Cowboy receiver Pearson improves following car crash

United Press International

DALLAS — Dallas Cowboys wide receiver Drew Pearson today was in satisfactory condition and recovering from injuries suffered in an auto accident that killed his brother, hospital officials said.

"He is in satisfactory condition and improving," a spokeswoman for the Presbyterian Hospital said. "There is no information how long he will remain in the hospital." Pearson was injured last Thursday.

Police said the car he was driving was traveling at an "unsafe speed" when it slammed into the rear of a tractor-trailer truck parked near a freeway. Club officials said Pearson told them he fell asleep while driving.

Pearson's brother, Carey Mark Pearson, 27, was pronounced dead at the scene.

The 33-year-old Cowboys star underwent surgery at the hospital after being admitted to stop bleeding in his liver.

Supreme Court denies appeal

'Candyman' still seeking reprieve

United Press International

AUSTIN — The U.S. Supreme court Monday rejected an appeal from death row inmate Ronald Clark O'Bryan, leaving his attorneys to seek a reprieve from the Texas Board of Pardons and Paroles and Gov. Mark White.

The six parole board members voted unanimously to grant O'Bryan a hearing on his request for a 90-day reprieve just moments after they were informed his appeal to the Supreme Court had been denied.

O'Bryan is scheduled to be executed early Saturday.

The six-member board set the hearing for 10 a.m. Tuesday and said it would hear arguments from O'Bryan's attorneys and lawyers for the state.

Earlier, the Supreme Court justices voted 7-2 to reject arguments that prosecutors at O'Bryan's trial illegally excused potential jurors if they were opposed to capital punishment.

Justice William Brennan and Thurgood Marshall dissented from the refusal to halt the execution and review O'Bryan's case, voting as they always do that capital punishment is cruel and unusual punishment.

Charlotte Harris, a Houston attorney representing O'Bryan, said that at the hearing before the parole officials she would argue again that jurors were illegally excluded from sitting on O'Bryan's jury.

She said two cases that dealt with similar questions of jury selection were currently pending before the U.S. Supreme Court and that O'Bryan's execution should be delayed until those cases were decided.

She also said she had contacted White's office in hopes the governor would exercise his power to grant a 30-day stay of execution.

O'Bryan, a 39-year-old former optician was convicted of the 1974 Halloween night murder of his son, Timothy, who died after eating a piece of candy laced with cyanide, a deadly poison.

Justice Byron White, without comment, had rejected an emergency request for a stay of the execution date on March 19, but O'Bryan filed a request with the full court to hear his appeal.

The court has rejected a number of other requests to hear his case, most recently on Jan. 23 when it refused to review the same argument it rejected Monday.

Evidence at his trial showed O'Bryan had taken out a $60,000 life insurance policy on his 8-year-old son before the poisoning, and prosecutors said he killed the boy to collect the money.

"Hello?"

"Hey Annie!" This is your old roomie Meg! I hear you want some advice on which profs not to get next semester—well, don't get Rumsfield for Lit. Because "lit" is what he usually is!"

"Ooooooooooooooooooooooh!"

"And don't sign up with Kinkley for Psych. Any guy who wears a Tinkerbell Costume to class is in Big Trouble!"

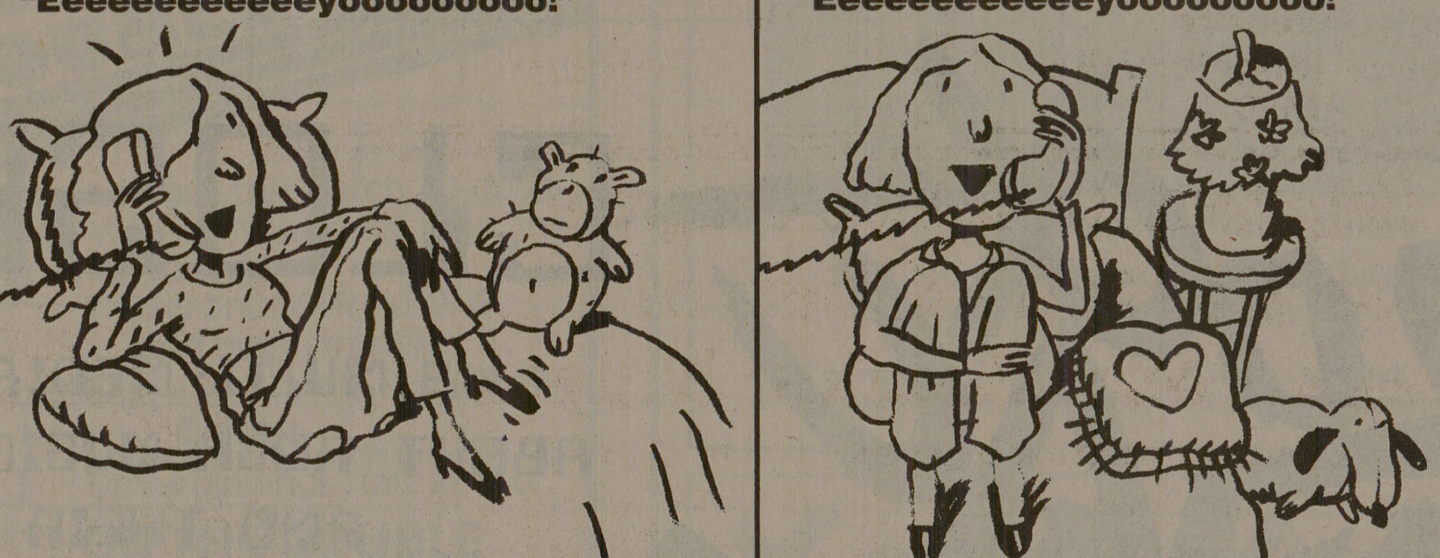

"No Kidding!"

"And don't get old Snuffmeyer. About every three minutes, she sticks her hand in her blouse, fishes up this ratty old handkerchief, gives you a big honk, then stuffs it back down again!"

"Gross me out!"

"And she even gives pop quizzes!"

"Eeeeeeeeeeeeeeyoooooooooooo!"
