Bears deal Ags first loss

"It was just one of those kind of games," lamented Bob Brock, the Texas A&M women's softball coach after his team had split a double-header with Baylor Thursday night.

Which game was he talking about? Obviously the first game, the one the Aggies lost 3-0. But actually, he could have been referring to either game, even the Aggies' 2-1 victory.

Texas A&M, boasting a 9-0 record going into Thursday night's meeting with the Bears, was riding on a pretty high emotional wave, according to Brock.

"We were overconfident," Brock said. "We've always beat Baylor in the past, we were just a little bit high."

In spite of the one-game blemish on the Aggies' once-perfect record though, a season start is still one of the best the team has ever had and that's not much to get about.

But Brock is griping about the team or the coach, but about the coaching.

"I'm really unhappy about how I had my team prepared," he said.

But outweighing the sadness of losing their first Thursday night was the possibility of the Aggies losing their starters.

Outfielders Josie Carter and Cindy Foster collided in the field during the first game, neither got up. As it turned out, Carter sprained her left leg and Foster suffered a sprained left shoulder. Both are expected to be back in about a week.

Herschel: $6 million man

United Press International
EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. —Herschel Walker wasn't envious when he heard about Steve Young's multi-million dollar contract. He had no reason to be.

Weeks before the USFL's Los Angeles Express announced they had signed Young Monday, Walker had hammered out a new contract with New Jersey Generals owner Donald Trump. All involved with Walker's deal claimed it is better than Young's contract, estimated to be worth $40 million over 36 years.

"It's better now," Walker said Thursday when asked to compare his contract to Young's. "In 36 years, it will be a whole lot better."

Sources say Trump will lay out more money for Walker's contract than Express owner J. William Oldenburg put up for the former Brigham Young quarterback. Young actually receives about $1 million in salary over the next four years with most of the rest of the money deferred.

Walker will receive an estimated $6 million over the next four years. Rather than receive deferred payment he will have the International Management Group, which represents him, invest the money for him.

"If you have good people around you, you don't have to defer money," Walker said.

"You have to bring the contract down to present value," Trump said. "I know numbers. If I had my choice between Herschel's contract and Steve Young's contract, I'd take Herschel's."

Walker's contract is guaranteed even if the league folds, since it is a personal services contract with Trump. Walker originally signed a 3-year, $5.5 million contract with former Generals owner Walter Duncan before the 1983 season.

Walker said it wasn't only money which influenced him to sign his new Generals contract. He likes Trump, a multi-millionaire real estate tycoon, and has a strong identification with the USFL. Walker lent the league credibility and became its first superstar when he signed as an underclassman out of the University of Georgia after winning the 1982 Heisman Trophy.

"To speak in Donald's terms, if I had to build a building I'd build it from the ground up rather than take an old building and renovate it," Walker said. "I'm very happy to stay in the USFL. I know Herschel Walker and the USFL go hand in hand."

"I'm not going to try to play the two leagues (USFL and NFL). I think my contract is the best in the NFL, USFL or whatever. It's one of the best contracts of any athlete in the world."

Legends strong in Doral tourney

United Press International
MIAMI — Little-known John Adams and Larry Rinker shot 6-under-par 66s Thursday to lead the first round of the $400,000 Doral Open golf tournament, but two legends — Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino — were each just one shot back.

Nicklaus, who said he's playing as well as he ever did but not quite as aggressively, roared to a 4-under-par 32 on the front side and finished with a 67.

Trevino, who played the backside first, also tore up the front nine with a 32 for his 67.

Gary Hallberg was tied with Nicklaus and Trevino at 67. Next at 68 over the par-72, 7,065-yard Doral "Blue Monster" course were Johnny Miller, Tom Kite, Canadian Dave Barr, Isao Aoki of Japan, Mike Nicolette and Tom Jenkins.

Defending champion Gary Koch posted a 2-under-par 70 and at 72 was Andy Bean, the 1982 Doral champion who lost last week's tournament at Eagle Trace in a sudden death play-off.

Masters champion Seve Ballesteros, who plays out of the Doral Country Club, shot 73, and Eagle Trace winner Bruce Lietzke shot a 71.

Nicklaus and Trevino, both 44, have dominated the game at times throughout the last two decades. They total 95 wins between them with Nicklaus notching 69 and Trevino 26.

Nicklaus has not won a tournament since the 1982 Colonial, but he feels he is playing as well as ever.

"As a manager of my golf game and as a ball striker, I'm playing better golf," said the Golden Bear. "You play a little more conservatively, not because you want to. You just do as you get older."

"It's not a matter of nerves, it's a matter of nerve. My nerves are actually pretty good."
