Services will be held today for a Texas A&M assistant professor and a Texas A&M student who were killed Saturday night in a two-vehicle accident near Plantersville.

Memorial services for Dr. Roderick Ziemer, 31, will be held at 4 p.m. today at the A&M Methodist Church. Ziemer was an assistant professor in the Department of Agricultural Economics.

Funeral services for Michele Neckar, 21, will be held at 10 a.m. today at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Waco. Neckar was a student working on her master's degree in land economics and real estate.

The accident occurred about 7 p.m. Saturday when the eastbound car driven by Ziemer and Neckar's westbound car collided on Texas 105 one mile south of Plantersville, said a spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Three other Texas A&M students, who were passengers in Neckar's car, were injured.

Lisa Lee Janosek, 25, of Corpus Christi and Karen Ann Cleavelin, 23, of Waco suffered minor injuries. The other passenger, Michele Rene Fredericks, 22, of Schulenberg, was transferred to a hospital in La Grange where she is listed in stable condition.

Ziemer is survived by his mother, Eiko Ziemer, and a sister, Pamela Ziemer, both of Augusta, Georgia.

A scholarship fund has been established in memory of Ziemer. The scholarship will benefit students in the field of econometrics.

Grannies released from jail

SHERMAN — Two elderly grandmothers, jailed since last Wednesday for refusing to say where another woman has hidden $45,000, were released from custody Monday pending court hearing.

Evelyn Hertzog and Dorothy Lindsay were jailed for contempt of court when they refused to answer questions at a competency hearing for Mary Bader, 55, of Sherman.

Grayson County Sheriff Jack Scoll said U.S. District Judge

William Steger in Tyler ordered the women's release Monday, pending a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus. The women were released on $500 personal recognizance bonds.

Federal Magistrate Roger Sanders in Sherman will hold a hearing and make a recommendation to Steger whether to grant or deny the writ. No date for the hearing had been set.

Bader's son, Walter, was appointed temporary guardian of his mother's estate in January and is now seeking custody of

The two 65-year-old grandmothers were jailed last Wednesday by County Judge Lloyd Perkins after Bader's son's attorney placed them on the stand and asked them where the money was. Both women admitted they knew, but both refused to say anything more.

Hertzog is Bader's sister and Lindsay is Hertzog's next-door neighbor.

Joe Lindsay visited his wife in the Grayson County jail Sunday and said the women, who are housed in a cell by themselves, are in good spirits.

"I'm not crazy about the whole situation," Lindsay said. "I don't really want to get involved. But I'll say this, I think Bader is a long way from being crazy. She seems just fine to me."

Bader said Sunday she considered her son's attempt to take control of her estate improper.

Faculty Senate approves grant, loan and scholarship guidelines

The Texas A&M Faculty Senate voted Monday evening to approve guidelines for accepting scholarship, grant and loan donations.

The guidelines, suggested by the Academic Affairs Committee, were approved after the Senate debated controversial points for more than an hour. The Senate amended the original suggestions, replacing one acceptable selection standard.

The Senate approved the suggestions to provide Texas A&M with a list of acceptable and unacceptable stipulations to scholarship, grant and loan donations. Under the guidelines approved by the Senate, selection standards which may be specified by donors are:

- Academic record, including grade point ratio, high school record and standard test scores.
- Financial need as determined by the Office of Student Financial Aid.
- Course of study or college major.
- Classification (freshman, upperclassman, etc.).
- Any criteria designed to enhance Affirmative Action by Texas A&M.

Selection standards which may be stated as preferences of donors (but which may not be listed as stipulations) include letters of recommendation, U.S. citizenship, Texas residency, geographic area (if a substantial number of students come from that area), demonstration of leadership skills or extracurricular activities and participation in recognized University activities or organizations.

Under the approved guidelines, Texas A&M will not accept scholarship, grant or loan donations if stipulations will exclude students because of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, educationally unrelated handicaps, personal characteristics, appearance or marital status. Other unacceptable selection standards include required participation in varsity athletics (except funds administered through the Athletic Department) and designated relatives.

A recommendation to coordinate scholarships and awards to prevent students from receiving more money than necessary to cover school expenses was approved by the Senate. The Senate also approved a recommendation to reduce the tuition of non-resident students, including foreign students, who receive competitive fellowships or scholarships of $200 or more.

The Senate approved eight items recommended by the University Curriculum Committee. New courses approved by the Senate include Civil Engineering 202, Surveying, Geography 302, Military Geography, History 356, Twentieth Century Japan, History 364, History of American Technology and Engineering, 1607-Present and History 436, Stuart England, 1603-1714.

Proposed changes in prerequisites for two classes were approved by the Senate. The ability to program computers will replace Computer Science 201, Computer Training for Engineers as a prerequisite for Mathematics 417, Numerical Analysis I. Mathematics 417 (or the equivalent) or approval of the instructor will replace Computer Science 201 and Mathematics 308, Differential Equations, as a prerequisite for Mathematics 418, Numerical Analysis II.

The Senate approved title changes for four courses, number changes for two courses and description changes for six courses. The Senate approved changes in hours of lecture, laboratory and credit for Biology 304, Comparative Biology of Plants, Biology 453, Plant Anatomy and Philosophy 375, Philosophy of the Visual Media. The Senate also approved a recommendation to rename the Department of Plant Sciences the Department of Plant Pathology and Microbiology.

A number of changes were approved for the curricula in Dairy Science. The Senate approved a recommendation to cross-list Dairy Science 306, Sensory Evaluation of Food, with Food and Science Technology 306, Sensory Evaluation of Food, Dairy Science 307, Sensory Evaluation of Food, was withdrawn from the curricula. The title of Dairy Science 400, Animal Science Industry Studies, was changed to Dairy Science Industry Studies, and permission of the instructor was added as a requirement.

The Senate approved a recommendation to make computer applications an elective in the Junior year of the curricula for the production option of Dairy Science.
