Career day to lure students

by Karen Buttram

High school students will visit the Texas A&M campus and talk with college representatives on Career Day this Saturday.

Career Day which is sponsored by the Office of School Relations will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Each college from Texas A&M will have an exhibit on the second floor of the Memorial Student Center where students, professors and deans will take the students on tours of their facilities, Dr. Lloyd Taylor, director of the Office of Student Relations, said.

The agriculture and engineering colleges usually have the largest exhibits, Taylor said, because those departments are the ones that started Career Day.

The most pronounced changes in the agricultural exhibits this year, are the use of computers and video equipment, Assistant Dean Curtis Lard agriculture college said. The exhibits also will be different because animals are not permitted in the MSC.

Computers, along with a display of projects such as digital clocks, will be some of the engineering technology department's exhibits, Dr. Bill Grubbs of that department said.

A model of the space shuttle and possibly a model of a high-speed bike will be some of the displays that will be at the aerospace engineering department's booth, assistant professor Dr. Gerald Hall said.

favor," he said. Texas A&M students are clearing the land for the TMPA and the agency is letting Texas A&M borrow some of its equipment to do the work and haul the trees away, he said.

Cutting dates are: Oct. 1, 2, 9, 15, 16, 22, 23, 30, and Nov. 5 and 6.

The cutting site is on County Road 190. Direction signs will be posted along the road. Anyone interested in cutting for bonfire or needing additional directions should call 260-1155.
