

Pearson in serious condition

United Press International
DALLAS — Dallas Cowboys wide receiver Drew Pearson was injured and his younger brother killed Thursday when the football player's car slammed into the rear of a tractor-trailer truck parked near a highway exit, police said.
 Police spokesman Bob Shaw said the accident, which was initially attributed to "unsafe speed," would be referred to a Dallas County grand jury because a death was involved.
 Pearson, 33, was in surgery at Presbyterian Hospital for almost 2½ hours Thursday afternoon to stop bleeding in his liver.
 "The bleeding was stopped. He is in stable but serious condition," spokesman Bill Mays said. "That's the extent of the information we can release."
 A team spokesman said Pearson would spend the night in intensive care.

 Pearson's brother, Carey Mark Pearson, 27, was pronounced dead at the scene at the Plano Road exit of the LBJ Freeway in north Dallas.
 The accident occurred at about 1:30 a.m. Thursday as Drew Pearson was driving his brother to the home of another brother, Andre Pearson, team spokesman Greg Aiello said.
 Aiello said the Pearsons had just returned from a bus trip to a charity basketball game in Coalgate, Okla., with the Dallas Hoopsters, the off-season Cowboys basketball team organized by the 11-year veteran wide receiver.
 The truck, registered to a Houston firm, was parked alongside the highway with its emergency lights on, police said. The driver, Larry Jameson, was not injured.

"Unsafe speed was a contributing factor of the accident," said police spokeswoman Eva Romero.
 Shaw said there were indications Drew Pearson had been drinking, although he was not intoxicated.
 "There is evidence he (Drew) had been drinking but he was not legally intoxicated," Shaw said. "According to the report, the alcohol blood level was 0.053 percent and to be legally intoxicated the blood level must be at least 0.10 percent."
 Pearson's associates expressed sorrow about the accident.
 "Right now he's not feeling too good," said fellow wide receiver Tony Hill, who visited Pearson in his hospital room Thursday.
 "He's going to make it for sure. He's spoken a little bit. He's not in critical," said Hill.

Dallas Cowboys head coach Tom Landry issued a statement through team headquarters.
 "We were shocked to hear the news and are very sympathetic with Drew's family in the loss of his brother," Landry said. "We surely hope that Drew is not seriously hurt and that he will recover."
 Pearson, a native of South River, N.J., played college football for the University of Tulsa. A free agent who had been overlooked in the college draft, he walked into the Cowboys' training camp in 1973. He became the Cowboys' all-time leading receiver in 1980, surpassing Bob Hayes' mark of 365 catches.
 He became a starter for Dallas midway through his rookie year and has missed only one game due to injury, in December 1979.

Indiana upsets Tarheels

United Press International
ATLANTA — Freshman guard Steve Alford scored 27 points Thursday night to pace Indiana to a 72-68 upset of No. 1 North Carolina in the semifinals of the NCAA East Regional.
 The victory sends the No. 18 Hoosiers against Virginia, 63-55 upset winners over No. 16 Syracuse in the first semifinal game, in Saturday's regional finals.
 At the same time, Melvin Turpin scored 10 of his 14 points in the second half Thursday night, leading a surge that lifted No. 3 Kentucky to a 72-67 victory over Louisville in the NCAA Midwest Regional semifinals.
 The Wildcats advance to the Midwest championship game Saturday against No. 6 Illinois. The Illini defeated No. 10 Maryland 72-70 in the first game at Rupp Arena.
 In the East, the top-seeded Tar Heels couldn't stop Alford, the Hoosiers' scoring leader. He hit from the corners and the free throw line causing North Carolina to fall behind in the opening minutes.
 The Tar Heels, 28-3, had 26 points from one of their All-Americans, Sam Perkins. But their other All-American, Michael Jordan, wasn't a factor until the closing minutes and fouled out with 13 points.

 Indiana, 22-8, led 32-28 at halftime and 59-47 with 5:32 left before Perkins and Jordan led a belated rally that cut the margin to 2 points in the closing moments.
 North Carolina closed to 70-68 on a layup by freshman Joe Wolf with 10 seconds left. But the Tar Heels were forced to foul Mike Gioni with five seconds to go and he sank both shots to sink Carolina.
 The previous time Indiana played North Carolina was in the finals of the 1981 NCAA championship — and Indiana won 63-50. North Carolina returned the next year to win the title.
 The Cavaliers, who upset No. 7 Arkansas last Saturday, got surprisingly strong inside play in the early going from 6-foot-11 freshman Olden Polynice to build a 10-point halftime lead. The Orangemen, with four starters fouling out, were never able to get closer than 6 in the second half.
 Virginia, not expected to come this far the season after Ralph Sampson graduated, didn't score in the first five minutes, but took an 8-6 lead 12:23 to play in the half. The Cavaliers ran off 12 straight points in just over four minutes to widen the margin to 10.

 Wilson scored 4 straight points to place Virginia at 44-28 with 10:26 to go because then began fouling an attempt to halt the Carolina slowdown.
 In Lexington, Ky., Jim Lister and Dicky Beal led the cats, 28-4, with 15 points. But it was Turpin in the second half that buried Louisville. Kentucky was trailing 49-47 at forward Sam Bowie set what turned into a 10-0 run making two free throws tied it with 9:29 left.
 The Wildcats scored 8 points, with Turpin accounting for 4, to take a 57-49 lead before Louisville scored a 5:21 lead. The Cardinals almost six minutes without a shot. The Cardinals fought back to within 2 but Kentucky's foul shot down the stretch kept the bay.
 In the first game, the Montgomery, a mobile forward, scored 15 points and grabbed 7 rebounds.

Aikens release today

United Press International
FORT WORTH — Willie Mays Aikens, one of four Kansas City Royals sentenced to prison for drug related offenses, was scheduled to be released from a federal corrections facility Friday, a spokeswoman said.
 Aikens, 29, began serving a 90-day sentence for attempting to possess cocaine Jan. 3 and is being released early after building time off for good behavior, a spokeswoman at the minimum security facility said Thursday.
 "One thing drugs can do to you is change your whole attitude toward the team and everything else. There were times when I didn't care whether we won or lost," Aikens said while in a Baltimore drug rehabilitation clinic prior to going to prison.
 "It got to the point where I became an addict. I won't say how much or what kinds, but I became addicted to drugs."
 He voluntarily stayed eight weeks in the drug clinic.
 Aikens, who was traded to the Toronto Blue Jays in December, hit .302 with the Royals in 1983 with 49 runs, 23 home runs and 72 RBI in six seasons in the majors, he has a .273 average.

 on them to make them go to class.
 Part of the plan, expanding athletic department facilities, will cost money. Building a special events center, a track complex and a quality indoor swimming facility will cost big bucks. And these big bucks will have to come from the Aggie Club or from within the Athletic Department — most likely, from the non-revenue sports.
 What are the non-revenue sports? That converts into almost everything except football and men's basketball. And the coaches of these sports have good reasons to be scared. Many people who are doing a good job may lose their jobs as departments are combined and savings are realigned to help save money.
 The reorganization of the women's program appears a major part of the Sherrill — this with John David C... the helm. The fact that women's basketball team not been highly successful under Rapp may have speeded the process.

 The combining of the men's coach and of women's basketball director into a single position may add prestige to the job help recruit a basketball coach that could produce championship program with the same time saving money salaries.
 The combining of the men's head football coach into a position helped recruit Sherrill.
