

Agencies faulted for alien problem

United Press International

TYLER — Saying he was of the federal government's sure to stop a flood of illegal aliens into the country, a U.S. judge gave probated sentences to three men convicted of enslaving Mexicans on an east Texas tree farm.

U.S. District Judge William Steger gave the defendants a five-year probated sentences, to run concurrently, and $1,000 fines for enslaving 19 Mexicans.

"I'm sick and tired of the government not doing what it should be doing," Steger said Monday before announcing his sentencing. "(You) can't blame them (the defendants) because the government allows illegal aliens to come across the border."

Steven Lane Crawford, 21, of Center and Randall Craig

Waggoner, 22, of Nacogdoches were convicted last year on 19 counts of slavery and conspiracy. Joe Armando-Gonzalez, 29, of Rock Springs pleaded guilty to the charges and testified against the other two.

Steger could have sentenced the trio to five years in jail and $2,000 to $10,000 fines on each count. He said, however, he had "mixed emotions" regarding the U.S. Probations Office's recommended sentence, which was not revealed.

Steger, who said he was directing his remarks to the U.S. department of Justice and the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, refused to allow U.S. attorney Criselda Ortiz make a comment regarding his sentencing.

In a heated exchange, he threatened to hold her in contempt if she continued to speak.

"I don't care what the rules are," he said. Ortiz was the lead prosecutor in the case.

Armando-Gonzales admitted selling the 19 Mexican aliens to Crawford and Waggoner, who took them to East Texas in a small trailer and put them to work on a tree farm.

The aliens testified they were never paid for their work and were poorly fed and threatened with harm if they tried to escape. They got away by jumping from a pickup truck in the town of Center and running to stores where they asked for help.

LULAC upset with light charge

United Press International

LUBBOCK — The League of United Latin American Citizens has issued a news release saying its members are not satisfied with the handling of a traffic fatality, but await action from state or federal officials.

The release stemmed from a meeting last week between LULAC representatives, federal Justice Department officials from Dallas and officials from the Lubbock County District Attorney's office.

LULAC spokesmen objected when a grand jury recommended that bank executive Max Hefner be prosecuted on a misdemeanor charge for a December accident killing Robert Lopez, 22.

Tomas Garza, LULAC legal counsel, said the state attorney general's office had not answered a letter from his organization asking for an investigation of the matter.

"LULAC does not completely believe that a Mexican-American defendant, in the same position would not have been arrested at the scene, even if he had an attorney by his side," the release said.

Police have said Hefner was allowed to go home after he was treated at a hospital following the accident. Officials said it was normal practice not to arrest someone injured in an accident.

But LULAC officials had accused the district attorney's office of treating Hefner's case in a special manner.

Where is the most dangerous place for anyone to be?

In a car on a highway infested with drunken drivers? In a commercial airliner on an icy runway in a blizzard? On the streets in a big inner-city at 2 a.m.? No. It is statistically confirmed that the most dangerous place for anyone to be in the U.S. is in the womb of one's mother!

What would you decide?

The father has syphilis and the mother has tuberculosis. They have had four children. The first one was blind, the second one died, the third one was deaf and dumb, and the fourth one had tuberculosis.

The mother is now pregnant with her fifth child but is willing to have an abortion if you determine she should. What would you decide for her? If you chose abortion... congratulations...you've just murdered Beethoven!

"Americans are proud of their humane feelings and are moved by empathy. Thus, we regulate the ways animals can be killed. Certain kinds of traps are banned. Cattle cannot be slaughtered in ways deemed careless about pain. Stray dogs and cats must be killed in certain humane ways, but no laws regulate the suffering of the aborted."
George Will
Nationally Syndicated Columnist

On January 22, 1973, the U.S. Supreme Court legalized abortion-on-demand. The liberalization of abortion laws has resulted in a drastic lowering of the value placed on human life in general and on children's lives in particular.

The same Supreme Court which made the slaughter of over a million unborn babies per year possible, stopped the construction of the Tellico Dam in Tennessee—because it might wipe out the snail darter, a 3-inch fish. There are quotas on whales and porpoises, but it is always open season on unborn babies. They are executed by techniques more brutal and inhumane than any horror movie has ever portrayed.

The greatest embarrassment to an abortionist is a live birth after an attempted abortion. These living babies are left to die of starvation and neglect while in the same hospital many premature infants are kept alive by heroic measures in intensive care units! Kathleen Malloy, a registered nurse in Jacksonville, Florida, describes one such live birth:

"There was a baby in this bassinets—a crying, perfectly formed baby—but there was difference in this child. She had been scalded. She was the child of a saline abortion. This little girl looked as if she had been put in a pot of boiling water. No doctor, no nurse, no parent, to comfort this hurt, burned child. She was left alone to die in pain."

It is impossible for anyone to say when a developing fetus has the ability to exist on its own. Smaller and smaller premature infants are being saved each year! A pro-abortion doctor who would not kill a newborn baby must answer this question: "Would you kill this infant a minute before he was born? An hour? A day?" At what point in time do you consider life to be worthless and the next minute precious and worth saving?

The single-celled fertilized egg will develop into a human being unless some force destroys its life. Biologists take the uniform position that life begins at conception. Dr. Bernard N. Nathanson directed the largest abortorium in the Western world. While remaining a resolute atheist, Dr. Nathanson has reversed his position on abortion. In his book Aborting America, he writes:

"There is no longer any serious doubt in my mind that human life exists within the womb from the very onset of pregnancy."

After only three weeks, the first irregular beats occur in the developing heart, long before the mother is sure she is pregnant. By the ninth and tenth weeks, the thyroid and adrenal glands are functioning. The baby can squint, swallow, and move his tongue. By twelve or thirteen weeks, he sucks his thumb and will recoil from pain. His fingerprints have already formed, which legally distinguishes an individual as a separate identity.

Pro-abortionists avoid mentioning the human being eliminated in an abortion. People have trouble with "killing a baby." So the favored phrase is the "the termination of a pregnancy." But some pro-abortionists have been honest enough to admit that they really know what they are doing.

"Abortion is the taking of a life."
Dr. Mary Calderone
Former Medical Director of Planned Parenthood

"We know it is killing, but the states permit killing under certain circumstances."
Dr. Neville Sender
Founder of an abortion clinic in Milwaukee

It is clear to many pro-abortionists that an abortion, however euphemistically it is described, is the taking of an innocent human life! The only alleged justification for this killing is convenience. Current sexual attitudes, sexually permissive life-styles, and the breakdown of the family, demand abortion. Will a society which has assumed the right to kill infants in the womb—because they are unwanted, imperfect, or merely inconvenient—have difficulty in killing other human beings?

"Once you permit the killing of the unborn child, there will be no stopping. There will be no age limit. You are setting off a chain reaction that will eventually make you the victim."
Dr. R.A. Gallop
University of Manitoba

Dr. Leo Alexander, who was involved in the war-crimes trials in Nuremberg, Germany, wrote: "(The Nazi nightmare) started with the acceptance of the attitude basic in the euthanasia movement, that there is such a thing as a life not worthy to be lived." This is exactly what is being accepted in America today! Times of monstrous inhumanity do not come about all at once, they are slipped into gradually. Murdering unborn human babies is an evil as great as any in human history.

In the famous movie Judgment at Nuremberg, the condemned German judge (played by Burt Lancaster) said, "But we didn't think it would go that far." The American (Spencer Tracy) answered, "It went that far the very first time you condemned an innocent human being."
