Former AGRI workers implicate their bosses

United Press International
DES MOINES — Two AGRI Industries employees testifying under a shield of immunity Wednesday said top AGRI executives ordered the shipment of government owned wheat, but both men praised the honesty of the indicted executives.

George Kornstad, AGRI's director of facilities, and Joseph L. Duncan, a logistics planner, testified they initially resisted orders to ship the government-stored wheat, but consented when they learned the orders came from AGRI executive vice president Pat Kevin and president B.J. O'Dowd.

Some legal scrambling occurred Wednesday when a U.S. Department of Agriculture deputy director, called to testify about the complex federal grain storage program, indicated the government owed AGRI 75,000 bushels of wheat because of a similar incident.

Herb Cast, a Kansas City USDA regional deputy director testified the federal Commodity Credit Corporation, which owned the wheat allegedly stolen by AGRI, mistakenly sold a portion of stored grain twice last year, forcing AGRI to temporarily make up the difference out of its own reserves.

Judge Harold Vietor immediately sent the jury out of the courtroom and none of that testimony became part of the court record.

Joseph Lee Duncan, a former logistics planner for the giant grain marketer, testified in U.S. District Court that Jack Wyard and Tom Williamson ordered 133,000 bushels of government wheat to be shipped from Fort Worth to Houston to fill out an order for an AGRI customer.

Wyard, 43, of Des Moines, and Williamson, 38, of Clive, are two of six AGRI officials indicted along with the company for conspiring to steal about $500,000 worth of government-owned grain.

Fire in school, children safe

United Press International
SPRINGTOWN — A fire Wednesday in a small rural elementary school consumed the old building but caused no injuries to the 129 second-graders who were led to safety, officials said.

Reports from Springtown, about 25 miles northwest of Fort Worth, said the fire apparently was caused by faulty wiring. It broke out under the wooden bleachers in the school's gymnasium.

The building, one of four elementary schools in Springtown, contained 129 second-graders when the fire broke out but all were rescued safely.

539 coal miners called to work

United Press International
Two coal companies have announced the recall of more than 539 miners and salaried employees at three West Virginia mines.

Pittsburgh-based Consolidation Coal Co. said Wednesday it will recall more than 200 hourly and salaried employees at its Blacksville No. 1 Mine near Blacksville and its Blacksville No. 2 Mine near Wana, both in Boone County.

Kitt Energy Corp. also announced the 339 of its employees began returning to work Tuesday at its No. 1 mine near Phillip in Barbour County.

More than 300 employees were laid off earlier this year at the Consolidation mines because of depressed coal markets, the company said.

The recalls were made because of a slight improvement in the demand for steam coal, said C.W. McDonald, a senior vice president of the company.

The recall at Kitt comes less than a week after the mine was closed and 200 miners laid off. About 350 others had been furloughed in August.

A Kitt spokesman, Frank Burlingham, said the company hopes the layoffs will improve production.

Living With Loud Speakers

Living with loudspeakers—Despite all advertising to the contrary, it is not particularly difficult to design a good loudspeaker. The basic knowledge and materials have been available for some time, and any of many design concepts can produce excellent sound.

Even so, many people own loudspeakers that simply aren't very good. People who own those speakers are surprised and disappointed that they don't enjoy listening to music as much as they might.

On the other hand, people who own Advent loudspeakers say that they find a new excitement in familiar music and a happy interest in new music. Technical reviewers in the USA and around the world point to the Advent loudspeakers as a standard of value.

If you listen closely and at length to any Advent speaker, preferably with musical material that is familiar to you, we believe you will have no trouble hearing why the Advent reputation for excellence is so widespread.

FOR THOSE WHO TAKE THEIR MUSIC SERIOUSLY...
