Dickerson says he sometimes wears thermal underwear under his jogging shorts or warm ups. "Layers are the best," he says. 'As you warm up you can always take something off and tie it around your shoulders or waist." He also suggests wearing a cap and cotton gloves.

Dr. Claude Goswick, director of the Student Health Center, says the cold shouldn't stop outside exercising except for those who know they have had promblems previously.

"Actually, it is better to run now as opposed to the summer, because in the summer you have to deal with the humidity and the heat," Goswick says. It takes shape, he says, any form of exermore energy and calories to run in the cold, because your body has to work harder just to keep

There shouldn't be any real problems with winter running in this area. Except for the real bitter cold days, there isn't much chance of getting frostbite. Goswick also suggests proper coverage of the head and hands to keep the heat in.

Getting out and sweating doesn't necessarily cause a cold, Goswick says. Breathing the cold, dry air may irritate the lungs and cause a cough. He suggests breathing in through the nose so the mucus membrane will warm the air before it reaches the lungs and prevent irritation.

Dickerson and Higham agree that the wind can be a problem for joggers. They suggest that it's best to start out running into the cold wind so you can go slowly, and when your body works up a sweat you don't turn around and face the wind.

Higham also suggests running only in an area that you are familiar with in case you have to stop running and seek shelter.

Moscow accuses President of using cover-up speech

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union accused President Reagan Thursday of using his State of the Union address as a campaign speech to cover up failed domestic programs and a militaristic foreign policy.

Tass said the speech Wednesday to a joint session of Congress was "made in a spirit of electioneering."

The official news agency described it as "an attempt to picture in a favorable light the results of his three-year rule and justify his policy, marked by extreme aggressiveness in the international field and total disregard for the needs of the common people.

The Novosti news agency said Reagan's speech had "many high-sounding slogans, but little of substance.

It dismissed Reagan's direct appeal to the Soviet people to build a safer world as "melodramatic" and "highly in-appropriate in its insincerity." While offering no concrete while offering he concrete proposals for thawing rela-tions between the United States and the Soviet Union, Reagan appealed directly to the Soviet people to seek Holland said she had never used or ordered anyone to use the drug Anectine, the brand name for the muscle relaxant, succinylcholine. Therefore, she said, she was surprised to discover two needlemarks in the bottle a few days after 15-month-old Chelsea McClellan died.

Jones, a 33-year-old mother of two, is accused of killing Chelsea by injecting her with succinylcholine at Dr. Holland's office on Sept. 17, 1982. Hol-land said she approached Jones after the nurse seemed "coolly defensive" after being ques-tioned about a missing bottle of Anectine

She (Jones) could not explain how the holes got there. I said 'Genene, how am I going to explain these holes?' She said, 'I don't think we should explain them at all. After all, we thought we lost it. I think we should just throw it out."

Jones, who had remained unemotional throughout the trial, was trembling violently and clinging to the arms of her attorney's secretary as she left the courtroom Thursday following the doctor's testimony.

Holland was scheduled to resume testimony at 9 a.m. today. Chelsea's mother, Petti McClellan, previously testified
