Hogshead dominates

United Press International
INDIANAPOLIS — Sprint freestyle champs Nancy Hogshead and Rowdy Gaines Thursday positioned themselves to capture their second national swimming titles in two days, dominating their qualifying heats at the U.S. Indoor Nationals.

Hogshead, 21, who is staging a dramatic comeback after quitting swimming for two years in the wake of the 1980 Olympic boycott, was more than 1.3 seconds ahead of the field in qualifying for the women's 200. Her 2:00.74 clocking vaulted her from 23rd to fifth on the all-time list of the fastest American women in the event.

Hogshead, a butterfly swimmer most of her career, began training for sprint freestyle races only in January.

Her winning time of 55.99 Wednesday in the 100 freestyle was the second-fastest ever by an American woman, but she said her "main goal" coming into the meet was to win the 200.

The defending champion, Mary Wayne of Mercer Island, Wash., placed second in the qualifying at 2:02.11.

Gaines, a seven-year veteran of international competition and winner of the 100-meter freestyle Wednesday, was nearly a second ahead of the rest of the field in the heats of the 200 meters.

The finals in the men's 200 and five other events were scheduled for Thursday night.

Gaines, 25, a Winter Haven, Fla., resident who will retire from swimming after the 1984 Olympics, cruised home in 1 minute, 50.47 seconds, 97-hundredths faster than second qualifier Bruce Hayes of Dallas.

The qualifying time, however, was well off the American record of 1:48.93 held by Gaines, one of only two men in the world ever to break 1:49 in the event.

Sue Heon of Clarks Summit, Pa., led all qualifiers in the 400 individual medley at 4:50.93, but defending champion and American record holder Tracy Caulkins, a University of Florida junior, won her heat and qualified second at 4:51.89.

Baltimore mourning

Colts' exodus to Indy

United Press International
INDIANAPOLIS — Mayor William Hudnut said Thursday the Baltimore Colts will move from Baltimore and play in Indianapolis next season.

"This is obviously very good news for Indianapolis," Hudnut said at a news conference. "We are going to welcome them with open arms to Indianapolis."

Hudnut said he had not talked to Colts' owner Robert Irsay or the team attorney, Michael Chernoff, but said the Indianapolis negotiator, David Frick, "said it was all right to talk."

"This is the end of a long negotiating process," he told an afternoon news conference. "I'm sorry Baltimore hearts are broken, but I'm glad Indianapolis can rejoice."

"It's my understanding the Colts are on their way to Indianapolis. Officials of the Colts have confirmed the move pending final legal details over the next few days."

Those legal details include approval of the lease agreement given Irsay for the Hoosier Dome, the nearly completed domed stadium in downtown Indianapolis.

The Capital Improvement Board, which is the authority on lease agreements for the stadium, will meet Saturday to approve the deal. Hudnut said the agreement then would have to be signed by all parties.

"The circle is not closed," cautioned Hudnut. "We don't have a deal yet."

But he said, "This is obviously very good news for Indianapolis. We are going to welcome them with open arms to Indianapolis."

In Baltimore, moving vans and police camped out at the Colts' suburban training complex Thursday, hours after officials reported the NFL team's attorney reportedly "shook hands" on a deal to move the team.

But, Baltimore Mayor William Schaefer and Maryland Gov. Harry Hughes held out hope that something could be done to prevent the switch.

Schaefer said he had not heard from Irsay, who had promised the mayor he would tell him before a move was made final.

"I don't know if it's true," said an emotional Schaefer. "But if it is, I'm trying to retain what little dignity I have in this matter."

Said Hughes: "I'm disappointed, but I'm angry. It's as if we were being treated in good faith."

"We felt we met every reasonable demand he made. But the demands were changing," the governor said. "Maryland and the Baltimore community went beyond last mile to keep the Colts."

Meanwhile, at the state level in Annapolis, Maryland General Assembly was through legislation to allow the city of Baltimore to buy the Colts' football franchise. Hughes signed it into law.

The only question whether the move was to stop the NFL franchise from being moved to Indianapolis.

"That's a real tricky situation," said Hughes. "The law is up to the lawyers to figure out how to play it out."

The legislation would allow sports franchises among other things subject to the city's eminent domain.

Winds winning tourney

United Press International
PONTE VEDRA, Fla. — The world's best golfers battled the winds of Sawgrass in Thursday's opening round of the $800,000 Tournament Players Championship — and the winds won.

Jim Thorpe, still looking for his first victory in his seventh year on the PGA Tour, parlayed a 10-foot eagle putt into a 4-under-par 68 that gave him his first lead since he shot a 66 in the opening round of the 1981 U.S. Open.

Only two players in the star-laden 144-man field were able to break 70 while battling winds that gusted at times up to 45 miles per hour. The other was 1984 Hope Classic winner John Mahaffey, who was a stroke off Thorpe's pace with a 3-under 69.

Spain's Seve Ballesteros, who will be defending his Masters title in two weeks, was in at 70 and tied for third place with Johnny Miller and South African Nick Price, who won the World Series of Golf last year as a tour rookie.

Jay Haas, who withdrew from last year's TPC after opening with an 80, was 4-under through 15 holes Thursday then went bogey-doubled to wind up at 1-under 71. He was in a group that included defending champion Halton.

Arnold Palmer, 54 and peering in only his third major tournament this year among those who shot even 72. Three-time TPC champion Jack Nicklaus was in danger of missing Friday's 36-hole cut after opening with a 78.

Thorpe, a North Carolina native who now lives in N.Y., hit a driver and a 3-iron to reach the green on the 17th, par-5 16th to set up a 10 and 15 feet in a bogey round.

"This was definitely a round I've played that said Thorpe who has won second three times, two years, in his wireless career takes a good putt to be wind."

Thorpe noted that he died down considerably in time he made his first turn.
