

Third crash in area

Plane crash kills four

United Press International
EL PASO — A small plane, battered by winds of up to 45 knots, crashed into the snow-capped Franklin Mountains early Tuesday, killing all four people aboard.

The crash brings to 17 the number of people killed in airplane accidents in the area within the past four days.

Police said a California man, Gordon R. Coker, 49, his two daughters and the pilot were killed when their Cessna 210 crashed into the mountains above McKelligon Canyon, a popular El Paso County wilderness park.

Tuesday's accident was the second small plane crash in the area in less than six hours. The Texas Department of Public Safety reported a Tucson man, Robert Humphrey, 59, was killed when his plane crashed in the windy desert about 39 miles east of El Paso, at about 6:30 p.m., Monday.

Chihuahua City, Mexico millionaire Enrique Elias Mueller and 11 others were killed Friday when their turbo-prop plane crashed in the desert east of Juarez, Mexico, across the Rio Grande from El Paso.

In the Tuesday morning crash, the pilot of the single-engine Cessna had just taken off from El Paso International Airport, officials said. An FAA spokesman at the El Paso tower said the pilot had filed a flight plan showing he was heading for El Monte, Calif.

Coker, registered owner of the plane, owned Coker Construction Co. Inc., of Santa Fe Springs, Calif.

A secretary at the Coker office said Coker, two of his daughters, and the pilot were returning from a funeral for Coker's nephew in Florida. The daughters were aged 11 and 13, she said.

Searchers headed up to the crash site in four-wheel vehicles but had to climb the top half of the icy peaks on foot, reaching the site after several hours of climbing. Members of the rescue team said there were no survivors.

By mid afternoon the members of the rescue team still had not been able to recover the bodies because of gusting winds and icy terrain, police said.

In the Monday evening crash, Humphrey was piloting a Mooney M20J aircraft when it plunged to the desert floor about 39 miles east of El Paso. The crash site is nearly one mile north of Highway 62-180, near Cornudas, a small West Texas town in the Guadalupe Mountains about 20 miles south of the New Mexico line.

The Department of Public Safety report indicated the plane went down "during a period of high wind and blowing dust." State police said the plane came to rest upside down on its nose and right wing.

An Army helicopter from Fort Bliss was used to locate the wreck, which was not visible from the highway.

West Germany OKs Pershing-2 shipments

United Press International
BONN, West Germany — The Bundestag approved the deployment of new U.S. nuclear missiles in West Germany Tuesday despite protests by anti-American demonstrators who burst into a U.S. consulate, blocked traffic and tried to barge into communist Berlin.

Police arrested 166 protesters around the country as the government announced the first U.S. Pershing-2 nuclear missiles would arrive Wednesday.

"Americans, we don't want your bloody arms in our country," said a placard waved by one of the demonstrators outside the Parliament building.

Parliament gave Chancellor Helmut Kohl's Christian Democrat-led coalition the go-ahead for deployment of 108 Pershing-2 and 96 cruise missiles by a vote of 286 to 226.

The only thing that could hold up the deployment at this point would be an unlikely last-minute agreement at the Geneva disarmament talks with the Soviet Union.

The vote came after a bitter, two-day debate in the lower house of Parliament accompanied by demonstrations in Bonn, West Berlin, Frankfurt, Hamburg and Bremen.

Kohl's Christian Democrats and Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher's Free Democrats have a 58-seat majority in the Bundestag.

In Washington, White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said, "We're pleased that the Federal Republic of Germany has reaffirmed its earlier commitment to the NATO dual-track decision of 1979," referring to the deploying of the missiles while continuing the Geneva talks.

About 600 people blocked the U.S. Consulate in the Baltic port of Bremen and protesters, who burst into the building, locked themselves in a room and refused to leave, police said.

They were arrested after giving up the protest while firemen threatened to smash the lock.

The total number of arrests for the two-day debate was 348.

Arrival of the first missile was expected to prompt more protests by the anti-missile movement.

Trinity officials track source of typhoid fever

United Press International
SAN ANTONIO — Health officials Tuesday took samples from Trinity University food service employees in an attempt to track down the source of a typhoid fever outbreak.

Trinity Spokeswoman Christie Lewis said health officials confirmed that three students contracted the disease and that two other students were suspected of having it.

One student with a confirmed case has recovered and returned to class, she said.

Health officials took blood and stool samples from university food service employees and checked restaurants near a school.

"They're taking samples from everybody in the dining service, and the health department is taking case histories of the (affected) students," Mrs. Lewis said.

"It's interesting that it's students. They don't have anything in common. They don't know each other. They don't date each other," she said.

Mrs. Lewis said Trinity officials were warning the school's 2,000 students of typhoid symptoms before the Thanksgiving holidays, fearing other students may come down with the disease while away from the area.

The current outbreak is the worst in San Antonio since 1980 when 80 people contracted the disease. All of those victims recovered.
