

Ten people discovered murdered in New York

United Press International
NEW YORK — Ten people, at least seven of them children, were shot and killed Sunday in a Brooklyn apartment, authorities said. A baby was discovered crawling unharmed on the floor.
 The victims were four boys, three girls and two adult women. Police had not immediately determined the age of the sixth female victim, said Police Inspector Robert Burke.
 Police said they had no motive in the killings, but that they did not appear to be drug-related.

 The bodies were discovered about 7:30 p.m. Sunday by Carmen Rossi, owner of Rossi Bread Bakery located next door to the two-family house in the East New York section of Brooklyn, Burke said.
 Rossi told police a man ran out of the downstairs apartment screaming for help. When Rossi went inside the house, he found the bodies of the women and children lying on couches in the living room and kitchen, police said. Each had been shot and killed.

 Rossi also found a baby crawling on the floor unharmed.
 The child, said to be about one or two years old, was taken to Baptist Medical Center for examination and then to the 75th police precinct, police said.
 The victims were believed to be Hispanic and apparently were shot "sometime during the day," a police spokesman said. All ten were dead when police arrived on the scene.
 The three-room railroad apartment was on the ground floor of the house located in a predominantly Hispanic low-income neighborhood.

Car rental site in Dallas

Bankrupt firm begins anew

United Press International
DALLAS — Jartran, the truck and trailer rental company still emerging from Chapter 11 bankruptcy status, is carefully entering the car rental market.
 The Miami-based company will announce Monday that Dallas is the site of its first car rental center in a location not far from Dallas-Fort Worth Airport and the busy Dallas Market Center.
 It will be a modest start with about a dozen vehicles, Chairman J. Kevin Murphy said, but Jartran plans to have about 100 vehicles by July 15, ready for the midsummer demands of the Republican National Convention.

 "What we're doing is buying used cars at auction," Murphy said in a telephone interview. "There will be a mix of Chrysler, Ford and GM products ranging between two and five years of age."
 Jartran's car rental fees will be relatively inexpensive, priced at about $15 a day with unlimited mileage, he said. Jartran also will rent pickups for about $20 a day and Murphy thinks they will be popular in the Dallas-Fort Worth market.
 Murphy, 56, is familiar with the Dallas area. He lived in the city for six years where he established and ran CTS Services Inc., a software firm. The expanding economy of Dallas was one reason it was selected for the start of Jartran's car-rental venture.

 But another reason is that a Jartran subsidiary, a trucking firm, has a major maintenance facility in Dallas. The car rental outlet will be at the truck firm's location on Irving Boulevard in west Dallas.
 "We'll keep expanding. Our major focus will be in the Sun Belt. In three years we expect to have about 100 locations," he said.
 Jartran will seek a niche in the non-airport market. A major effort will be to get business through insurance adjusters, who often must provide rental cars for customers whose cars are being repaired. Murphy said Jartran also will target dealers who must provide mobiles to customers who are being repaired under warranty agreements.

 Jartran was founded in the late 1970s by Jim Jartran, who previously had a Ryder Truck Rentals, and into bankruptcy in 1981. Jartran was acquired by Frank B. Hall & Co., a large publicly held insurance firm based in Elmwood, N.Y. One of the terms of the acquisition was that Jartran had to get itself out of business without using the funds of the new parent.
 "The Chapter 11 proceedings have been concluded. We're expecting the judge to order any day," Murphy said.

Palm Sunday celebrated under increased security

United Press International
JERUSALEM — Thousands of Christians pilgrims, guarded by an increased security force following terrorist attacks in Israel, sang and waved palms Sunday along the path that Jesus took on his triumphant entry into Jerusalem.
 A police spokesman said security was increased for 10 days of religious observance that began Sunday and include the eight-day Jewish Passover and the Western and Eastern Christian Holy Weeks.
 The 1,000-member Jerusalem police force was on increased duty assisted by an undisclosed number of volunteers, border police and soldiers in the wake of recent terrorist attacks, the spokesman said.
 Despite the security, the annual procession was larger and more enthusiastic than the usual 5,000 to 7,000 who make the two-hour walk from Bethphage to St. Anne's Church.

 With dark clouds stacking up in the west and heavy winds, the crowd, singing hymns and carrying palm branches, left the church at Bethphage, where the Gospel says Jesus mounted a colt for his ride into Jerusalem. Sheep grazed just behind the church.
 The crowd walked slowly up the eastern slope of the Mount of Olives, past the Church of the Ascension, down the western slope past the Garden of Gethsemane where Jesus prayed in agony until arrested only four days after his entry into Jerusalem.
 The marchers then wound through the Kidron Valley, into St. Stephen's gate and ended at St. Anne's.
 "How do I find words to express what I so deeply feel?" Evangeline Gantu, one of a group of 28 from Monterrey, Mexico, said of the procession.

 Brother Gilbert Sinden, Adelaide, Australia, director of studies at St. George's School, Jerusalem, said last year's procession was lower because of the horror of massacres by Christian militias in the Beirut-Beirwan neighborhoods of St. and Chatilla.
 "There are people from many countries, but the words of the procession are of local Christians" from east and west, Brother Gilbert said.
 Among those who traveled the furthest were Msgr. Paul Courty, who led a group of pilgrims from the West African nations of Ivory Coast, Benin and Benin. A group of 85 from Madeira, Portugal,
