Britain reports 4 Grenada deaths

Americans died in the invasion of the Caribbean island — more than twice the official figure issued by the Pentagon.

The United States may have lost between 12 and 20 helicopters, not four as officially re-

"Although United States spokesmen admit to only 18 Americans killed in action, I am told that at least 42 have been killed since they came ashore on Oct. 25," Tony Allen-Mills wrote in The Daily Telegraph, citing "impeccable sources" on the is-land. "My sources say that, with many more men extremely seriously wounded, the figure could reach 80 dead.

"My sources indicate that the United States is deliberately disnada," Allen-Mills said.

Journalists working for the British Broadcasting Corp. and another of Britain's most respected daily newspapers, The pancy in figures noting the U.S.

Guardian, filed detailed dispatches backing their claims with news of incidents previously unreported.

Journalists also said between 50 and 100 Grenadians died in the U.S.-led invasion to rescue American students and overthrow a Marxist regime. Washington has officially re-

Pentagon spokesman Maj. Bob Shields denied the reports and in Tokyo, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said, "I don't have anything to indicate anything different from the 18 dead" reported by the Penta-gon. The BBC and the papers carried the U.S. denials in their dispatches.
