

Mauro foresees problems with King Ranch's lease

United Press International
AUSTIN — Land Commissioner Garry Mauro said an audit by the General Land Office may have turned up legal problems with a lease on 18,039 acres of King Ranch land the state has a mineral interest in. "I think we have a problem lease," he said "I don't know exactly where the problem is." The King Ranch, a sprawling ranch located in South Texas, acquired the land under the Relinquishment Act, a law that allowed the ranch to act as the state's agent for oil and gas exploration and share in any royalties. The lands were part of nearly a million acre parcel leased to Humble Oil and Refining Co., the predecessor of Exxon Co. USA, by the King Ranch in 1933 in exchange for a $3.5 million loan.

Feminist's murder trial delayed for one month

United Press International
GRETNA, La. — The trial of California feminist leader Ginny Foat on charges of committing murder 18 years ago Tuesday was postponed for a month by a judge who cited pre-trial publicity and lost time for legal preparation.

State District Judge Robert Burns said recent newspaper articles questioning the availability of a witness in the 1965 killing could prejudice potential jurors. He also said attorneys had to spend time recently preparing pre-trial motions, leaving them with little time to prepare their cases.

"I think there would be an injustice to both sides if we were to go to trial today," said Burns. He ordered the trial to start Nov. 7.

Foat refused to comment as she walked out of the courthouse with her attorneys, but friend and fellow California feminist leader Kay Tsenin said Foat was disappointed.

"In Ginny's mind, the quicker she can get her case in front of the jury, the quicker she can be acquitted," she said.

Another supporter said the delay would help defense attorneys, who spent the summer and the entire month of September trying unsuccessfully to convince a series of state courts that the murder charge should have been thrown out because Foat was denied a speedy trial.

"It's like studying for a test — you always wish you had another week or a month. But we were prepared today," said Jan Holden, leader of a defense fund that has raised more than $40,000 and needs another $50,000 to cover attorney's fees and other costs.

Foat planned to return immediately to California. Her attorneys insisted she still could get a fair trial in Jefferson Parish, despite controversy over the news story.

An article published Monday in The Times-Picayune — Times-Item said prosecutors had been unable to find a witness in the 18-year-old case. The article, saying the unnamed witness actually would help Foat prove she was innocent.

Prosecutors claim Foat lured Moises Chayo, an Argentine businessman, to a deserted location where she and one of her four ex-husbands, John Sidote, robbed him of $1,400 and killed him when he resisted.

Sidote will be the government's primary witness.

United Press International
SAN FRANCISCO — Florida officials should help pay the medical costs of a critically ill AIDS patient sent to San Francisco for treatment against his will, San Francisco's public health director said Tuesday.
Dr. Mervyn Silverman said he couldn't believe Shands Hospital in Gainesville, Fla., spent $7,000 to fly Morgan MacDonald, 27, to San Francisco by Lear jet a week ago and left him on a stretcher at an AIDS research foundation with $300 pocket money.
Mayor Dianne Feinstein had telegraphed Florida Gov. Bob Graham Saturday demanding an investigation of the incident. She said the patient was "dumped" in San Francisco, an act she called "outrageous and inhumane."
"We're in the health business, not the transportation business," Silverman said. "We can't forget that here's an individual in an extreme condition. To be moved about like this is tragic."
Silverman said it was costing the city at least $500 a day to care for MacDonald at San Francisco General Hospital's special AIDS ward, the only one of its kind the nation set up to treat the deadly Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

MacDonald was listed in poor but stable condition Tuesday.
"I certainly would hope the state of Florida, or the hospital — I'm not sure which — would reimburse San Francisco for the care we are providing Silverman said.

Silverman said MacDonald told him he was transported to the West Coast against his will. He was accompanied by a physician, a social worker and a nurse.
In Florida, Steve Hull, press secretary for Gov. Graham, said the state's Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services was asked to investigate the matter.
AIDS, which cripples the body's natural immune system, leaves its victims susceptible to a host of illnesses, including various forms of cancer. The disease has afflicted 2,416 people — and killed 981 since it was first recognized in 1981. Most of its victims are homosexual men.
