Baby causes home loss

United Press International
TAMARAC, Fla. — A couple had to move out of a $100,000 adult community because they had a baby said they will fight to the Supreme Court to keep their home.

Three months ago, Ron and Bonnie Pomerantz were told on to the property they would be evicted from their home in the adult community of Woodlands because they had a baby, Erika, now 6 months old.

The affluent development was children as permanent residents. The Woodlands Homeowners Assn. is seeking an injunction under a state law that children can be prohibited as residents of adults-only communities in the area.

This is the first illegal thing I have ever done in my life, and all I had was have a baby," Mrs. Pomerantz, 30, told UPI Wednesday. Mrs. Pomerantz, who has lived in Tamarac for more than 6 years, said she and her husband are challenging the association on constitutional grounds that the First Amendment applies to children, too. Last week, the American Civil Liberties Union agreed to argue their case — to the Supreme Court if necessary.

Officers gather for conference, compare notes on Lucas, Toole

United Press International

MONROE, La. — Police investigators from 22 states gathered Tuesday to compare notes on the bloody, cross-country death sprees of two admitted mass killers and hoped to trace the paths of other men accused in multiple slayings.

The three-day conference scheduled to begin Wednesday is the second national meeting by officers hoping to tie unsolved murders in their areas to Henry Lee Lucas or Ottis Elwood Toole.

Lucas, a one-eyed drifter convicted of killing his mother, and Toole, a convicted arsonist, have detailed for police slayings they committed both alone and together.

Lucas has admitted 150 slayings, and has been charged with seven Texas killings and one in Louisiana. He earlier pleaded guilty to killing an elderly Texas woman and was sentenced to 75 years in prison. He also received a life prison term for his conviction in the death of his teenage common-law wife.

Toole, a 36-year-old drifter, is serving a 20-year prison term in Florida for arson, and has confessed to killing at least 50 people. He admitted killing and decapitating a 6-year-old Florida boy, but then recanted the confession.

Officers from across the nation gathered in Monroe last October to compare notes on the men, and requested at the time that a second conference be scheduled, said Monroe police Lt. Joe Cummings.

"There is so much more information that we have gathered since the previous conference," Cummings said Tuesday. "It was decided at the first one that we needed to have a second in the next three to six months."

Toole and Lucas have been charged in the slaying of a Northeast Louisiana University co-ed, and Toole has been accused of killing an Iowa, La., woman near Lake Charles and a teenager near Monroe.

Both men remain suspects in numerous unsolved slayings, and officers hope to gather needed evidence to file charges against them, Cummings said.

"The figure we have is 60 (cases tied to Lucas and Toole)," he said. "But there are other officers that have more information to tie them to killings. That's one thing we want to try to determine — to find out just how many cases are secured against these individuals."

"There are always going to be more charges filed against them."

Officers also will discuss at least two other men believed responsible for killings in more than one state, Cummings said, but he declined to give any information on the men.

Woman skips law school

United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO — A legal secretary prepped by "reading the law" and tutoring from her boss has passed the California State Bar examination. Nearly 4,000 law-school graduates flunked it.

Myrna Oglesby, 48, of Ukiah, Calif., last received formal education in high school 32 years ago.

A total of 3,906 law-school graduates — 51 percent — learned last month that they had flunked the examination.

To qualify to take the exam without being a law-school graduate one must:

- Pass a Bar Association college equivalency test.
- Work in the office of a lawyer or judge willing to devote at least 5 hours a week to one-on-one educational supervision.
- And study a minimum of 18 hours per week outside the office for 48 weeks of each year, with the tutor filing a report every six months with the State Bar on the content.

Oglesby's mentor was her boss, lawyer Jared Carter, who taught her for five years before she felt ready to tackle the bar exam.

She said that key advantages to bypassing law school were "saving classroom time by doing it my way instead of listening to some lectures that, perhaps, wouldn't have been beneficial" and "the fact that I had my own personal tutor — which you don't get in large law schools."
