

Battalion Football Forecast

Texas A&M at Baylor	Bob Caster A&M by 6	John Wagner A&M by 1	John P. Lopez A&M by 7	Melissa Adair A&M by 7	dp A&M by 12	Reveille A&M by 7
Texas at Arkansas	Texas by 10	Texas by 10	Arkansas by 3	Texas by 12	Texas by 2	Arkansas by 6
Rice at Texas Tech	Texas Tech by 13	Texas Tech by 7	Texas Tech by 14	Texas Tech by 17	Texas Tech by 14	Rice by 12
Ole Miss at TCU	TCU by 3	Ole Miss by 2	Ole Miss by 7	TCU by 1	Ole Miss by 1	Ole Miss by 11
Oklahoma State at Oklahoma	Oklahoma by 4	Oklahoma State by 3	Oklahoma by 7	Oklahoma by 3	Oklahoma State by 1	Oklahoma by 4
Tennessee at Alabama	Alabama by 10	Alabama by 6	Alabama by 4	Alabama by 6	Alabama by 2	Alabama by 7
UCLA at Washington State	UCLA by 14	Washington State by 4	UCLA by 7	UCLA by 7	UCLA by 1	Washington State by 2
Ohio State at Illinois	Ohio State by 13	Illinois by 1	Ohio State by 3	Illinois by 6	Ohio State by 3	Illinois by 9
Philadelphia at Dallas	Dallas by 7	Dallas by 10	Dallas by 7	Dallas by 10	Dallas by 3	Philadelphia by 14
Houston at Minnesota	Minnesota by 3	Minnesota by 13	Minnesota by 14	Minnesota by 7	Minnesota by 7	Minnesota by 36
Percent	Bob Caster .000	John Wagner 25-15 .625	John P. Lopez 26-14 .650	Melissa Adair 12-8 .600	dp 23-17 .575	Reveille 27-13 .675

Orioles' Ford is OK after hit Wednesday

PHILADELPHIA — Dan Ford spent his day Thursday fielding caroms off the wall on the damp artificial surface at Veterans Stadium.

It certainly was better than the carom that propelled his batting helmet and glasses in two different directions Wednesday night and left a crowd of more than 52,000 at Baltimore Memorial Stadium and millions more watching on national television in a state of horror.

The Orioles' right fielder was beamed by the Philadelphia Phillies' Willie Hernandez in the fifth inning of Baltimore's 4-1 win in Game 2. Or, as he recalled Thursday — "That's the most frightening thing that can happen to a guy at the plate."

But, fortunately, Ford was unhurt and he will be in the lineup Friday night against Steve Carlton in the third game of the World Series.

Ford had the presence of mind Thursday to recount his thoughts at the time of the beating.

"You see the ball coming and you have no time to think," he said. "I didn't react quickly or well. But the ball never hit me. It grazed the bill of my helmet and my helmet knocked my glasses off my face.

"When I was laying on the ground, I knew I was hit. But it never occurred to me that I was hurt until they asked, 'Where is the pain coming from?'"

"I was in shock. I got hit in the head and I'm thinking, 'What am I going to do now?'"

Ford said the only pain he felt was where his glasses pushed against his eyebrow. He received care for that area of his face but otherwise was all right.

"Once I thought about it, I didn't have much pain," he said.

United Press International

PHILADELPHIA — Dan Ford spent his day Thursday fielding caroms off the wall on the damp artificial surface at Veterans Stadium.

It certainly was better than the carom that propelled his batting helmet and glasses in two different directions Wednesday night and left a crowd of more than 52,000 at Baltimore Memorial Stadium and millions more watching on national television in a state of horror.

The Orioles' right fielder was beamed by the Philadelphia Phillies' Willie Hernandez in the fifth inning of Baltimore's 4-1 win in Game 2. Or, as he recalled Thursday — "That's the most frightening thing that can happen to a guy at the plate."

But, fortunately, Ford was unhurt and he will be in the lineup Friday night against Steve Carlton in the third game of the World Series.

Ford had the presence of mind Thursday to recount his thoughts at the time of the beating.

"You see the ball coming and you have no time to think," he said. "I didn't react quickly or well. But the ball never hit me. It grazed the bill of my helmet and my helmet

Missouri will have to work to oust Nebraska from 1st

United Press International

MISSOURI showed the Big Eight how it was done last week. The Tigers will now have to show a lot more in their bid to oust Nebraska from its No. 1 ranking.

In its best offensive performance of the season last week, Missouri massacred Colorado 59-20. Nebraska, however, is another story.

Missouri coach Warren Powers, who played at Nebraska during the early 1960s, hopes the Tigers will find a team weakened by a steady pounding from Oklahoma State, which narrowly missed a tremendous upset in losing 14-10 to the Cornhuskers last Saturday.

"We've got to go out believing we can win and that may be the key," says Missouri defensive end Bobby Bell. "All 11 guys, have to play together with confidence."

"I have confidence in our team. You gotta be crazy to work year-round as a football player and think we can't beat Nebraska. That's not what I came to Missouri for."

The teams are 1-0 in the Big Eight, where Nebraska is seeking to repeat as league champion. Overall, the Huskers are 6-0 to Missouri's 3-2.

Unbeaten and second-ranked Texas meets Arkansas. The Longhorns last week had to rally to beat Oklahoma 28-16 for their fourth straight victory.

Twice in the last 12 years a nationally ranked Texas team played at Little Rock and both times the Longhorns lost. The Razorbacks again host the Texans in Arkansas' capital city Saturday.

"Personally, I think Texas is the number one team in the country," said Arkansas coach Lou Holtz. "Nebraska is a great team, but Texas is awesome. Some people have Nebraska playing in the NFL on Sunday. If that's so, Texas should be playing Monday night."

In other games, No. 3 North Carolina plays North Carolina State, No. 4 West Virginia meets Virginia Tech, No. 6 Georgia tackles Vanderbilt, No. 7 Ohio State goes against No. 14 Illinois, No. 8 Auburn clashes with Georgia Tech and No. 10 Alabama faces Tennessee. No. 5 Florida and No. 9 Southern Methodist are idle.

Phillies told not to expect pitches; just swing away at 'what they see'

United Press International

PHILADELPHIA — Philadelphia Phillies manager Paul Owens is getting his team ready for Game 3 of the World Series using the well-known baseball proverb: "You can't hit what you can't see."

The Phillies have managed only eight hits off Baltimore pitching through the first two games of the series. They will seek better success Friday night against Orioles left-hander Mike Flanagan.

Flanagan's style — a variety of pitches thrown at an assortment of speeds — is similar to that of previous starters Scott McGregor and Mike Boddicker, who allowed the Phillies just three hits and an unearned run in Wednesday night's 4-1 victory.

Owens' message to his hitters can be summed up in two words — patience and discipline.

"The key (to hitting) which we were trying to tell the players last night is that with a pitcher like that (Boddicker), you've got to hit what you can see," Owens said Thursday during the Phillies' workout at Veterans Stadium. "You can't go up there looking for something."

"Flanagan is a lot like the one we faced last night. You know he's not going to go out and blow the ball by you."

For veteran Phillies such as Joe Morgan and Gary Matthews, it's a matter of adjusting to pitchers they haven't seen before.

"You have to see a guy a time or two," Morgan said. "That's one thing about a World Series — you haven't seen the pitcher before. That was the trouble with Boddicker. I didn't know what to expect until I actually saw him."

"That guy (Boddicker) threw so many breaking balls that you knew what was coming, but you still couldn't hit it."

The Phillies are glad to be back at Veterans Stadium, which is considered a hitters' ballpark.

They ripped the Los Angeles Dodgers for 22 hits in back-to-back 7-2 victories last weekend in the final two games of the National League Championship Series.

RICE & JODY BROOCKS

Howdy Ags!
I'm looking forward to seeing you again October 16 & 17. It's been a while since I've been to the finest school in the land -- A&M!

I remember the powerful things that God did when Rosie Greer and I spoke out by the fountain and around campus. Since that time last spring, I have appeared on several talk shows, traveled from Australia to California to the East Coast -- and talked about you guys too.

Monday afternoon I'll be presenting my Creation VS Evolution Seminar in Rudder at 2:00 in room 301. Every student in Aggieland needs to be there.

I'll be in Rudder Tower at 7:30 Sunday the 16th and Monday the 17th. I'd like to see some of you whom I got to know the last time I came. I'd like to see some new faces too! So come on out Sunday and Monday night. Bring your Corps buddies, best friend, girlfriend, or whomever!! You just be sure and come. See you then!!

In the name of Jesus,
Rice Brooks
Rice Brooks

P.S. If you need anymore information, just call my close friend, Brady Clark at 693-3835

MUSICIANS' WORLD and KORG KEYBOARDS Present

Mr. Dan Hoerle in a Keyboard Clinic on Saturday-October 15 from 12:00 noon until???

AT MUSICIAN'S WORLD

907D Harvey Rd 693-8808 open: 11-7pm Mon-Fri 11-6pm Fri-Sat

Don't let the rest of the Semester go to waist!

STAY IN SHAPE THE REST OF THE SEMESTER

FOR ONLY $45 at

BODY DYNAMICS

Classes 7 days a week. Exercise as often as you like

BODY DYNAMICS

In the Post Oak Village

900 Harvey Rd

696-7180