

Frogs no match for Coogs

United Press International
FORT WORTH — Akeem Olajuwon and Michael Young combined for 49 points Thursday to boost the No. 4 Houston Cougars to a 76-60 Southwest Conference win over scrappy Texas Christian University.
 The win was the 34th straight in conference play for the Cougars who went to 20-3 on the season and 10-0 in league play.
 The victory marked Houston coach Guy Lewis' 550th career win, all of them at the helm of the Cougars.
 "Although we led all the way, I never really felt easy until the last minute," Lewis said.
 Olajuwon converted 11 of 14 field goal attempts and three of six free throws to lead all scorers with 25 points. The seven-footer from Nigeria also pulled down a game-high 11 rebounds to pace the Cougars, who didn't establish a comfortable margin over the Horned Frogs until late in the first half.

 Young, the conference's leading scorer, helped boost the Cougars' cause down the stretch with two steals. He finished with 24 points.
 Dennis Nutt led the Horned Frogs with 20 points, though Houston shut him out through the first seven minutes of the second half. Carven Holcombe added 11 points for TCU while Greg Grissom added 10 points and a team-high seven rebounds.

 TCU fell to 9-12 on the season and 2-9 in SWC play.
 With Olajuwon dominating the boards and scoring almost at will, Houston built a 39-30 halftime lead.
 Guard Alvin Franklin, who finished with 16 points, ignited in the second half, scoring 10 points and consistently penetrating the Horned Frogs zone defense.
 "Houston is a much better basketball team than they were the last time we played them," said TCU coach Jim Killingsworth. "They are getting better all the time, but they are still not quite as good as they were last year."

Recruits

 "He's still growing, he'll probably carry about 275-pounds," Bill Moon said.
 One of the signees from Louisiana is 6-3, 221-pound O'Neil Gilbert. At Wossman High in Monroe, state runner-up in 1983, Gilbert played defensive end. But Sherrill, who described him as "the best defensive player in the state," will probably switch him to linebacker.
 His high school coach, Raymond Gambina, said Gilbert has never played linebacker, but that he was recruited for the position and he is ready to make the switch.

 If the descriptions Gambina gave of Gilbert are accurate, the transition shouldn't be difficult.
 "He's real, real quick," Gambina said. That's not an exaggeration if Gilbert's reported 4.5 time in the 40 is true. Gambina also described him as "real aggressive" and as "one of the most confident players we've ever had here."
 Gilbert isn't cocky, he just has a lot of confidence in himself, he said.
 A lot of confidence and aggressiveness may have been needed for Gilbert in the last three playoff games this year. Gilbert played with his injured left arm strapped to his side because of a bad shoulder bruise. He started for 36 consecutive games, going back to his sophomore year.

Ags hooked on lacrosse set to begin '84 season

By ED CASSAVOY
 Reporter

Lacrosse began as an Indian game played by up to 500 warriors on each side. It received its name from the French la crosse, meaning hooked stick, and European observers reported that broken legs and arms were common occurrences; deaths were not unusual. The modern day lacrosse played by Texas A&M is tame by comparison.
 But that's not to say the A&M lacrosse club team is not tough.
 "Man-on-man, stick-on-stick" is the way the A&M team plans to play this season, Coach Tony Scazzero says. The club's 13th season will begin this weekend against San Antonio.
 The Aggies play an 18-game schedule in 1984 that Scazzero says will give his inexperienced team a competitive year. This is his seventh season as the A&M coach.
 Scazzero says the amount of running in the game — especially for midfielders — requires constant player substitution. He says the squad has two fine attackers (forwards), three blue-chip defensemen, a standout goalie and solid midfielders. The traveling team is composed of 30 to 35 players.
 And assembling a good team is no easy task for Scazzero, a 1971 all-America for the Cornell lacrosse team, because many players have just four years to master the game and Texas has no high school lacrosse program.
 "There is no talent base to draw from," he says.
 Money is another important factor. As a club sport, lacrosse is partially funded by A&M. The intramural office pays for only the first $40 in equipment costs. The cost to a player buying the necessary stick, gloves, helmet, pads and runs close to $140.
 Players without equipment have to scrounge from the team supply or scrounge, he says, the players pay for most of their travel expenses.
 A&M is a member of the Eastern Division of the Southwest Lacrosse Association. Others in the division are the University of Houston, Rice, Sam Houston State, Tulane, Louisiana State and Southwestern.
 The Western Division is composed of the University of Texas, Southern Methodist, Oklahoma, Texas Christian, Texas Tech, Oklahoma State.
 Scazzero says Sam Houston is the team in the Eastern Division while Texas Tech is the strongest competitor in the Western Division. An all-star team from the Eastern division play the Western Division all-star at the end of the season.
 And Scazzero says the club's faculty advisor star in his own right, Dr. Charles F. Hall, 11th year as team advisor and club liaison with University administration.
 Hall stuffs his hands deep into the pockets of his maroon lacrosse team jacket and describes his job as just keeping the official score-sheet, running the time-clock — giving credit to the club's success to the coach.
 "Scazzero has been a big plus for the lacrosse program," Hall said. Placing third, last of the worst finish by a Scazzero-coached team.
 Hall says Scazzero's greatest asset as a coach is his ability to teach. The coach is a full-time employee of the College Station Department of Parks and Recreation.
 And the club enjoys success and the parties like hell, Hall said.
 "The team plays like hell then goes to parties like hell," Hall said.

Houston sports figure dies

United Press International
HOUSTON — Former football coach and sports administrator John Breen, the first general manager of the Houston Oilers, died Thursday. He was 76.
 Family members said Breen died in a Northwest Memorial Hospital. He had suffered from cancer for years.
 A Wisconsin native who played and coached at Carroll College, Breen worked in the sports field for 50 years. Recently, he was known as the acerbic sports commentator nicknamed the "Old Pro" on KTRH radio in Houston. Breen was a regular guest on KTRH's sports talk show that airs nightly during Houston's rush hour.
 "He had the most integrity of anyone I ever met in the field," KTRH Radio news anchor Garvin Berry said of Breen.
 Breen entered professional football in 1957 as player personnel director of the Chicago Cardinals and moved to Houston when Oilers owner Bud Adams hired him as the American Football League club's first employee.
