, a 39-year-old former pastor with a law degree from Southern Methodist University.

"The thing I want to teach them is self respect," he said, and the only way for them to achieve that is by confronting their crime and paying back society.

Gray organized a system seven years ago that allows juvenile offenders charged with Class C misdemeanors to be tried by a jury of teenagers, prosecuted by a teenager and defended by a teenager. Gray sits as judge.

"I have a lot of faith in my teen jury," he said. Gray estimated 5,000 juveniles have been processed through his teen jury court system, which is in session twice a month.

The jury is composed of volunteers and lawbreakers ordered to sit as jurors during earlier court sessions.

"I think they're fair, but they lean on the side of harshness more than I would," Gray said. "They're certainly not lenient."

"I always respect the decision of the jury unless it's totally out of the realm of reason," Gray said.

He admitted that he had on occasion interceded on the side of leniency, but he didn't tell the jury about it. Gray said the teenagers who act as prosecutors and defense attorneys in his court are not fair.

"They're not supposed to be," he said. "I teach them to be advocates because it's a real court. Those are real crimes we're hearing. I try to get the prosecutors to be as mean as they can be and the defense attorneys to be the biggest bleeding heart liberals there ever were. That's the way it is in real life."

The cases that come before the court include traffic offenses, shoplifting, being drunk in public and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Some of the 10,000 spectators munched whole tomatoes if they were apples.

The soil in southern Texas provides just the right balance needed for tomatoes, farmers say. The town of mitigation, 14 miles south of Warren, calls itself the tomato capital of the world.

United Press International
Jim Palmer may have a long career in the American League East.

"My arm gets a little tired every time I pitch," said Palmer. "I just get to the point where I'm tired in a close game or eight innings and I think about that point."

Palmer spoke after eight hits over 7-1-3 to lead the Orioles to triumph over the Boston Sox. The victory enabled more to maintain the game lead over Milwaukee.

If Palmer can perform well, it would be a credit boost to the pennant hopes. For weeks, Palmer watched the disabled list as the Orioles led for the division lead. He can make a sizeable contribution to their stretch run.

"It's just nice to be in the win," said the Orioles' new pitcher. "I'm glad to see Young Award winner pitched his 267th career strikeout. This team is playing as well as it can. We've won 10 of 12, but an 8-1 win is conclusive about what I'm making."

Brigham ready

United Press International
PROVO, Utah — Brigham Young coach LaVell Edwards says he hopes his Cougars will take advantage of the Baylor weakness Saturday in the opening game of the season for both teams.

Edwards says his Cougars head into the game "in good shape as we've had Tuesday off. We've had our reserves, but we're still new in pre-season."

But Edwards says the Cougars "still need to get that only comes with experience. We've been ourselves for three weeks and we're ready to start on someone else."

Baylor has great strength in running back and receivers, but they have experienced people in the secondary and the line, and they have some quarterbacks. Hopefully, we can take advantage of that.

BYU's traditional show will be led by senior quarterback Steve Young for 3,100 yards and 20 touchdowns.

Tomato festival gets honored from California

United Press International
WARREN, Ark. — Benton County's famous tomato festival may still be clinging to the past, but the officials had to see California to get enough tomatoes for the annual celebration of the Pink Tomato Festival of the weekend.

Arkansas' cool, wet weather has delayed the $20 million tomato crop — usually a peak in early June — until the end of June. The red fruit for the festival's tomato eating and bobbing contests, as well as all-tomato lunch, had to be imported from California.

"We got nothing but ashamed of," said one farmer shoving his hands in his pockets. "No one controls the tomato market. We know the area around here grows the tomatoes in the world."

Some of the 10,000 spectators munched whole tomatoes if they were apples.
