

Council passes zoning plan

By SALLY SCHWIERZKE

The College Station City Council unanimously approved the rezoning of a 38.68-acre tract of land east of the East Bypass and north of Harvey Road Thursday night. The tract, previously a residential zone, was changed to a commercial zone. The rezoning of a 6.34-acre tract of land along the future extension of Holleman Drive to the east and two tracts of land located adjacent to and southwest of the Woodstock Subdivision were tabled at the request of James E. Jett, the owner of the property.

A 7-acre tract of land owned by Charles Ellison was rezoned from an agriculture-open district to a general commercial district. Ellison had tried to get the property east of State Highway 6 rezoned earlier, but was refused his request.

In other business, discussion of street improvements on Dartmouth and Holleman Drive brought a heated discussion between Mayor Gary Halter and councilman Bob Runnels. Runnels suggested the widening of the two streets.

Halter said the suggestion should have been brought about several years ago when the streets were being built. Consideration for widening the two streets was sent by a 4 to 1 vote to a committee that will report back to the council in two weeks with its recommendation. Councilman Vicky Reinke was worried about the additional cost of widening the roads.

The date of city elections, April 7, was approved unanimously. There will also be an increase in the number of voting booths from last year's elections because it is a presidential election year.

City Manager North B. Bardell was also recognized at the meeting for ten years' service on the council.

Lucas tells of double burial site

United Press International

HOUSTON — The man who has already admitted to killing 150 people pinpointed where he and an alleged partner in murder buried a female Louisiana victim and the head of a Houston male teen, officials said Thursday.

Henry Lee Lucas showed Polk County deputies where he and Otis Elwood Toole, buried Stephanie Lee Smith, 24, a former Tulane Medical School student and the head of Houston Robert Spangenberg Jr.,

Polk County Sheriff Ted Everett said Lucas' information solves another two unsolved murder cases.

Lucas, 47, said he and Toole, accused Spangenberg and his girlfriend Joann Huffman, 16, both of Spring Branch, outside a convenience store in October 1979 in Spring Branch.

Everett said Lucas claimed he took the girl to a nearby park and shot her while Toole killed Spangenberg. His headless body was found the next day in the trunk of a car. The head was found in Polk County but was not connected by authorities to the Houston slaying.

Huffman's body was found near a bench in northwest Houston. She had been shot once in the head.

Lucas also showed deputies where he and Toole left the body of Smith, who was last seen in June 1977.

Lucas said he abducted the woman in Louisiana, brought her to Texas and killed her. Her body was found near an isolated dirt road in Polk County in November 1977.

Lucas, a former mental patient who confessed to killing his mother in 1960, pleaded guilty in 1983 to the murder of Kate Rich, 80, of Ringgold and also was convicted of killing his 15-year-old common-law wife Frieda "Becky" Powell in Denton County.

O'Bryan's execution in March 1

United Press International
HOUSTON — Condemned killer Ronald Clark O'Bryan, former optician convicted killing his son with poison slowen candy in 1974, will give a March 31 execution, a judge said Thursday.

District Judge Michael Spadden said he scheduled a sentencing hearing next Wednesday to formally set O'Bryan's execution date for the end of March.

"When I first set it (the execution) for Halloween two years ago, I thought that was the most appropriate date for it. But now, I think the sonnet date is the most appropriate for his execution," the judge said.

O'Bryan, 39, was sentenced to death by injection for the 1974 Halloween candy poisoning of his 8-year-old son, Marc. The child died after eating a Gummy Six laced with cyanide. Prosecutors claimed O'Bryan had his son to collect insurance money, but O'Bryan maintained his innocence.

Police beat

The following incidents were reported to the University Police Department through Thursday.

HARASSMENT:

A student in Dormitory 4 started receiving several harassing phone calls from a female. During one of the calls she thought she struck the vehicle and asked where it was parked. When he checked the vehicle, he discovered all the tires had been deflated.

OTHER: A student who previously reported his wallet stolen notified University Police that it was found outside of G. Rollier Coliseum, minus $6 in
