President to celebrate birthday in hometown

United Press International WASHINGTON — President Reagan prepared Sunday to make a sentimental journey to his hometown of Dixon, Ill., Monday where he will celebrate his 73rd birthday, basking in the folksy Midwestern glow of his youth.

The president spent the weekend at Camp David, Md., resting from his first full week of outlining his campaign themes as an announced candidate for re-election.

Although he is the oldest man to serve in the presidency, his political strategists say age is no longer a factor in Reagan's political picture.

He is, in fact, often the first to joke about his age, frequently in a self-deprecating manner. Asked if he thought his age is a potential political problem, he said in a Newsweek magazine interview:

"I think somebody tried to make it one four years ago and it didn't work. And I've never heard it mentioned most of the time now they don't even ask about it in the polls. And I've tried to start a rumor that I'm really not that old, that they mixed up the babies at the hospital."

Dr. Daniel Ruge, the White House physician, has pronounced him fit, although he has not had a medical checkup for a couple of years.

Despite the hearing aid he now wears, Reagan has a vigorous, energetic image as he embarks on the long and arduous campaign leading up to the November election.

Today, he travels to Dixon for a parade through town and a visit to the restored home of his youth; then on to Eureka College, his alma mater in Illinois, where he will speak on the changes time has wrought in the economy since his depression-era boyhood.

Accompanied by his wife, Nancy, he will spend the night in Las Vegas, Nev., appearing Tuesday before a national association of high school principals and speaking at a GOP fundraising luncheon before leaving for a five-day stay at his mountaintop ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif.

He leaves behind a mix of problems, including the new political turmoil in Lebanon and controversy over the $180 billion deficit that has caused a split among his economic advisers.

NO CIVILIAN BAND CAN MAKE YOU THIS OFFER.

If you're a musician who's serious about performing, you should take a serious look at the Army.

Army bands offer you an average of 40 performances a month. In everything from concerts to parades.

Army bands also offer you a chance to travel.

The Army has bands performing in Japan, Hawaii, Europe and all across America.

And Army bands offer you the chance to play with good musicians. Just to qualify, you have to be able to sight-read music you've never seen before and demonstrate several other musical skills.

It's a genuine, right-now, immediate opportunity.

Compare it to your civilian offers. Then write: Army Opportunities, P.O. Box 300, North Hollywood, CA 91603.

ARMY BAND. BE ALL YOU CAN BE.
