

Savitch is remembered as a beautiful person

United Press International
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — NBC television newswoman Jessica Savitch was remembered by a former colleague as "a very beautiful person" Tuesday in a private, 20-minute funeral attended by about 30 relatives and friends.

Savitch, 36, and a companion, New York Post Vice President Martin Fischbein, 34, drowned Sunday night after Fischbein's car swerved off a rain-slicked road and plunged into the Delaware Canal in New Hope, Pa.

Savitch's mother, Florence, and two sisters, Lori and Stephanie, were among the mourners at Roth Memorial Chapel, where Mort Crim, an anchorman for WDVII-TV in Detroit, delivered a eulogy.

Crim, a friend of Savitch's since the two worked in Philadelphia, told reporters the service was a "private thing between friends and family."

Also attending the services were CBS newsmen Ed Bradley, a reporter on the "60 Minutes" news program, and Sue Simmons, an anchorwoman for WNBC-TV in New York.
