I-40 radar trap used to make drug busts

United Press International

AMARILLO — A Texas Highway Patrol trooper, armed with know-how from his New Mexico counterparts, has bagged his third major drug arrest in less than a month with a radar trap on Interstate 40.

Trooper Wayne Williams, 30, an eight-year patrol veteran, arrested a Florida couple Monday bound for California carrying 160 pounds of marijuana.

Williams said Interstate 40 has become a major trade route for drugs headed from Florida to the West Coast.

On March 3, Williams seized $800,000 worth of cocaine and arrested two suspects, and 1 1/2 weeks later Williams seized $110,000 in marijuana and arrested a man, along with a woman and two juveniles who were later released.

Williams attributes the streak, all on a radar trap two miles west of Amarillo, to a briefing by New Mexico state police advisers in December.

"They were advising us on certain things to look for," he said. "Primarily the suspects will be Colombians or Cubans, driving certain types of vehicles, bearing plates from certain states."

He said the technique is to stop suspect vehicles for a traffic offense — speeding, usually — and size up the occupants. If they appear nervous, he inquires further.

"We will not stop them unless there is some traffic offense," he said. "They'll hang me in court unless I have reason to stop them."

"We only see a car for maybe 20 seconds. Speeding is mostly what we see. We find other violations after the initial stop."

At some point, Williams asks for consent to search the car.

In Monday's arrest, once consent to search was given, he found 16 foil-lined cardboard boxes containing marijuana in the trunk.

The suspects were in jail awaiting arraignment Monday.

Krueger claims his lead is solid

United Press International

AUSTIN — Former Rep. Bob Krueger cited two independent polls Tuesday that he says give him a solid lead over his rivals for the Democratic nomination for the Senate.

The polls cited by Krueger were commissioned by Rep. Phil Gramm, who is running for nomination for GOP Sen. John Tower's Senate seat, and New York pollster Arthur J. Finkelstein.

The Gramm poll showed Krueger with 37 percent of the sample, Doggett with 13 percent, and Hance with 7 percent. Finkelstein's poll gave Krueger 45.8 percent of the sample, Doggett, 15.4 percent, and Hance, 7.7 percent.

Krueger said he was aware that reporters are "wary of politicians who come bearing their own polls," but that his campaign had no connection with the Gramm and Finkelstein polls.

"If these figures are even close to being correct, I think they indicate two things," Krueger said. "Thirty-eight days out (from the May 5 primary), and after many months of campaigning, the other two major candidates have not attracted broad or deep support. Second, the people of Texas do not like the negative campaigns that Lloyd Doggett and Kent Hance have run."

Krueger referred to his own poll by George Shipley & Associates of Austin that showed two-thirds of the sample considered attacks by Doggett and Hance to be unfair and that the positive ratings of Doggett and Hance had declined while their negative ratings had increased.

"Our campaign, which has emphasized partnership, not attack, is solid," he said.

State will loan UT confiscated gems

United Press International

AUSTIN — Several thousand dollars worth of gems and pearls, which the state confiscated in the 1960s, will be loaned to the University of Texas for use in a geology course.

State Treasurer Ann Richards said Tuesday that UT will keep the gems and pearls until the rightful owners claim them.

But Richards said it is the owners of the gems and pearls who will ever be located cause the gems were part of loot confiscated in the 1960s from a thief who fled to the El Paso County Jail.

UT Professor Edward Jonas, who teaches a gemology course, selected the gems for their uniqueness and their value as an addition to the university's collection.
