

McEnroe sweeps WCT

By DAVE SCOTT
Sports Writer

DALLAS — In the beginning there were 12, but there might as well just have been one — John McEnroe. McEnroe easily defeated Jimmy Connors in straight sets Sunday to win the 12-man World Championship of Tennis finals in Dallas.

McEnroe began the match by breaking Connors' serve in the first game and then jumping out to a 3-0 lead. Both players felt that McEnroe's fast start was a key in his victory.

"He got started from the very beginning and went for broke right away," Connors said. "And I just never got started."

Sunday's victory was the fourth WCT championship for McEnroe — his second straight. "I got off to a quick start and that helped," McEnroe said. "He (Connors) was a bit sluggish, I guess."

Although Connors did play better as the match progressed, he never challenged McEnroe. Connors never broke McEnroe's serve and only forced eight games into deuce, of which McEnroe won six. Connors has never had a big serve, but Sunday it was particularly ineffective.

"I wasn't getting too many first serves in," Connors said, "and my second serve was falling short so I was giving him all the advantages he wanted."

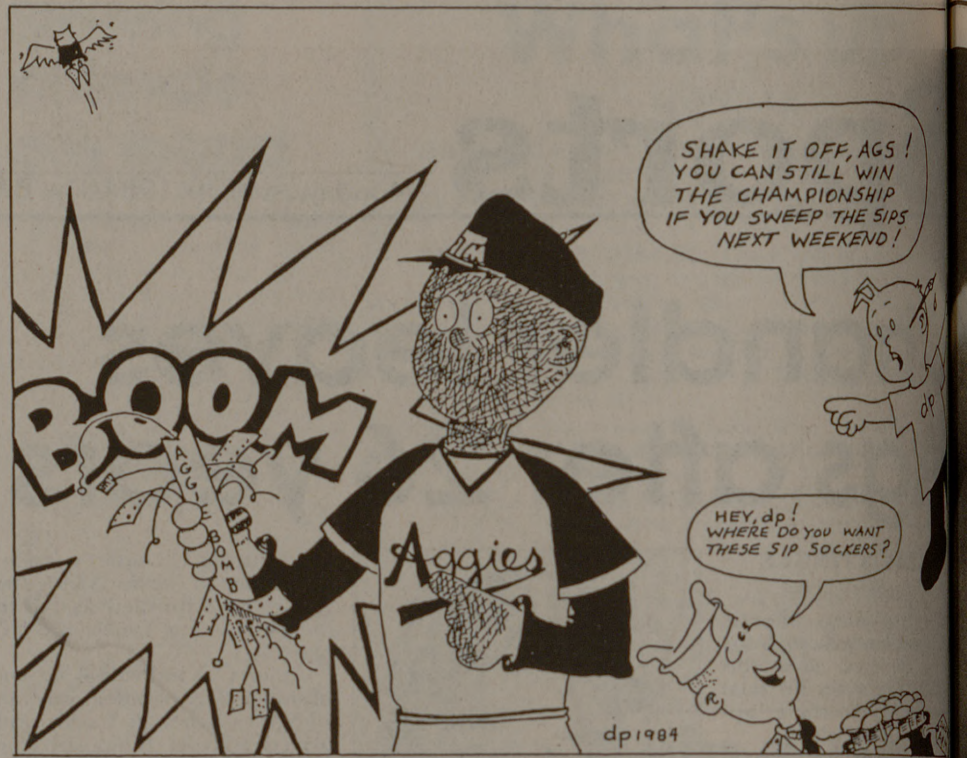

And McEnroe hardly needed any advantages. He is at the top of his game right now, having lost only three sets all year, so it probably would have taken an extraordinary effort by Connors to beat him.

Earlier in the week, McEnroe defeated Vitas Gerulaitis in the quarter-finals, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3. And in the semi-finals he downed former University of Texas star Kevin Curren, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4. Neither Gerulaitis nor Curran were able to break his serve. Because of the ease with which he won the tournament, McEnroe never got into any serious trouble with the officials or the crowd. However, in the finals match against Connors, he was warned once for obscenity and in the third set he kicked the scoreboard after missing a shot.

The near capacity crowd of about 16,000 wasted no time in booing and harrasing him. After the match, McEnroe voiced his displeasure about the crowd.

"The crowd was on Jimmy's side and they wanted to see the match last a little longer," McEnroe said, "but when they try to bring me down, that's a little ridiculous. I was playing well and they should appreciate that."

Casper, Brewer win at Legends

United Press International

AUSTIN — Gay Brewer birdied four of the first six holes Sunday and together with teammate Billy Casper hung on to record their most lucrative victory ever — a three-shot win in the Legends of Golf.

It was the first title on the seniors tour for Brewer and his first of any kind since he captured the Canadian Open a dozen years ago.

"It's been a long time I've done anything like this," said Brewer, who made all six of his team's birdies Sunday and 16 out of 24 for the week.

Casper, meanwhile, won for the second consecutive week, having claimed the Senior PGA Tour Roundup tourney in Arizona last Sunday.

Each member of the championship team received $50,000 — the largest single check either of them has won in a combined 58 years of playing professional golf.

Brewer and Casper fired a final round of 5-under-par 65 at the rolling Onion Creek Club course for a 72-hole total of 22-under 258.

Miller Barber and Julius Boros, who began the day one shot behind the eventual winners, could manage only a 67 in mild, blustery conditions Sunday to finish at 261. They each won $28,500.

Defending champions Rod Funseth and Roberto de Vicenzo finished in third at 16-under 264 after a 68 Sunday with each of them winning $16,500.

There was a three-way tie for fourth at 15-under 265 among the teams of Don January-Dave Marr (who shot a 64 Sunday), Kel Nagle-Peter Thomason (65) and Charlie Sifford-Bill Collins (65).

Arnold Palmer and Dow Finsterwald, who were 5-over after the first two days, produced the lowest final 36 holes in the field and finished at 7-under.

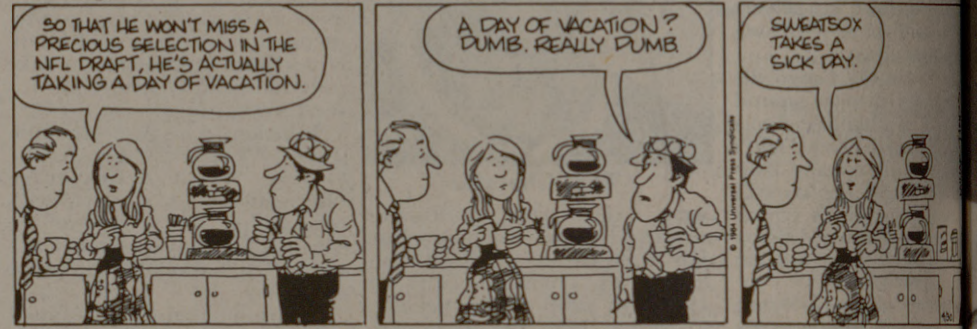

Brewer started the day by making an eight-foot putt for birdie at the par-5 opening hole and then curled in a 25-foot birdie putt at the third.

He birdied the fourth and sixth holes as well to put his team in command.

"He actually could have birdied the first six holes," said Casper, who had teamed with Brewer two previous years at the Legends. "All I did was ride around in the cart all day."

Aggie Olympic hopefuls

Swimmers aim for trials

By BARBARA BROWN
Reporter

In a sport where tenths of a second can be the difference between winning or losing, A&M has a lot of potential. Six Aggie swimmers — one woman and five men — have qualified for the Olympic Trials.

And Coach Mel Nasr says others can still qualify for the trials. "There are several team members who are only fractions of a second away from qualifying times," he says.

The trials for the United States Olympic team will be held June 25-30 in Indianapolis. There will be three events each day and the top eight in each event will compete in the finals that evening. In the past, the top three made the Olympic team, but this year only the top two in the finals will be on the team, Nash says.

Jody Tanner qualified for the 100-meter freestyle. Tanner, a 1984 All-America, says the main difference in preparing for the Olympic Trials is the shorter time to train. "Usually a season is from September to March and we only have from April to June to get ready for the trials," she says.

Kevin Londrigan qualified in the 100 meter backstroke and John Heldenfels in the 100-meter butterfly. But Heldenfels decided not to attend the trials.

"I don't have a realistic shot at making the finals," he said. "I need to get some experience working in my major this summer."

Two Aggie swimmers will be competing for other countries.

Mark Viminizt, a native of Vancouver, British Columbia, says competing in the Olympics has been his goal since he was a child. This is his third time to qualify in the 100-meter and 200-meter breaststrokes.

Viminizt says there is a big difference in collegiate swimming and Olympic swimming. "The difference in the 25-yard pool used in College competition and the 50-meter Olympic pool is the difference in length and day," he says. "The strokes are totally different also."

Roberto Salas is already a member of the Venezuelan Olympic team, where he ranked second. A native of Venezuela, Salas will be competing in the 100 meter and 200 meter butterfly.

Another All-America swimmer, Chris O'Neil, will be fulfilling a childhood dream when he competes in the 100 meter and 200 meter butterfly. "I was a kid I always dreamed about it and wanted to go when I dropped out of swimming for awhile, the most kind of died out," he said. "Then when I started back, my dream picked up again."

"Just saying you're going to the Olympic Trials is an honor in itself. I'd like to think I have a pretty good chance — my coach thinks I do. If I could just make the finals it would be a dream come true."

Hogs sweep Frogs

United Press International

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — Rightfielder Tony Laird led off the bottom of the 10th inning with a home run giving Arkansas a 6-5 victory and a sweep of a three-game series with Texas Christian University Sunday.

Laird's home run gave the Razorbacks their only sweep of an SWC series this season. The Hogs finished their conference season with a 12-9 record, and are 37-13 overall.

TCU took a 3-0 first inning lead. But the Hogs got two runs in the bottom of the first, and took the lead in the third as King singled in one run and later scored.

Arkansas stretched the lead to 5-3 on Laird's RBI groundout in the fifth but TCU held back.

First baseman Phil Heston scored in the sixth on Don Watkins' RBI single, then led off in the tying run in the seventh with a single off pitcher Keith Campbell.

Many people call me at DoubleDave's and they say "Hey, what do you have on special?"

I like to say "DoubleDave's is always special."

Then they say something like

"Why, you're a groovy kind of guy, DoubleDave."

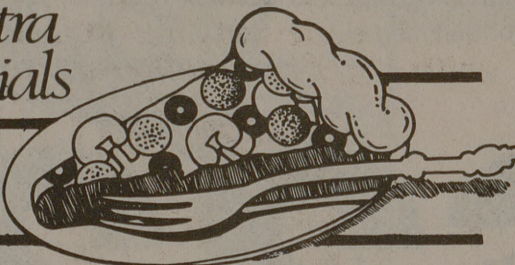

Since I can't argue with that, I smile meekly and take their order.
