2 from UT suspects in robbery

United Press International

AUSTIN — Two University of Texas students are considered suspects in a series of nine motel robberies in the Austin and Round Rock areas, police said Tuesday.

The two, arrested Monday night in connection with a holdup of an Austin motel, were identified as Joseph William Center of Corpus Christi and Bryan Wayne Geer of Mineral Wells, both 21.

Police said Center, a government major, and Geer, who is seeking a degree in radio, television and film, were arrested about 25 minutes after the La Quinta Motor Inn in south Austin was robbed.

Robbery Lt. John Stewart said the two roommates are suspects in a string of motel robberies dating from April.

Stewart quoted the students as saying they needed money to support themselves in school, and that part of the money taken in the armed robberies had gone to finance a film Geer was making.

Mexican travelers harassed

United Press International

SAN ANTONIO — Flying the friendly skies over Texas apparently led to unhappy landings for some Mexican travelers, who claim they were harassed by immigration officials at the San Antonio International Airport.

Mexican Consul General Raul Gonzalez Galarza said Tuesday that recent complaints about U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service officers may prompt him to advise his countrymen to stay clear of San Antonio.

Gonzalez and INS District Director Richard Casillas are investigating a June 8 incident, in which a Mexican citizen traveling to a wedding in Austin charged he was harassed, threatened and had his camera taken by INS officers.

Robert Shivers, an immigration law attorney in San Antonio, said the airport has developed a bad reputation among Mexican businessmen and that the incident was probably not unique.

"I have several clients who simply will not fly into San Antonio anymore," Shivers said. "They would rather come into the U.S. through Houston. If businessmen start hearing about this, and word about this type of thing travels fast in Mexico, then they'll stay away from San Antonio."

Shivers said there could be many Mexicans who did not know enough about the immigration system to complain and were wrongly returned to Mexico by the INS.

Mexicana Airlines spokesman Jessie Castillo said his company has received increasing complaints about the treatment of Mexicans by airport INS officers.

The incident under investigation involved Carlos Hernandez Alegria, 22, an advertising copy writer from Mexico City.

Hernandez claimed he was harassed by the INS, detained because he had no money, then threatened when he demanded to go before an immigration law judge.

PUC wants utility request denied

United Press International

AUSTIN — A Public Utility Commission hearing examiner Tuesday recommended the PUC deny a request by three utility companies to build a 155-mile high-voltage power line in East Texas.

The PUC has been asked to grant permission for the construction of the line from the South Texas Nuclear Project near Bay City to a Southwestern Electric Power Co. plant in Walker County.

The proposed line, which would cross six counties, is the first of its type requested in Texas and would be only one of five such lines in the United States.

PUC Administrative Law Judge Angela Demerele said "unanswered health questions" prompted her recommendation that the request by Houston Lighting and Power Co., Central Power and Light Co., and SWEPCO be denied.

The line would cross Camp Allen, a camp and conference center of the Episcopal Diocese of Texas. Testimony in the case showed more than 12,000 people utilize the facility each year.

"It is the examiner's conviction that the health concerns associated with this line are so questionable that the need for the line cannot outweigh the possible negative health implications associated with it," Demerele said.

She said the utility companies' "incorrect" when they state that "preponderance of the evidence" shows no deleterious health effects from the line. The full three-member PUC is expected to make a decision in the next few days, possibly in late July or August.

1-day-old baby taken from nursery

Missing baby found unharmed

United Press International

GREAT BEND, Kan. — Police Tuesday found in a St. John home an infant who had been taken from a nursery at Central Kansas Medical Center the day before.

The child was not harmed, a police dispatcher said.

Two people were taken into custody, said Police Chief Dean Akings. He declined to release their names, pending the filing of charges in Barton County District Court. No charges had been filed by late Tuesday.

The pair was taken into custody after St. John police notified Great Bend police that the infant was spotted in a home, officials said.

The infant, Penny A. Gardner, was 1 day old when nurses noticed her missing from the nursery around 5 p.m. Monday, Akings said. An emergency room nurse said she saw a woman in her late 20s or early 30s running from the hospital carrying a baby at about the same time the infant was discovered missing, he said.

Neither Akings nor St. John police officials could be contacted for further details in the case. "I feel so happy," said a woman identified as Kaye Gardner upon being reunited with her daughter at the hospital.

Before finding the infant, police released a composite drawing of a woman seen dashing from the hospital with an infant about the age of a newborn. Penny was discovered missing by police who believe the child was Penny Gardner. Along with her husband, Mrs. Gardner earlier this month fled in Great Bend after Gardner cured a job.
