Johnson did order slaying'

Former state officer says Estes right

United Press International DALLAS — Will Wilson, Texas attorney general when a federal agriculture official's death was investigated in 1962, said he believes convicted swindler Billie Sol Estes' story that Lyndon B. Johnson ordered the slaying.

Wilson, 70, could not be reached for further comment on the report in Wednesday's Dallas Morning News. The newspaper quoted Wilson, who lives in Austin, as saying federal officials did not cooperate at all in the state's investigation of the June 3, 1961, death of Henry Marshall of Bryan.

Marshall's body was found on his family ranch near the central Texas town of Franklin. He had been shot five times with a bolt-action rifle and his body contained traces of carbon monoxide. Despite that evidence, the death was ruled a suicide. A 1962 grand jury investigation failed to get the ruling overturned, but Estes last month testified under immunity before another Robertson County grand jury, which reclassified the death a homicide.

Estes has refused to comment on his testimony, but grand jury sources have said he told jurors he was present when Johnson and two other men plotted to have Marshall killed so the U.S. Agriculture Department official could not link Johnson or his aides to fraudulent cotton leases.

Wilson said he and a colleague were given only the 22-page excerpt after a private meeting among themselves, Texas District Judge John M. Barron and then-U.S. Attorney Barefoot Sanders, now a federal judge in Dallas. "The Kennedy administration was very defensive of the Agriculture Department," Wilson said. "This was the first major scandal of the administration."

Klan to 'guard' Alamo on May 1

United Press International SAN ANTONIO — A grand dragon of the Texas Ku Klux Klan vowed Wednesday that his group will guard the Alamo against communists during May Day celebrations next month. "We're planning on coming back May 1," said Grand Dragon Charles Lee. "But we're not going to have a parade. We're just going to stand outside the Alamo and protect it from communists." Lee, of Seabrook, led a group of about 35 Klansmen in a march through downtown San Antonio last June. In 1980, members of the Texas Revolutionary May Day Brigade climbed on the Alamo's roof and lowered the American flag, claiming that Texas was stolen from Mexico. Lee said Klan members have guarded the Alamo since 1982 to prevent a similar occurrence. "We want to make sure that no communists lower the flag," he said. "We feel the Alamo, with all its history, should be protected. It will be a small group of people. We'll be like all the other people there, just like any other tourist."

Lee said he was not sure if the KKK participants would wear white gowns and hoods, which could mean a change in their legal status. Deputy Chief Robert Heath said any group that is readily identifiable needs a demonstration permit whether or not plans to march. He said such a gathering of klansmen would constitute a demonstration.
