Michelle Tatum scored a career-high 30 points Monday night to lead the Texas A&M women's basketball team to an 85-69 victory over Texas Christian in G. Rollie White.

The game broke a three game Southwest Conference losing streak and advanced the Aggie's record to 9-8 on the season, 2-5 in conference. TCU dropped to 5-13, 1-7.

TCU stayed close throughout the first half — primarily because they held Tatum to 11 points.

But Tatum, whose previous high-game was 28 against Southern Methodist, could hardly be stopped after the break and the Aggies pulled away. She scored 12 of the first 16 Aggie points in the second half.

Coach Cherri Rapp was all smiles after the game.

"(Tatum) did a good job tonight," Rapp said. "We had three losses in a row and were beginning to get our heads down."

Rapp says the win will help the team as it prepares to close out the first-half of SWC action Thursday in Houston.

"Houston is loaded with talent," she said. "They've got a lot more size than we do."

"It's really wide open when they're at home. They just run and gun a lot. We're going to try and press them, force turnovers."

The Houston game begins at 4:30 in Hofheinz Pavilion and precedes the men's game.

Two holes-in-one

Ag golfer defies odds

Every golfer, from the hacker to the pro, strives for the elusive hole-in-one. Some golfers live an entire lifetime without ever seeing their shot travel from the tee box to the cup in a single stroke.

Dave Jones, a member of the Texas A&M golf team, was fortunate enough to experience the ultimate golfer's thrill not once, but twice in the same round Monday at the Bryan Municipal Golf Course.

Texas A&M golf coach Bob Ellis was astounded.

"It's a very, very unusual feat to get a hole-in-one," he said. "The odds are about one-in-a-million. But to get two in one round is almost unheard of."

Starting out on the backside of the course, Jones, a junior from Dulles High School, sank his first hole-in-one on the 12th hole, a 180-yard par three, using a 2-iron into the wind. He gave a repeat performance on the second hole, a 165-yd par three, this time using a 4-iron.

"I couldn't believe it, I was just in a daze," Jones said. "I was barely able to finish my round. I wasn't playing too good at the time so it kind of helped my score."

Jones, along with the rest of the golf team, will be spending the next two days qualifying for a tournament in West Columbia at Columbia Lakes Golf Course.

Top players to miss tourney

United Press International

HOUSTON — Eighth-seeded Kathy Jordan of King of Prussia, Pa., withdrew from a $150,000 women's tennis tournament on opening day Monday, complaining of a painful arm.

Seventh-seed Wendy Turnbull of Australia played Monday night against England's Amanda Brown in the only match on the first day involving a seeded player.

Jordan's departure left the tournament with only nine of the top 20 players in the world. The top two women, Martina Navratilova and Chris Evert Lloyd, did not enter.

Sponsors made Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia the No. 8 seed in place of Jordan.

In early first-round matches Monday afternoon Bulgarian Manuela Maleeva beat Lindqvist Holviksnas of Sweden 7-5, 6-3, while New Jersey's Pam Casale beat Beth Herr of Ohio 6-1, 7-6.

Will they miss you at Spring Break?

Gov. Mark White Tuesday named March 10 as the special election date to fill the District 14 state representative vacancy. Democratic Secretary of State John Fainter said he did not know, nor had he heard it discussed, that March 10 was the beginning of spring break.

He said that March 10 had been described as a "covenant day" by party officials.

But Fainter did say the election could have been called earlier, possibly March 3, another Saturday.

Student Senate opposes election date

The bill states that because "students and faculty traditionally make vacation and travel plans during the break and are therefore expected to be out of town during the election, expecting such a large number of voters to vote absentee is both an inconvenience and increases the chances of misrepresentation of the 14th district's population."
