

Local tennis clinic to be conducted

Local Tennis Director Lynette Turek has announced that a National Tennis Week instructional clinic for players of all abilities will be conducted Saturday at Central Park in College Station from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.

The clinic is designed to introduce tennis to players just starting the game and to improve the skills of those who already play.

As part of National Tennis Week, a Lipton Iced Tea Mixed Doubles qualifying tournament has been scheduled for June 16-17 at Bee Creek Park in College Station. Details of the nationwide, amateur tournament are available at several locations:

- College Station Community Center, 1300 Jersey St., C.S.
- Central Park, 100 Krenek Tap Road at East Bypass, C.S.
- Memorial Student Center
- Brazos Center, East Bypass at Briarcrest Dr., Bryan
- Tri State Sports Center, Townshire Shopping Center, Bryan

The winners of each qualifying tournament proceed to one of the 128 sectional events in July and August.

Baylor basketball loses Stern, Capps

WACO — Two Baylor University basketball players will not see action next year because of low grade point averages suffered during the past season.

Baylor head coach Jim Haller said Wednesday that guards James Stern and Russ Capps will not be in the lineup for the 1984-85 season.

Haller admitted that the loss of Stern and Capps to grades did not come as a complete shock.

"This did not catch our coaching staff by surprise since both players were notified in mid-semester that they had to cut their grade-point deficiency," Haller said.

Stern was Baylor's leading scorer last season, averaging 13.2 points per game. A broken foot kept Stern from suiting up in nine games, but he still led the team with 61 assists and 38 steals.

Stern, a junior, was considered the focal point of Haller's attempts to rebuild the Baylor basketball program. Whether or not Stern will transfer to another school or remain at Baylor is not known.

Capps, a part-time starter throughout most of '84, averaged 5.5 points a game and 2.1 rebounds.

Sheehan, Carner vie for bonus

United Press International
MALVERN, Pa. — Patty Sheehan and JoAnne Carner will be shooting for a $500,000 bonus beginning Thursday when a star-studded field tees off in the $350,000 LPGA Kids' Classic at White Manor Country Club outside of Philadelphia.

The tournament is sponsored by McDonald's Corp.

Sheehan and Carner are eligible for a $500,000 bonus under an arrangement among sponsors of this tournament, the LPGA Championship and the Corning Classic. Anyone winning all three tournaments would take home $1.5 million and a single winner of two tournaments would earn $500,000.

Sheehan used a sparkling 63 last week to cruise to a 10-stroke victory in the LPGA Championship at Mason, Ohio. Carner captured the Corning Classic the week before.

Sheehan, the year's third-leading money winner with more than $112,000, was involved in a similar situation last year at the hilly 6,283-yard, par-72 White Manor layout, needing a victory to gain an extra half-million dollars. She said Wednesday she has learned from that experience.

"I won't think about it as much," she said. "You have to bake the cake before you can put frosting on it and that's what I have to keep saying. But I have to play aggressive golf and make birdies. The bonus doesn't mean much unless you win, so right now I'm only thinking about winning."

NHL owners talk trades

United Press International
MONTREAL — The National Hockey League opened its annual meeting Wednesday with most of the trade hawking taking place in the corridors, where general managers tried to hammer out deals for young draft talent.

"There's going to be some trades made, I can't see how there won't be," said Minnesota General Manager Lou Nanne, one of many executives who would like to make a deal for one of the top picks in Saturday's amateur draft. "There wasn't much action before the (trading) deadline so you should see some here."

Most of the general managers were hesitant about naming players they were looking for, but Nanne, whose team picks in the No. 13 spot, said he had been talking to the New Jersey Devils about the rights to their choice, the No. 2 overall.

Nanne noted Stars' high-scoring forward Dino Ciccarelli was available but said the Devils weren't interested.

"We can afford to give up some scorers, but draft picks aren't easy to come by," he said.

It seems to be a foregone conclusion at these meetings that the Pittsburgh Penguins will use the No. 1 pick to grab the much heralded Mario Lemieux of the Laval Voisins.

The 18-year-old Quebec Junior League scoring sensation, named this past season's Canadian Junior Player of the Year, has begun contract negotiations with Pittsburgh, but has run into snags. Those difficulties have led to speculation he might be dispensible if the right package were offered.

Pittsburgh has two other first-round choices, the ninth obtained in a trade with Winnipeg and 16th from Philadelphia.

But Penguins' General Manager Eddie Johnston discounted the speculation, insisting Pittsburgh will draft and sign the Laval superstar.

"I'm making an effort to trade and 16 if I can get the right deal."

After New Jersey, the Los Angeles Kings, Toronto Maple Leafs, Montreal Canadiens (using Hamilton choice) and Chicago Black Hawks will choose.

While Lemieux is generally expected to be the pick of the crop, number of others are not rated as far behind.

Included in the most sought-after category are Ontario Hockey League forwards Kirk Muller from the Guelph Platers, Shawn Boon from the Kitchener Rangers and J. Olczyk from the U.S. Olympic team. Other top choices are likely to be defencemen Craig Redmond from Canada's Olympic team, Al Iafra from the Belleville Bulls and Sylvain Cote from the Quebec Remparts.

Since New Jersey has refused to deal its choice, a number of teams have been wooing Rogatien Vachon, the Kings' general manager, in an effort to get the third selection.
