Candidate denounces new money

United Press International
EL PASO — U.S. Rep. Ron Paul, a Senate hopeful, said Wednesday he is opposed to a proposal to insert metallic strips in American currency.

Paul is campaigning in El Paso for the Republican nomination to the Senate seat being vacated by Sen. John Tower.

The Lake Jackson congressman said the creation of new U.S. paper currency is an example of government trying to erode individual freedom.

14th consecutive increase

Indicators rise 0.8%

United Press International
WASHINGTON — Leading economic indicators advanced 0.8 percent in October, pointing to more economic expansion despite high interest rates and federal deficits, the government said Wednesday.

The change in the composite index, which serves as a barometer of economic trends, was the 14th consecutive increase. The rise was smaller than in seven of the first 10 months of this year, yet enough to reassure analysts that no unwelcome surprises are threatened for the near future.

The index has grown 21.1

percent since March 1982, when the sensitive government indicators hit bottom. At that point the economy still had a long way farther down to go and the improvement in the leading indicators proved to be wildly premature.

Despite its shortcomings as a forecasting device, the index is the government's best attempt to tell the future. And the future for the time being is bright, analysts said.

"This means that the recovery is on track and the leading indicators show substantial economic improvement still ahead — full steam ahead," a White House spokesman said.

Six of the 10 indicators measured in October contributed to the overall improvement, foremost among them the pace of new business formations.

A slight deterioration in the length of the average workweek was the strongest of the four negative factors for the month.

Besides business formations, the positive indicators for October were new orders for consumer goods, the pace of deliveries, building permits, stock prices and the money supply.

Holding back the month's increase, besides the average workweek, was an increase in the average weekly initial claim for state unemployment insurance. Other negative categories were orders for factory equipment and raw materials prices.

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige, in a statement prepared by his economic advisers, said that even with the decline in one important category, orders for factory equipment, he is still encouraged.

"October's capital goods orders were 11.7 percent above the third quarter's average, reinforcing the favorable outlook for the capital spending recovery now in progress," he said.

Greyhound union members meet with federal mediator

United Press International
WASHINGTON — Union leaders representing striking Greyhound workers, armed with a renewed pledge of support from the AFL-CIO, met Wednesday with chief federal mediator Kay McMurray.

The company has warned that the nationwide walkout has reached "the point of no return," but there was no indication from AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Donahue of a quick end to the strike.

"I think that what you have is a robust strike with a group of workers that are very determined to stay united," Donahue, the federation's second-ranking official, said after a strategy session.

"I think that the company's posture at this point is a very tough one and we'll just have to see what the outcome of that strike is," he said.

The strike, now under way for 28 days, has been marked by periodic violence, and a working Greyhound driver's home in California was firebombed early Wednesday.

"We have reached the point of no return in protecting the jobs of our employees," Greyhound Chairman John Teets.

Noting the labor federation's tradition of non-involvement in bargaining, Donahue said, "What needs to happen is for Greyhound people to come to the bargaining table and to try to work out those differences in the collective bargaining."

He said Americans should be concerned about the collective bargaining system.

Stays given to Texas murderers

United Press International
HUNTSVILLE — Texas death row inmates had been given mid-December execution dates have been stayed from federal judges, officials said Wednesday.

Thomas Andy Barefoot, who was scheduled to die by injection on Dec. 14, received a stay from U.S. District Judge Lucius D. Bunton moments after convicted killer Robert Swan was executed in Florida.

Barefoot was given the stay based on a legal issue pending before the Supreme Court concerning the proportionality of sentences for similar crimes.

Barefoot, a former convict worker from New Iberia, La., was sentenced to die for the August 7, 1978 shooting death of Harker Heights policeman Doyle Edward Skillern.

Doyle Edward Skillern was scheduled to die on Dec. 14. He received his stay on Nov. 21 from the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which said because "an appeal is still pending the scheduling of an execution is premature."

Skillern was sentenced to die for the 1974 death of Patricia Randel, a state undercover narcotics agent, who was shot at a roadside park near Georgetown, West.
