Coogs lose in Barnhill

United Press International
 FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — Center Joe Kleine scored 22 points Sunday, including 10 consecutive foul shots in the second half, to help 12th-ranked Arkansas end No. 2 Houston's 39-game Southwest Conference winning streak, 73-68.

Houston center Akeem Oluajun picked up three fouls and a technical during a six-minute span trying to guard Kleine and eventually fouled out with six minutes remaining with 10 points and six rebounds.

Kleine's two foul shots with 14:23 left gave Arkansas a 46-45 lead and the Razorbacks built the margin to 11 points in the final moments by hitting 19 of 22 foul shots in the second half.

Houston's Alvin Franklin and Michael Young keyed a late Houston comeback that allowed the Cougars to get within three points with 22 seconds remaining, but Arkansas' Ricky Norton then hit two free throws to put the game out of reach.

The Cougars had already clinched the Southwest Conference championship, but Arkansas' win avenged a three-point loss to Houston a week earlier.

Arkansas thus owns wins over the nation's No. 1- (North Carolina) and No. 2- ranked club this season.

Arkansas advanced its season record to 24-5 and finished the SWC campaign with a 14-2 mark. Houston ended the conference season with a 15-1 record and is 26-4 overall. It was the first loss in SWC competition for Houston since Feb. 1, 1982 when the Cougars fell on the road to Texas A&M.

The Cougars led at halftime, 36-34, coming up with a number of steals and easy baskets which resulted in a 69.6 field goal shooting percentage. Franklin and Young combined for 17 first-half points.

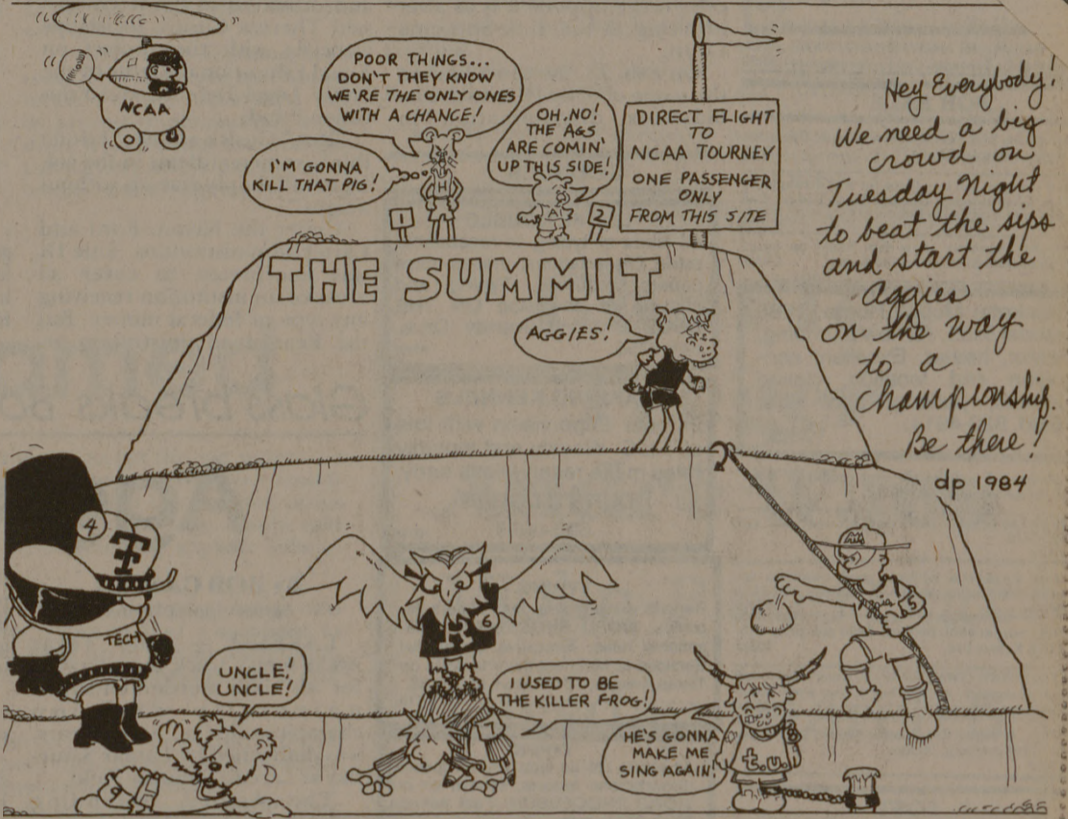

Young led the Cougars with 22 points and Franklin finished with 21. Arkansas stayed close on outside shooting by forward Charles Balentine, who scored 12 of his 16 points in the first half, and Kleine, who scored 10 in the period.

Norton finished with 14 points for Arkansas, which shot 53 percent from the field, and guard Alvin Robertson added 13 points for the Razorbacks.

Arkansas and Houston are heavy favorites to reach the finals for what would be the deciding game of a three-game series.

The SWC's tourney begins Tuesday night at three locales although all the teams playing Tuesday evening do not figure to be factors when it comes to championship time.

Texas Tech, which finished fourth, will host the Baylor Bears Tuesday evening. Rice will host its first ever tournament game Tuesday evening against TCU and Texas A&M will be at home against Texas.

Hey Everybody!
 We need a big crowd on Tuesday Night to beat the saps and start the Aggies on the way to a championship. Be there!

Longhorns swim past SMU to SWC crown

United Press International
 AUSTIN — Dave Swenson, Rick Carey and Mike Ellison on the first three events Saturday night to push the Texas Longhorns into the lead and easily carry them to their fifth consecutive Southwest Conference swimming and diving championship.

The Longhorns had trailed SMU by a half point going into the final night of competition, but that slim deficit was erased in the first event of the evening, the 1,650-yard freestyle. Swenson won that race in the meet record time of 15:13.39 and was followed by Carey capturing the 200-yard backstroke (46:25) and Ellison winning the 100-yard freestyle (44:05).

Texas finished with 696.5 points to 625 for the Mustangs. Arkansas finished in third place with 249.5 followed by Texas A&M with 175, Houston 158, Texas Tech 97, TCU 86 and Rice 49.

Texas A&M swimmers qualified for the NCAA championships in three events at the meet. Kevin Londrigan qualified in the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 51.09. Chris O'Neil qualified in the 100-yard butterfly with a time of 48.69 and in the 200-yard fly at 1:48.63.

The 400-yard medley relay team swam 3:20.94 to also qualify. That team consists of Londrigan, O'Neil, Mark Vimonitz and Kevin Nagy.

Londrigan and O'Neil's times were also under the Olympic trial cuts.

In addition to the first three wins of the night, Texas came up with a victory from Matt Scoggins in the three-meter diving and the Longhorns' 400-yard freestyle relay team won in the time of 2:56.15.

The last night of the meet also saw a rare tie in the 200-yard butterfly race. SMU's Ricardo Prado and Texas' Chris Rives finished in a dead heat in the time of 1:44.63, a clocking that eclipsed the SWC record by almost two full seconds.

Arrington, Swain help Aggies sweep Cowboys

Tom Arrington gave up his first earned run in 18 innings Saturday, but he still recorded a 216P. This second victory in helping Texas A&M to a 5-2 win over Hardin-Simmons and an eventual double header sweep over the Cowboys.

Texas A&M won the second contest, 4-2, thanks in part to a home run by shortstop Rob Arrington.

The Aggies advanced their record to 8-1 while Hardin-Simmons fell to 2-10.

Arrington went six innings in the opener, striking out six and walking one. The game was tied, 1-1, going into the bottom of the fifth, but Todd Edwards produced a bases-loaded triple to break open the game.

Women lose at BYU tourney

The Texas A&M women's tennis team wasn't used to playing indoors or 8,000 feet above sea level, but that's just what they did over the weekend at the Brigham Young Team tournament in Provo, Utah.

The women lost to 18th-ranked BYU in their opening match, 6-3, and then were defeated once again by the University of California-Santa Barbara, 8-1.

In their final match the Aggies beat Louisiana State for the second time this year, 6-3.

"If we had gotten by BYU, we might have gone to the finals," Coach Jan Cannon said.

DEPRESSED — TIRED

The psychology department is conducting a study of the causes and treatment of individuals who feel depressed and don't know why, often feel tired even though they sleep a lot, are very moody and generally seem to feel bad most of the time. If you seem to fit this brief description and would like to participate in the study, please call the Public Policy Lab at 845-8800 to set up an appointment.

Ag netters pull 3 upsets

The Texas A&M men's tennis team moved a step closer to claiming a top 20 ranking by upsetting three nationally ranked teams over the weekend.

The Aggies finished 6th out of 24 teams at the Corpus Christi Invitational tournament with dual match victories over No. 20 Duke, 7-2, No. 14 Wichita State, 6-3 and No. 15 Alabama, 7-2.

Coach David Kent said the Aggies should probably be ranked in the next national collegiate poll because of their good showing at the tourney.

"I think these wins will get us in the top 20," Kent said. "We impressed a whole lot of folks down there."

Kent said that Greg Hill and Grant Connell were undefeated in doubles play during the tournament.

"Greg and Grant just played outstanding," Kent said. But the team did lose two matches, both against ranked SWC opponents.

The men were defeated in the quarter-finals by No. 7 SMU, then lost out to No. 9 Arkansas for 5th place.

The Aggies, now 13-4 overall, will play matches this week at the Omar Smith Tennis Center at 1:30 p.m.

The first match is Wednesday against North Carolina and the second is Saturday with Pan American.

Kent said North Carolina has a fine team.
