comfortable, Mrs. Gibler said. "My idea of camping out is Holiday Inn with a black and white TV," she said.

She said they will probably come back after Mike graduates. "Autumn thinks this is home," Mrs. Gibler said. "And we believe in A&M."

Jack Moore of Ingram, Walter Glenney of San Antonio and David Trent of Del Rio, have reserved slips together for their motor homes in Olsen Grove Park.

Glenney, who parks in slip number 35 because he is Class of '35, said they don't stay in the park for the price but just for pleasure.

Everyone else is rushing down here and rushing off while we're here relaxing, he said.

Moore, Class of '56, said a motor home is the only way to come to a football game.

"We take our time walking to the game, watch the Corps march-in, and when the game is over, come back and cook steaks," he said.

Moore said he and his wife come to every game they can and as far as they're concerned, the Aggies never lose, they just run out of time.

"We don't like it when the Aggies don't win and we get mad," Glenney said. "But we get over it and keep coming and we'll be back the next time they don't win too."

if they are not working or if there is a TV in the station."

Ken Hutchenrider, vice president of the care team, said that he doesn't mind missing the game because he gets satisfaction at the thought that he may be able to make a difference in someone's life.

"It is a drive to help people that keeps us here," Hutchenrider said. "Everyone on the team is patient oriented and they want to help the sick and injured in any way they can. We stress the aspect of helping a lot. We stress it so much and that's what helps to keep us patient-oriented."

Menger put it this way:

"If you've ever saved anyone's life, it is the greatest thing in the world. It's hard work and we might complain a lot because we don't have enough time for school or sleep, but it's all worth it when you help someone, no matter if it's a football game or not. Even though I call it a job at times, it's because that's what it sometimes feels like. We don't get paid for any of this, but it's all worth it. It's all very worth it."
