Flashdance: This is the story of Alex, a young woman who works as a welder during the day and a dancer in a bar at night. Alex lives in a warehouse, falls in love with her boss and aspires to be a ballet dancer. This movie has great music and interesting dance sequences. R. Friday and Saturday. 7:30 and 9:45. Rudder Theatre. (Rudder Auditorium on Saturday.)

Reefer Madness/Sex Madness: This double bill features two films from the '40s that were used to warn the American youth against the dangers they might be facing. Reefer Madness reveals the tragedy that can strike when that evil marijuana is introduced to youngsters. Sex Madness reveals the dangers of unbridled lust. For any of you who are facing these problems, come learn how to avoid the dangers of life in the fast lane. Unrated. Friday and Saturday. Midnight. Rudder Theater.

Fanny and Alexander: Alexander Ekdahl is a young boy living in Sweden in 1907. He lives a life like most children, one filled with fantasy and magic. When adult reality comes crashing in on his world, the result is not pleasant. In Ingmar Bergman's last film, he reminds us that we all need a little fantasy in our life. Swedish with English subtitles. Unrated. Sunday. 7:30. Rudder Theater. $3.

The Sound of Music: This classic film features Julie Andrews in her infamous role of the former nun who becomes the nanny for the Von Trapp family and falls in love with the father. Their escape scene from Austria during World War II should not be missed. Unrated. Wednesday. 7:30. Rudder Auditorium.

Unfaithfully Yours: Another Dudley Moore comedy in which a man spends his time thinking up different ways to kill his wife after she supposedly has an affair. The wife is played by Nastassja Kinski. R.

Against All Odds: A new film which stars Jeff Bridges, Rachel Ward and James Ward in a love triangle. This film depicts the power of Los Angeles and how it almost consumes the main characters. Lucky for the viewers, the main characters escape to the Yucatan which is a fantastic background for the film. R.

Racing with the Moon: Sean Penn and Nicolas Cage star in this romantic comedy about two young men reaching manhood in the 1940's. Both young men experience love and friendship in this film about their final days before entering the service. Elizabeth McGovern stars as the object of Sean Penn's desires. This sounds like a very promising film. PG.

Schulman Six
775-2468

Police Academy: This is the story of an American city where the mayor abandons all eligibility restrictions to enter the police academy. Steve Guttenberg stars as the officer candidate who tries to get himself thrown out of the academy and falls in love with a female officer candidate at the same time. R.

Footloose: 1984's answer to Flashdance. Kevin Bacon, of Diner fame, stars as the free-style dancer from Chicago who moves to a small town. Of course, he is not welcomed with open arms by the town elders and the town minister is especially repulsed by him. But the minister's daughter has different ideas about the new kid in town. This film will be remembered for the dancing and the music. PG.

The Prodigal: World Wide Pictures presents the modern story of the prodigal son from the Bible. The son who abandons his family and his religion only to return to the true path, family and faith. This is part of Billy Graham's media attempt to spread The Word. A surprisingly good film. PG.

Children of the Corn: The new Stephen King movie features a town where the children have taken control and killed everyone over the age of nineteen. This is all part of the ritual of their cult. These children worship a god in the corn who requires them to crucify adults. This movie is based on a short story by King. R.

Rear Window: This is an Alfred Hitchcock suspense thriller which has been re-released. For all you horror fans, you can't go wrong with a Hitchcock film. PG.

Basket Case: A horror film for all you hard-core horror fans. Only go to this movie if you like cheap special affects, cheap movies and no name stars. R.
